It was a week before the conversation died again, and another week after that until the last Golden Trio had their moment to shine. He sat in the Great Hall, biting his lips and looking at the man he wanted most - Blaise Zabini. And the man stared straight back, never looking away. how much Ron was choked up and kept trying for himself. Finally, Bles stood chasing the entire hall before dragging Ron to his feet, grabbing him by the tie and pulling him in a kiss. Hall immediately started talking again, loudly, some even cheering. Bles unleashed a tie around his neck, breaking a kiss and raising Ron's tie from around him before switching them right in front of the whole school. In later years, Harry would be proud to be the reason everyone ended up together. Hermione rolled her eyes, and Pansy complained that her friend wasn't there to protect her when they first came out.
