Back in 1887, the newly established Troy Regular School embarked on a mission to expand first-year education for students on its campus in Troy, Alabama. Troy University is creating a legacy of excellence as it serves students around the world online, in classrooms and in mixed formats through classes provided on weekdays, weeknights and weekends. From the mid-1990s, distance learning began to change rapidly, WITH TROY shifting from the use of VHS tapes to dial-up internet. In 2005, TROY raised its online learning focus with e-Campus production, which was later renamed eTROY. It was at this point that TROY became one of the online learning leaders over the US. The Troy Web Express Troy University tradition of teaching excellence dates to its founding on February 26, 1887, when an act of the Alabama legislature established Troy State Normal School as an institution to train teachers in Alabama schools. Joseph McConnell was president of the institution. Back in 1893, the college was renamed Troy State Normal College. The Conventional College offered to expand classrooms for teachers and granted tuition certificates until 1929, when the State Board of Education changed the institution's charter and renamed it Troy State Teacher's College.
