CaptTrouble wrote a review on September 2020 in Wisconsin, Wisconsin7,458 contributions274 helped my husband and I go to see ballet Hispanics here on a rainy October night. We saw them Northerup Auditorium in Minneapolis; We were so impressed that my husband surprised me with a ticket to the main floor near the stage. Ballet Hispanic is based in New York City and is a dance school as well as a touring ballet team. They are impressive! We have seen them three times now and they are not disappointed. Some of their numbers are very serious and emotional, others humorous. This was another excellent performance! This season, we've been supporting our members at Rialto and we've performed a lot. Rialto is a very good concert venue with good acoustics and comfortable seating. The seats are wider and more supportive than you can find at the Cobb Energy Center or Symphony Hall. The place is very clean and parking is a short walk away but it seems a long way off on a rainy night! Overall we were very impressed with this place in the many concerts we went to here. Attend rialto series events because there were other events other than the same quality during the holidays.... Georgia State jazz bands are very good and they play with some outstanding vocal and instrumental celebrities. It is hard to believe that so much talent is in such a young man. We were season ticket holders and were very happy to get a good seat to see him. He is so very happy to be booked! The students put on an amazing show. There was singing, dancing and music from the orchestra and eventually there were cookies, hot chocolate and coffee for all guests. Parking was also very easy. We are so happy that we found this event and hope to attend again next year.... II: Dance last night in Rialto. He surprised me with the front row, a near-perfect center in front of the stage. We were ticketed to Row D, but row A was removed via C (perhaps a pit orchestra from another production). So, front row seats to see the amazing Ayl! III! Aly II is athletic and innovative. Their choice of music is excellent as well as provocative. At the first break, we found music from production on Spotify and saved it in our playlist. It was Good! Dancers... Dancers are better athletes than 90% (or more) of the people you see in professional sports. And I take it very seriously that I'm a big fan of World Cup skiers. The choreography was innovative and fascinating. I've seen this troupe do many creative lifts and hold what I've never seen before. Footwork is complicated and solo is unbelievable. Especially the joy to see up close. The costumes helped convey emotions that blended with the music. I especially fell in love with the first piece, Psukhe's costume. I wish I could post a lively red costume photo, but no photos are allowed during the show. I took a picture of the company on their end curtain call though. Rialto is a great place for contemporary dance. It's not too big, it's not too small, it's kept very clean. At the top of all entrances and theatre stairs, there are several guides so you can sit quickly. One thing that would be good is that at least red wine and white wine for medium would be cash bars, but it can be more problematic than it's worth because intermediate readpoints for dance are relatively short. There was also a subscriber's lounge downstairs with red and white wine and appetizers. This was very good for pre-concert discussions with administration officials. All in all, it is a very pleasant and friendly environment in Rialto. Free parking is available on the nearby ramp and verification is free at the desk inside rialto's main entrance. It can take a long time to fill up quickly and get out, unless you know the tips and tricks!.... Experience date: October 2019
