Share Select one of the available races: Jin, Gon, Lyn or Yun. Please note that some of the classes are blocked by race. Class Select a class that is available for your race: Gender All races have male and female counterparts, except the Yun race, which is all female. Basic Choose one of the available presets or select the desired functions. This tab contains face, hair, skin color, and body presets. It also contains selection of ears and tails for the Lyn breed. Face Decoration Contains selections for eyes, eyebrows, beard (if male), eyelashes, makeup, lips and face decoration. Face Details Contains sliding spheres for more detailed face creation, including contour, eyebrows, eyes, nose, mouth, chin, face and age. Body Details Contains sliding spheres for more detailed body creation, including upper body, lower body, and overall height and weight. Community content is available on CC-BY-SA unless otherwise noted. Once you've reduced the race and class you want to play, it's time to customize your character's look. Save some time for this, as you'll be immersed in Blade & Soul's robust customization system. Preview When you land on the appearance customization screen, you'll be greeted with the default look and feel of the race you selected. You can change the background where the character is located to see what it looks like outside the customization screen, along with playing with character poses, lighting, and even how your character's body compares to other genres and races. Voices We have some character voice options to choose from, and your character will use the selected voice during voice scenes and while in combat. Choose a voice that sounds better to you, or what you think fits your character's style and theme. Customization of the appearance You can customize your character's face type, skin tone, hairstyle, hair color, body type, eyes, eyebrows, eyelashes, lips, and that's just the beginning. Many of the settings also provide additional adjustable details to ensure your character fits your taste: the combinations are endless. Or if you feel particularly brave, we have Randomize buttons that automatically generate different looks. Detailed customization In addition to the basis of your character's appearance, you can further customize the finer details of the face Your character's body. You want the wider eyes? We have a slider for that. Does the chin need more work? We have sliders for that. Almost all the details of your character can be adjusted very specifically! Save and manage your customization If you want to keep what you've done so far with your character's customization, you can save it by clicking the Manage Appearance button. From there save, review, and load all the appearances you've been creating. Files are saved locally to the hard disk in the default Images folder. It's easy to share files with others to create similar-looking characters, or just to save an look you like for later use. Existing User Forums? Signing up for Invision Community BrS Fashion Character Galleries Is an opportunity for people to show their characters. This is not intended to be a preset sharing site, but people can choose to include one if they wish. If there is no preset link in a character post, the sender did not include one. Don't bother asking me for the link (here or on social media), I don't have one. Repeatedly ask for one in the comments or say where is the preset link? it is unlikely to convince the sender to provide one. Adding your email address to comments is a great way to make sure you receive a ton of spam. These messages have character presets associated with them. Existing User Forums?
