Big catalog of preset light fixtures for mobile. Sites are valid, with free apps for Android and iOS. Visit sites as an Instagram browser every day, all too often I see horrible format captions and bios - most make the mistake of trying to insert space between the picture and the meme section but won't receive miserably. Here is a simple trick for making real space in your posts and bio, without periods or other characters. How they don't make it their chance if you're reading this, you already know what they look like and they're looking for a better way. People do this all the time, but even bigger companies and corporate accounts do so as well. Here is an example of the official GMC GMC account: Image properties of GM/GMC How to Do it right here in an image from my own profile and clean, blank space between line breaks: Hey! I am @OpbinizePrime on IG Bonus: Followers See a Clean Version of the Food Spaces and hashtags are hidden under the more tag automatically, but still it's not Instagram search. You'll always find all the likes, followers and benefits of using these hashtags, but this method allows them to be hidden from viewing. How it works in a nutshell, space that was created and the space bar are empty pixels. However there are also spaces as characters that do take up space. Both spaces are invisible for you, but Instagram sees them a different way. Step 1: Select and copy the spaces (invisible spaces you need between the brackets) [   ] Step 2: On Instagram, write a picture caption you want to use, use the space bar once, then paste block into spaces from above and remove the brackets. Paste several times if you need more lines. Be sure to use the space bar once between the caption and the pasted spaces. Otherwise it doesn't work. Step 3: After you have pasted into the block of space and removed the brackets, press the space again after your paste block of space, and list out your hashtags. Remember– you can only use 30 hashtags, so don't go further. Protipe: Edit Captions in the Notes App, then paste Edit your captions outside of Instagram, such as in notes or in a draft text message. in the time Instagram will not save the whole caption when you upload the image, so make your caption editing anything else. Post the first picture with no caption, then hit the three dots on the picture and click Edit, then paste into your new caption. If you frequently post similar content, you can save hashtag blocks to app notes and save them for later. Making space in your Bio do exactly the same as above, just paste into the space characters where you want them in your profile bio and test it out saving and editing until you have it exactly the way you want it. Next, find the right hashtags to use to get the most possible engagement on your content. 2020 Update the above method has worked for some time, and still allows a finer level of customization. However, adding just line breaks in captions and memoir just got a whole lot easier. The new method is to use the return key, and NO SPACES between words. This is a little un-intuitive because on the iPhone, you have to hit the shift key (arrow up) to see the return key. Print the first line, and after the last letter hit the return key. Adding space to Instagram is not rocket science. But a lot of people have trouble getting it right. Most people are on Instagram so they can consume content that's in entertainment and/or fun aesthetic. They're not there to read a story. So comes across a length, the unformatted caption can irk them. The same goes for unformatted bios that are just plain room. But for some brands and influencers, there are times you need to write a long message for your caption. In such a case, adding space in-between lines is not something you can just overload. You need to add a break to improve readability. For example, maybe you need to create a post to promote a competition or gift. And you need to make sure you include all the details about how to enter and some important warnings in the caption. So you obviously need a long caption for that. As for your Instagram bio, you need to make sure you list all your important accomplishments when describing yourself. You can have a lot of information to share in your captions, hashtags, and bio. But it means you will risk making it too difficult to read without proper formatting. In this case, you will end up losing the interest of the person you are trying to impress or Why I decided to write this blog post to guide you on how to add space to your Instagram captions and bios. In this post, you'll get a better understanding of all the steps you need to take to properly format your captions and bios to attract and engage your audience.==X==X==Disclosures: Please note that a few of the links in this article are actually affiliate links. Following the best practices for adding space on Instagram will help you minimize frustration while trying to properly format your captions and bios: #1: Avoid writing Duration only on the Instagram AppYou could be reading this blog post now because you tried formatting your IG captions and bios right into the Instagram app and it didn't work. If you try to add paragraphs and line spacing to the app, it will automatically publish your post with zero-space formatting. This time is a major cause of frustration for anyone who knows that good job format but has not been able to successfully format their Instagram captions and bio. So how can you add spaces to your Instagram captions? So instead of directly writing your caption to the app, try writing it to your phone notes first. You can then copy and paste this finished copy into the app when you are publishing a new post. You can even use your email app to create a draft of your caption copies. So what's the bottom line here? What should you keep in mind adding spacing between paragraphs on Instagram? The main retention rule is that you should avoid writing directly on the Instagram app because you cannot format it correctly in this way. Another solution to repair your space problem – take out all the extra spaces in Instagram captions. If your invisible line will work, you need to take the extra space between the last word or punctuation and an invisible space. For example, if you're finishing a sentence with a full stop, avoid hitting the space button like you would normally do. Instead, hit Enter or Return button right after and then add the invisible space. How to add space in Instagram captions and Byos: 3 Different ways to explainThere's several ways to add spaces to your Instagram captions and bios. You can choose from these options, depending on what is preferable and convenient for you. Option 1 to add space: Make line breaks and symbolsThe easiest way to add in your Instagram captions and bios is using symbols. It's also the fastest option and you can still type directly in the Instagram app. You can use characters such as a dash or a period, as well as emojis wherever you need a line break. And this extra character will act as the spacing between paragraphs. The main problem with this option for adding space to Instagram captions is that the symbol will be visible, which might not make it visible for some people. In the below screenshot, you can see a line break is added using a period as a symbol. Image Source: InstagramHere's How can you add space by using this option: Type your caption in the caption area on Instagram.When you need a line break, tap on the Insert or Back button on you key. Add the symbol to the next line. You could add a period to make it as minimal visible as possible. Type on Insert or Go Back and start typing the next paragraph. If you want more space between two paragraphs, you can keep repeating steps 1 and 2 as needed. Option 2 to add space: Make invisible lines with your Phone Notes to AppWhat if you don't want lines or symbols in your Instagram captions? There is another trick in which you can add space. If you want to add invisible line breaks, there's a way to do it using the Notes app on your phone. If you use any scheduling app, you can also use that to create your draft instead of the Notes app. Here are the steps you need to follow to add invisible lines using this option: Type your caption into the app. When you need to add a line break, paste these invisible spaces into the next line. The spaces are inside the brackets. [   ] Paste it several times if you want to add more than one line break. Remove parentheses. Copy the whole draft and then paste it into the Instagram caption space, if you are using an app note. If you're using a scheduled app typing your draft, you can just send it to Instagram as usual. You'll see the line break automatically copied along with the rest of the copy. Just post it as is and Instagram will publish your caption with the necessary formatting to workplace. In the below screenshot, you can see invisible line breaks between the two paragraphs in the caption. They make the whole title look clean and fun aesthetic. Source image: InstagramOption 3 to add space: Using GramSpacerYou can also use the GramSpacer app to add spaces and line breaks to your Instagram captions, bios, and comments.
