Fallout 4 radio mod

by Ty Arthur There are only so many times you can hear the same song or DJ introduced in the Fallout series before its time to turn that pipboy out or risk throwing it through Wasteland and let some Deathclaw eat it so you never have to listen to Ain't That A Kick In The Head again. Although the options have expanded over time with the next entries, this is still one of the weak links of the series. As with any of Bethesda's countless failures though, the mod community has stepped in to increase your selection and keep the game flexible. Here we are covering 7 of the best radio mods currently available to keep your listening experience fresh and entertaining! Get it here! From indie metal label Rogue Records America to the heaviest station in the Commonwealth that features your hosts Johnny Rogue and Fearless Jes Fama as they played the best heavy metal of the past year before the world went to hell. There are plenty of hard rock and extreme metal on this playlist, from groups like All Hail The Yeti and Binary Code to more famous outfits like Devildriver and Testament. Get it here! Anyone can add music playlists to a radio mod, but what's harder is getting music that fits the tune of radio stations from Fallout 3, New Vegas and Fallout 4. No small task, this mod features an additional 286 new songs that lore friendly all public domains from the 30s to the 60s and deal with topics like nuclear fallout and other themes appropriately '50s. Get it here! An absurdly appreciated mod, obviously a ton of work went to Old World Radio Boston. With a ton of radio stations, there are old-time broadcasts of radiation and high-quality voice acting for various new programs in addition to a variety of additional music above and beyond what is included in vanilla games. Some perfectly fit the theme of the game, and others are just weird... like Pee-Wee's Playlist. Get it here! Not only is a brand new radio station added to the game with a custom voice server, WRVR also includes a new companion as DJ Casey Kessler. To match the legend of the game, the songs are very old and deal with the local area of the Commonwealth. Get it here! A large pack of new songs, More Where That Came From adds over 100 friendly, themed songs suitable to Diamond City Radio. To avoid problems with the radio announcer discussing songs that are not played when new songs come in, it also disables Travis' audio segments from talking before and after any given song. Get it here! This pre-war radio channel is chock full of hilarious ads and public service announcements for friendly legend products found on Fallout 4, in addition to the Tales From The Commonwealth custom mission line. Get it here! Jetful Radio adds in two additional hours of content including custom commentary with a host life in the Commonwealth. There are 46 new song additions to boot, a significant increase in the number of songs to listen through while blowing up the Raiders and helping with whatever nonsense tackle Preston Garvey has sent you recently.
