No breed restriction apartments

We realize that housing options are limited for pit bull owners due to race restrictions. Unfortunately, race restrictions are not illegal, and apartment complexes, management associations and landlords are able to create and enforce these kinds of restrictions. While this issue certainly affects owners of pit bulls and pit bull mixes, it also affects owners of other breeds. We have seen the following breeds grouped into housing restrictions: Akita, American Bull Dog, American Pit Bull Terrier, Briard, Borzoi Hounds, Bull Mastiff, Bull Terrier, Cane Corso, Chow, Dalmatian, Doberman Pinscher, Dogo, German Shepherd, Great Dane, Great Pyrenees, Husky, Irish Wolf Hound, Komondor, Malamute, Neapolitan Mastiff, Pit Bull, Rottweiler, Scottish Deerhound, Spitz, St Bernard, Stafford Terrier (sic) , Presa Canarios, Shar Pei, Toso Inu and Wolf-Dog Hybrid. We are working on possible solutions to this problem within the city's Pit Bull Task Force, but it is a problem that remains an obstacle for many and will not be addressed overnight. In the meantime, we recommend looking for apartments, duplexes or houses that are privately owned by one person or a small business (many of these are advertised on www.craigslist.org) because they are usually more open to negotiation and discussion. Tips when talking to or meeting a potential landlord or property owner: Create a CV for your dog, with cute photos, age, temperament, training, behavior, veterinarian contact info, etc. Still stumped? Check out this pet resume tutorial. Share details of each formal workout your dog has had (especially the LOVE-A-BULL low-cost training program) Mark special recognitions (Canine Good Citizen, etc.) Bragging about having a clean rental record with properties in the past or receiving full damage deposits back (and of course, provide referrals that may attest to this) stress your habits of responsible property (providing supervision, exercise, socialization, medical care, etc.) to the dog on a regular basis educing the landlord on the actual risk factors of pets that can lead to property damage : dogs which are NOT neutered or sterilised; dogs that do not get enough exercise or stimulation to release energy; dogs that are left unattended by their owners for a long time; Dogs that are not treated as family members Offer to pay an increased pet deposit or secure rental insurance Call the dog a mixed breed if it is indeed a mix, as the breed label is sometimes more important for a landlord Offer to do a meet and greet with the dog and the landlord to good behavior see the first hand. If a meet and greet is not possible, send the best picture of you and your dog you have, via email, and maybe a story about what the dog means to you and what he or she has added to your life. As we all know, incorrectly incorrect of pit bulls are ubiquitous, and the meet and greet of family photo/compelling story can be an effective tool in dispelling these negative impressions and replacing them with the positive properties of a dog that is really treated like a family member. Tell them that you are a member of LOVE-A-BULL, an organization committed to responsible pit bull ownership through education and advocacy, and point them to our website to learn more about our mission.
