Read and Answer ProseTask:For this task, you will actively read and answer some questions about the short story "Borders" by Thomas King. King was born in California, but he has spent much of his teaching and writing of life in Canada and the Upper Midwest. From Cherokee as well as the descendants of Germany and Ireland, King has used many of his works to explore the diversity of Native American life today. The Borders short story raises questions about citizenship, community, and identity. Click here for a copy of the story. First, actively read stories using the SQ3R strategy. Use a graphics organizer. Use this note and by referring to a story, answer the following questions. Be sure to answer in complete sentences using the correct English.1.Build plot guidelines that indicate the structure of the Border plot. Watch the video below to review 5 sections of the plot. You need to have at least 7 events on your plot guidelines.2. Thomas King included some flashbacks in the story. Specify the flashback, quote an example from the story, and then describe the purpose of the flashback you selected.3. Think about the 3 main characters: mother, boy (narrator), and Laetitia. List three character properties for each and provide evidence from the story (quotes). You can use the list of character features found in Class Notes at the top of the course.4. Discuss the conflicts in the story? Identify types of conflicts. Why does it arise? How is it resolved? Is the resolution realistic? Do you agree or disagree with conflict resolution? 5. In a clear and coherent paragraph of 200-300 words, discussing Mail's statements is an inspiration to all of us. In refusing to identify himself as a Canadian, do you think the mother made a political statement, intending to be the reason? Or did he follow his heart? Or is he just dysmanfil? Do you agree that he is an inspiration to all of us? Make references to text in your paragraphs. Use the ACE-it paragraph writing strategy described on the previous page.
