They have a double V cylinder arrangement with the spark plugs adjusted quite deep next to each rocker cover. The fuel tank will be remote (separated from the engine) or mounted on top with the supply for the air filter inside the tank molding. If there is a traction start, this will be on the side, with the brain cig emerging horizontally on the opposite side. Electric starter versions only have a flat mesh that covers the steering wheel on the side. The Model Type and Code numbers are stamped on a small aluminum plate with riveting to the scouching of the pressed steel motor or stamped on the rocker covers. The model number will start 29,30,35,38,54 or 61.
