UTMB Health » Find a physician Dr. Ana M. Rodriguez is associate professor in the Department of Gynecology, Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology at the University of Texas Medical Branch. She completed her degree in obstetrics and gynecology at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center. She later completed the Masters of Public Health Program at UTMB. Dr. Rodriguez is board certified by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and is a fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. She joined UTMB in 2009. Since then, she has been clinically active, conducting innovative research in the field of women's health and is involved in the training of medical students, residents and junior faculty members. Dr. Rodriguez is one of our minimally invasive gynecologists who was appointed in 2013 to the Center of Excellence in Minimally Invasive Gynecology (COEMIG), which was successfully renewed in 2017. This designation means the highest level of laparoscopic gynecological expertise accredited by the American Association of Gynecologic Laparoscopists. Dr. Rodriguez's clinical areas of interest include the diseases associated with the Human Papillomavirus (HPV) infection, family planning/contraception, and minimally invasive gynecological surgery, including robotic surgery. Dr. Rodriguez's primary research interests are cancer prevention, minimally invasive gynecological surgery, and HPV infection. She is the principal investigator on projects related to the study of BRCA1 and BRCA2 gene mutations, the risk of cancer associated with obesity (especially endometrial cancer), and the risk of colorectal cancer in cervical cancer survivors. She is currently the lead researcher for projects investigating the long-term impact of HPV vaccination in women and projects that implement HPV vaccination strategies in high-risk populations in Texas. Dr. Rodriguez is a member of several national and international associations, including the International Papillomavirus Society, the International Gynecologic Cancer Society, Society of Family Planning, American Association of Gynecologic Laparoscopists, and the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Dr. Rodriguez has authored more than 20 peer-reviewed publications and has presented her work at numerous national meetings.
