This tightly woven adaptation won a standing ovation from Singapore to Prague, from L.A. to D.C. It was a revue-format theatrical storytelling evening, with dialogue, dialogue and multiple voice narratives, enhanced through the use of live piano emphasis, providing fluency, charm and emotional texture, and seven optional original songs. Interesting stories have colorful characters such as: a shy boy who insists on playing the pig in the Cinderella production class and steals the show; a man who dreams of flying carries him high above Los Angeles... in a grass chair floated by excess weather balloons; a mother of the bride who held a perfect wedding until the bowling ball of fate rolled down the aisle; and a modern Greek philosopher who found the meaning of life in a fragment of mirrors from World War II. These stories celebrate our existence, from the err of childhood to the wisdom of old age. Kindergarten is a sure hit for most groups to make. All I really need to know is that I learned in kindergarten citations that show 1-30 out of 80 These are things I learned (in kindergarten)1. Share everything2. Play fair3. Don't hit people4. Put everything back where you found them5. CLEAN UP YOUR OWN MESS6. Don't take things that are not yours7. Let's say you're SORRY when you HURT someone8. Wash your hands before eating9. Flush10. Warm biscuits and cold milk are good for you11. Live a balanced life - learn some and drink some and draw some and sing and dance and play and work daily some12. Take a look every afternoon13. As you go to earth, watch out for traffic, hold hands, and stick together14. Be aware of the question. Remember the little seed in the foam cup: The roots go down and the tree goes up and no one really knows how or why, but we're all like that15. Goldfish and hamsters and white rats and even small seeds in foam cups - they all die. So do we16. And then remember the Dick-and-Jane book and the first word you learned - the biggest word of all - LOOK. - Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten It's hard to talk about, but what I really, really, really want for Christmas is just this: I want to be 5 years old again in an hour. I want to laugh a lot and cry a lot. I'd be picked or shaken to sleep in someone's arms, and bring up just that again. I know what I really want for Christmas: I want my childhood back. Those who think that good thoughts will give good gifts. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten People going through this life will accidentally leave something and take something away. Most of this something cannot be seen or heard or numbered or scientifically detected or counted. That's what we leave in the minds of others and what they leave in us. Memory. The survey doesn't count it. Nothing significant without it. — Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten better if we all have biscuits and milk all over the world at about three hours every afternoon and then lie down with our gaps for a nap. Or if all governments were there as a basic policy always put things back where they find them and to clean up their own mess. And it's still true, no matter how old you are - when you go out into the world, it's best to hold hands and stick together. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten What I noticed is that every adult or child I give a new set of Crayolas to go a little funny. The kids smile, get a glass look on their faces, pour out crayons, and just look at them for a while.... The adults always get the most amazing kind of sheepish smile on their faces – a mixture of delight and nostalgia and silliness. And they immediately begin to tell you about all their experiences with Crayolas. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know is that I went to kindergarten Without recognizing it, we filled important places in each other's lives. That's the way with the guy in the corner of the grocery store, the mechanic at the local garage, the GP, the teacher, the neighbor, the colleague. Good people are always there, who can be relied upon in small, important ways. Those who teach us, bless us, encourage us, support us, elevate us in the dalliness of life. We never told them. I don't know why, but we don't. And, of course, we fill that role ourselves. There are people who depend on us, watch us, learn from us, take from us. And we never know. You may never have evidence of your importance, but you are more important than you think. There are always people who can't do without you. Well, you don't always know anyone. - Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten. Time can be long, the car can be strange or unexpected. But if the dream is held close to the heart, and the imagination is applied to what is close at hand, everything is still possible. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten I know what I really want for Christmas. I want my childhood back. No one's going to give me that. I can give at least its memory to myself if I try. I know it doesn't make sense, but since it's Christmas about meaning, anyway? It's about a child, of long and far away, and it is about the child of now. In you and me. Waiting behind doors or hearts for something great to happen. An un realistic, un realistic, simple and terribly vulnerable child by pleasure. - Robert Fulghum, all I really need to know is that I went to kindergarten. when they play it. Perhaps because I puts life adventures in such clear and simple conditions. The little creature is alive and looking for adventure. This is a sewer pipe - a long tunnel going up towards some light. The spider does not even think about it - just go. Catastrophe occurs it - rain, floods, powerful forces. And the spider is knocked down and out where it started. Did the spider say, Go to hell with that? Not. The sun comes out - clears things up - dries out of the spider. And the little creature went through the sewer pipe and looked up and thought it really wanted to know what was on it. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know is that I went to kindergarten. What are you talking about? I know a place in Payette, Idaho, where a chef and a waitress and a manager put everything they have on to put a fried chicken steak on you. — Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten So you drive as far as you can, even if you can clearly read the sign. You'd like to think you're exempt, that it doesn't apply to you. But that's right. Life is still a dead end. And we're still hard to believe in that – Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in Imagination kindergarten is more important than information. Einstein said that, and you should know. And they came. And they looked. And we pushed. And they flew. We stayed and died in our beds. They go and die any way, but still inspire those who come after them to find their own advantages. And fly. - Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten Page 2 All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten Quotes Showing 31-60 of 80 Machines and Relatives Get Most Screaming. But never trees. For the people, well, the Solomon Islands may have a point. Yelling at living creatures tends to kill the spirit in them. Sticks and stones can break our bones, but words will break our hearts. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten You will continue to read stories of devious and corrupt - of cops lying and stealing, doctors reaping where they unfortunately, politicians are doing. Don't be deceived. It's news because they are the exceptions. - Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten Liberation. I guess, is that everyone gets what they think they want, without knowing the whole truth. In other words, liberation is finally free from the things we dislike to be enslaved by the things we approve of. This is the eternal parallel. — Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten There's nothing in your budget for fun. No books, no flowers, no music, not even cold beer. And there's nothing in your budget to give away to others. We don't help people who don't value you better. Robert Fulghum, all I really need to know is that I went to Sikh kindergarten that gave him money. When Menon asks for his address to able to repay the man, the Sikhs said that Menon owed any stranger to him in need, as long as he lived. Help comes from a and will be reimbursed to a stranger. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know is, do I know what I went to Giraffe Kindergarten for? Or interested? Or even think about his place in everything? Giraffes have black tongues that are 27 inches long and have no sound strings. Giraffes have nothing to say. He kept giraffing. — Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten Storyteller's Creed: I believe that imagination is stronger than knowledge. That myth is stronger than history. That dream is stronger than the truth. Hopefully that always wins the experience. That laughter is the only cure for pain. And I believe that love is stronger than death. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know is that I learned at Indian kindergarten dancing alone. The crowd clapped up the beat. Indians dance with a chair. The crowd went crazy. The band faded. The crowd cheered. Indians raised their hands to silence as if speaking. Looking at the band and then the crowd, the Indians said, Oh, what are you waiting for? Let's DANCE. - Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten It's just this: that there are places we all come from-deep-rooty-common places-that makes us we are. And we despise them or treat them lightly in the face of our danger. We turned our backs on them at risk of self-contempt. There is a feeling in which we need to go home again and be able to go home again. Not to go home, no. But to sanctize memories. - Robert Fulghum, All I really need to know is that I went to kindergarten. He went to his wife's body and wouldn't leave it, even though she was dead. It's weird. Why didn't he run and save himself? What brought him back? Is it possible that he loves her? Could he want to hold her in his arms one last time? Maybe you need to cry and grieve? Could you feel the stupidity of war? Could you feel the justice of fate? Is it possible that he thinks about children, born or un newborns? Could it be that he didn't care what became of him now? Can. We don't know. Or at least we don't know for sure. But we can guess. His actions answered. So H sat alone in the prison. Not a Russian or a Communist or a soldier or enemy or any of a kind. Only one man cares for just one woman for just-one-time more than anything else. This is for you, Nicolai Pestretsov, wherever you can go and be, giving strong meaning to the promises that are the same everywhere; for that covenant is the same in any language—for better or for worse, in times of good and evil, in sickness and health, for love, and cherish death, so help me god. You keep faith; Keep it shining- keep it shining. God bless me! Baby! Robert Fulghum, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten Page 3 When I'm finished, I have a sense of completion. A sense of capacity. I'm good at washing clothes. At least. It's a religious experience, you know. Water, soil, fire—extremely wet and dry, hot and cold, dirty and clean. The wonderful cycles- round and round - start and finish - Alpha and Omega, amen. I contacted GREAT SOMETHING-OR-OTHER. For a moment, at least, life was neat and meaningful. - Robert Fulghum, all I really need to know is that I went to kindergarten.
