The desire to escape gardener crouch is part of the reason for the resurg revival of raised beds in gardening. But if you're not able to switch to raised beds or just like the look of a natural garden, then consider the Harbor Freight rolling work seat. With four strong wheels and one this seat allows you to fight weeds without knee or back pain. 2/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight This Harbor Freight Freight it may be mini, but it's still huge! Measuring in at a compact 27 inches, this digg is little enough to tuck into a wheelbarrow or rolling seat tray, but the high tensile strength laminated fiberglass handle and impact scattered D-grip lets it pack a full-size punch. It is ideal for creating an existing hole or for the exception of projects that need to dig holes. 3/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Every DIYer needs a portable sprayer, and most garden enthusiasts need more than one. Perfect for applying everything from herbicides to fertilizer or water to sealants, this sprayer comes with a shoulder strap and ergonomic handle to make your daily work a little less demanding. Stock some of these affordable tools, and you'll be able to keep water, fertilizer and pesticides from mixing. 4/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Cargo Hose Management can be a real pain. So why not simplify your life and cut out the knot by installing these quick adapters and building a DIY hose holder? Couplers allow you to extend or break down the hose length quickly, and the owner makes proper storage non-brainer. When used together, they prolong the life of the hoses and minimize headaches. 5/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Wheelbarrows is great for most projects, but some items in the traditional curved wheelbarrow body are not ideal (bag mulch, anyone?). For these tasks, a flatbed carriage from Harbor Freight may be the best bet. For a 2 foot x 4 foot bed, it's big enough to catch large materials, but small enough to wind the tight spots. And with a £1,000 arrow ability, there's almost no chance of overload. For more variations on the basic wheelbarrow theme, check out the 11 exceptional wheelbarrows that do everything. 6/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor FreightA gardeners, this is truly the best time and the worst of times. This is the point of the year when you can enjoy the fruits of hard work, start planning for next year and enjoy changing leaves. Unfortunately, soon all the beautiful leaves are starting to fall off the trees, and suddenly there is a full-time job to keep up with the leaf collection. When it comes to useful tools for handling leaves, this Portland blower/mulcher is almost indispensable. Use it as a blower to wipe out leaves or mowing, then use a switch to vacuum up hard-to-reach lawn waste, shred it and throw the mulch into a bag for easy disposal. This Harbor Freight blower almost makes letter collection fun! 7/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight If you're a gardener who hasn't discovered the joys of a soaker hose, run out of Harbor Freight and add one of these to your tool kit! The soaker hose allows the plants to use a slow but even drip of water. Avoid boring irrigation headaches, and about not forgetting to water the plants. Short of installing a custom irrigation system, this simple soaker hose is the best way to eliminate one of the most aggravating tasks a gardener faces. 8/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Most people know they can clean off everything from walls of flagstones to a pressure. But gardeners also know how useful it is to put pressure on garden tools and implements that have been built out of a hard shell of earth and clay. Shed these layers with fine use of pressure and restore them to their original luster. And while Harbor Freight pressure washers are affordable, don't forget to practice proper maintenance to extend the lifespan and performance of your washer. 9/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight This Harbor Freight chipper/shredder allows you to convert yard waste into useful mulch. Collect twigs, sticks and small limbs, feed them and collect mulch that comes tumble out. Recycling the fallen branches in the factory reduces landfill waste and is a smart way to be a thrifty gardener. 10/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Trim the Trees in a healthier, more attractive form with this Portland pole saw harbor freight. With nearly nine feet reachable, this electric miracle allows you to steal tree limbs and branches that are dead or grow in undesirable directions. Feed the chopped deadwood into the chipper or burn it into the DIY fire pit. 11/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Odds, you know, firsthand the importance of running water on your lawn and garden project. But pulling the hose from one end of the yard to the other will eventually create lumps and wells. Fortunately, there are ways to make watering easier with a few simple tricks, including installing a two- or four-channel faucet extender. These simple tools are perfect for adjusting hoses running in many sections of the garden and setting a soaker hose for drip irrigation. 12/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight The string trimmer is a versatile tool that allows gardeners to reduce the growth along edges and tight spaces. And with a 40 volt battery, you won't be replacing a battery halfway through work. This Harbor Freight time-saving helps keep your lawn and garden under control, but like most trimmers, you will suffer again from load regret: the moment you run out of strings and the fuss about the refilling process. To avoid a headache, consider investing a few dollars in an easy-to-load string trimmer head. 13/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight, we are a great believeres of appropriate safety precautions. (See the safety gear each diyer should own.) But there is another bonus to picking up a pair of high quality leather gloves: comfot! objects such as goggles and gloves wear out, picking up slight tears and chips, making them less Wear. And if the security features are not convenient, you are much less likely to use them. So put on a new glove, and once they break in, you can reach them without thinking. 14/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight This spoon is ideal for fast moving large amounts of material. With a 15-inch spoon, this Harbor Freight paddle special allows gardeners to quickly shovel and spread materials like sand or mulch. Whether you want to lie in decorative mulch or replace an entire lawn with gravel or mulch, this Harbor Freight shoal does the work without breaking the budget. 15/15 Photo: Courtesy of Harbor Freight Many home gardeners, the greenhouse is a dream project and one that seems unattainable. But in fact, there are several ways to include a greenhouse in your garden, no matter the size of your factory or budget. If you have extremely limited space, you can also create a DIY green house with only a few pieces of spare wood and an old window. However, if you have a little more square feet, consider this 10 foot x 12 foot greenhouse set. With harbor freight's easy shipping options, you can create a dedicated, more and more space.
