But buying an appliance at department stores will soon cease to be an option for Judy, as the Sears store at Spokane Valley Mall is scheduled to be closed next year by its parent company, marking the departure of the retail giant at once from the Spokane metropolitan area after nearly 90 years. We could always depend on the quality of Craftsman tools and appliances in Sears. Judy said Monday as we sat outside the Sears mall store I'm sad to see him go. It's been a standard. Sears has always been a great place to shop. Transformco, the parent company of retail chains Sears and Kmart, announced last week that it will close 96 Sears and Kmart stores in February in an effort to streamline operations in a retail environment. The company bought Sears Holding Corp.'s assets earlier this year. We've been working hard to position Transformco for success by focusing on our competitive strengths and pruning operations that have struggled due to increased competition and other factors, the company said in a press release. Sears opened at the Spokane Valley Mall in 1997 as one of three anchor tenants - the others being Bon Marche and J.C. Penney. Brookfield Properties, the real estate division of Chicago-based Brookfield Property Partners, which owns Spokane Valley Mall, indicated that its corporate leasing team is working diligently to replace Sears and will announce a replacement when the appropriate time has come. Although we do not comment on behalf of the tenants, we are proud of the strong history we have had with the retailer and the ties Sears has had with our community, said Rachel Wille, spokesperson for Brookfield Properties in an email. Of course, it's disappointing to hear the closure, but not entirely unexpected. Transformco declined to comment. When news of the closure was shared through The Spokesman-Review's Facebook page on Monday, 100 comments were approached. It makes me sad! All my adult life we've always bought stoves, refrigerators, dishwashers, water heaters, lawn mowers, Sears exercise equipment, Robin Sparrow said in a Facebook post. I wouldn't even know where to look for these things now... but I won't look online. I like to see what I'm buying. Out-of-business sales are expected to begin on December 2 at the Spokane Valley store. The closure of the Spokane Valley location is part of the last round of closures for the company following its October 2018 bankruptcy. Sears, which began as a mail order store for watches, was one of the largest retailers of general merchandise, tools, appliances, clothing and automotive services. Transformco indicated that its owners and an external investor have provided more than $250 million in new capital to help it remain sustainable in a competitive retail environment. The company, and its predecessor, Sears Holding Corp., closed stores in Coeur d'Alene in 2018 and recently at NorthTown Mall in Spokane. Sears opened its first Spokane store in Februray 1930 in 906 W. Main Ave., the current site of the Spokane Public Library. The spokesman and the Spokane Daily Chronicle dedicated special editions to the inauguration, noting that 200 employees will be ready to serve customers in the store, which was supplied with 50 cargo of merchandise, including 46,000 different items. Sears opened a mail order house at 722 N. Division St., near the shore Spokane River in 1935. Two years later, the Union Pacific Railroad built a warehouse on Mallon Avenue north of the Spokane County Courthouse for rent to Sears. The retailer built a second in 1938 at 811 E. Sprague Ave. Sears continued its expansion into the Spokane area, opening at northtown mall in June 1961 in a $2.5 million, 226,000-square-foot building, according to an article in the Spokane Daily Chronicle. The shop had an indoor navigation shop and water sports, soft drinks bar, luggage department, office furniture, camera supplies, pharmacy, hat bar and fur department, among other things. After Sears moved from its downtown location to NorthTown Mall, it sold the building for $350,000 to the Comstock Foundation, which gave it to the city for use as a library. Sears opened a 4,000-square-foot store on South Hill at Lincoln Heights Shopping Center in 1969 and in 1973, built an Expo Shop in the center of its NorthTown Mall store that featured a replica of Styrofoam from the Great North Clock Tower. The shop, which sold goods from Expo '74, remained in the store throughout the world fair. Sears also opened a catalog surplus store at the University West Shopping Mall in Spokane Valley in 1975. For many Sears customers like Scott and Erin Burma, who were at the Spokane Valley store on Monday, there's a sense of nostalgia when shopping at the retailer. He used to buy Sears tools often, Scott Burma said. I'm sorry for you leaving.
