My time at portia welding rod

My Time in Portia Presents Ideas Here's a clean, printed cheat gift list. Joystick (12), Peach amulet (10), Welding Helmet (10), Roses (10), Work. Emperor Wise Fish (20), Deluxe Fish Kit (18), Classic fishing rod (15),. I love how some skills have changed over the last few months, making it a little harder to solve as there are not a few that are clearly the best (though, can still use a bit of work). First, some skills that don't seem to work, or I can't figure out how: Custom discounts – Doesn't seem to be doing anything now. Prices still seem to be dictated by the daily market price. The Business Mind skill seems to work, with up to 8% extra on sales, but I haven't seen any change with custom discounts.Intimate interaction – I think it should change how many times you can cuddle/massage/kiss a day, but it seems to be 3 each every day, regardless of skill. Great player – It didn't seem to work at level 1.I had 4 points at Happy Camper and 1 in Big Player, but just started with 10 action points. Going to 4 points in Big Player and 1 in Happy Camper seemed to be running on action points now, but I'm not sure that 1 point in Happy Camper makes a difference at all. And on the proposals. A lot of skills are worth getting, but there are a few that probably need to be strangled to also make them attractive in my opinion. Here's this list:FIGHT SKILLSEvasive – It would be extremely handy in fights if you couldn't dodge a roll without enough stamina. But since you can dodge a roll with anything but 0 stamina, it's a pointless skill. If this is fixed, so you need enough stamina, it will make the boss's fight a little harder if you don't have that skill. So it's probably best to replace that field at all if you don't want tougher fights (which I think a lot of players don't want for this semi-random game). Pain Dealer – I haven't played far enough for a couple of patches to see a new poison weapon, but I can already say that compared to direct buff attacks, the poison doesn't look worth it as it's already slow. Adding a duration of 25% to an already slow one? Adding 50% more damage from poison over the same amount of time through this skills may allow me to consider poisonous weapons. Or either allow them to do the same damage nowadays in 50% of the time. COLLECT SKILLSOn the problem here as most can be very useful. But for two top-level skills, Charm Overload can use the best description and Born to Ride used just that, once uphill? Maybe it will increase the maximum statistics on each mountain by 10-20%. It would be worthy of a higher level of skill. SOCIAL SKILLSDard - Needs a boost compared to Smooth Talk. Smooth Talk is a guaranteed +1/day regardless of whether you give them a gift or not. Giver only +1.5/day on average, and only if you have a gift for them. If you want to highlight the best gifts, it should add probably probably (better than Smooth Talk for favorite gifts). If you want to stress by simply giving any/cheaper gifts, it should be either +2 or +2-3. Since you can smoothly talk 20 people/day easily, it should be a better skill for those who you give gifts to. Happy Camper/Big Player were the best when they were in separate groups. In the same group there will always be a clear mathematical maximum for how many points you have to put in each. Swat - Even if you try to give everyone in town or get married many times, it's rare that you're not propositioning. Perhaps replace it with a skill that instead affects assistants. Intimate interactions - Very good skill if it worked as (probably) anticipated.+1-5 relationship points/day. A little stamina from massage is nice. Maybe kisses can give a buff. The effects can be quite powerful if you could only use 1/day if you don't have that skill (which can be up to 6/day). I'm pro commenting on the point of the poison weapon you're making. I didn't use a sword or a stew. But the rifle, in my opinion, is very good. I can take out jumping fish, poison spray mobs and flamethrowers with 2-3 hits from a rifle, sometimes one shot of them. This is despite the fact that the nominal rating of damage to the rifle seems quite low, looking at the statistics of things. Maybe wind through several levels of ruins unnecessarily heals. But in terms of skills, I wasn't bothered to invest anything there. I used the sword a long time ago. The physical damage really surpassed the little poison damage. It makes more sense with varying weapons, since you can kite a bit. But still, the nominal damage you mentioned probably will have to do with the fact that you have a base attack that doesn't include a weapon. That's why spiked sword practice can be one of the best weapons because extremely high speed criticism, plus high base attack is otherwise often better. So, in other words, was poison damage over time helpful at all, really? Also, I just noticed that you can put over 5 points per tier in skills now. The room was quite big and comfortable. So that changes some of my comparisons since you can get all of them. That said, I think the aspects of balance I mentioned don't change. But having Happy Camper/Big Player on one level is good. We are happy to show you my time at Portia Coach and guide to using it!
