As head of the transportation squad in Salt Lake City he managed reminders that would stand on small platforms and traffic time to go each way. He wanted to create a traffic control mode that didn't require police officers to stand in severe weather for a long time, and he put together a simple two-minded signal that could be controlled from a covered cabin. Five years after Wire invented the traffic light, Salt Lake City became the first interconnected traffic signaling system in the United States.Aiheeseen liittyvät sivut44 t. tykkää tästäIt is the official UHP Facebook account.
