On May 22, 1980, Navy Secretary Edward Hidalgo was established by Secretary of the Navy Edward Hidalgo and announced at SECNAVINST on 1650.35 of January 26, 1981. The dates for the time being are now the date of the start of the tape deployment of the maritime service – August 15, 1974. The criteria awarded to members of the Navy and Marine Corps are assigned to U.S. ships, deploying units or command of navy forces for 12 months accumulated by Maritime Duty, or for alternation with navy forces, which includes at least one deployment 90 consecutive days. The 12-month accumulated sea duty requirement waives those employees who have been called to sea duty or deployed for Desert Shield or Desert Storm operations. For personnel destined for overseas ships, deployment of units or command of naval forces of the fleet, 12 months has accumulated maritime duty while stationed on a U.S. Navy ship, Coast Guard, Army or NOAA at sea and/or members of the Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard who were deployed forward with their home unit. Additional awards tape deployments of maritime service, marine reserve marine service tapes, Coast Guard Marine Corps tapes, Army Maritime Duty tapes and NOAA Marine Corps deployment tapes denote bronze and/or silver service stars on tape. U.S. Army Marine Duty Tape Tape of Naval Duty of the U.S. Army (ASDR) was created on April 17, 2006 as a tape of army naval duty. On June 30, 2010, its name was changed to the current moniker. [1] It can be awarded to active-duty soldiers who complete two cumulative years of maritime duty on a Class A or U.S. Army vessel. [2] Duty aboard the U.S. Navy, Coast guard U.S., U.S. Navy Military Maritime Transportation Command, NOAA vessels, NOAA, On board leased armies or foreign and unkillied vessels can also qualify if soldiers serving on these vessels have a formally designated primary mission being carried out, are in active status and approved for creditor maritime service by the Office of Career Maritime Payment. The Head of the Department of Maritime Qualification is an approval body for awarding asdr law enforcement military service. ASDR can be awarded retroactively to those personnel who have been credited with the qualification service, as defined in the regulations, after August 1, 1952. [3] The following awards are sanctioned after the completion of an additional two years of cumulative maritime duty under the appropriate conditions. [2] The U.S. Army Reserve and U.S. Army National Guard soldiers must have two credit years in a U.S. Army water vessel unit, including a minimum of 25 days annually, as well as two annual exercises conducted on an Army Class A or B vessel; or a 90-day deployment aboard an army vessel underway. The following awards are sanctioned upon completion of additional qualification periods of maritime duty. For mobilized soldiers, one year of maritime duty as a mobilized soldier will be credited to one creditor year as long as the minimum requirements are met. [2] The U.S. Army sea tape has a width of 1 3/8 inches, consisting of vertical stripes. Edges 3/32 inch in dark blue, bordered by 5/32 inch red stripes, followed by 5/32 inch stripes of old gold bordered by 3/32 inch stripes of blue, next to 1/8 inch bands of grotto blue, bordered by 3/64 inch bands of soldier red, and a 1/32-inch central strip of old gold. [4] The following awards mark bronze and silver service stars. [2] Navy and Marine Corps personnel deploying navy tape and Marine Corps tape deployment tape to the Navy and Marine Corps Deployment Tape (SSDR)[5] is a reward of U.S. service. The Navy and the U.S. Marine Corps, which was authorized in May 1980[6] and retroactively authorized on August 15, 1974, coincided with a temporary suspension of powers to award the National Defense Service medal between that date and August 2, 1990. It was the first type of naval service tape created in the U.S. Armed Forces. The Marine Service Deployment Tape is provided to any member of the United States. The Navy, or U.S. Marine Corps, is designed to deploy a unit (such as a ship (including submarines), an aviation squadron, air wing or air group, detachment, battalion, marine expeditionary unit, marine airborne task force or other type of unit that operates far from its designated home port) and is ahead for 90 days or two periods of at least 80 days each for a certain period of 12 months; or 6 months stationed abroad in a deployed forward location. Squadron Destroyers Headquarters (DESRON), Amphibious Squadron (PHIBRON), Airborne Readiness (ARG), Expeditionary Strike Teams (ESGs), Aircraft Carrier Strike Groups (CSF) and similar units deployed during the term are also eligible for award. The 3/16-inch bronze star is awarded for the second through the fifth tape award; The 3/16-inch silver star will wear instead of five 3/16-inch bronze stars. When the ship's crew qualifies for the marine service deployment tape, the ship has the right to draw and display tape and reward stars on the port and board the stronghold to assign the number of deployments conducted throughout the commissioned ship since August 1974. When the U.S. Navy or Marine Corps Aviation Squadron qualifies for the Marine Corps deployment tape, the squadron has the right to draw and display tape and reward stars on the exterior or interior of their hangar or squadron spaces to assign the number of deployments conducted throughout the active life of this squadron since August 1974. The Navy Reserve Marine Service Deployment Tape (f/k/a Naval Reserve Sea Service Ribbon) was established in May 1986. As of January 1, 2014, it is awarded to any member of the U.S. Navy Reserve who completes the cumulative 90 days of OCONUS or Underway Duty while assigned to a deployed Navy reserve or active unit. Active members assigned to deploy a Navy Reserve unit are also eligible for the award in accordance with the same service qualification requirements. The qualification service must be performed as operational or operational support with a deployed unit during operation or OCONUS, away from the home port or permanent duty station. The participant is entitled to one award after the completion of 90 cumulative days of the qualification service, regardless of the length of time required for the accumulation of qualifying days. Additional restrictions apply to inactive learning duties (IDT) drill periods and travel days. For selected reserve (SELRES) IDT drilling periods, only one day of qualifying service is authorized per calendar day, regardless of the number of drilling periods spent. Every day of travel between the Navy Operational Support Center (NOSC)/Permanent Duty Station and the qualification location of the duty is considered .5 days for the purposes of counting the qualifying days. Qualifying days applied to the Navy Reserve Marine Corps deployment tape cannot be counted in the Marine Corps or Marine Corps and Marine Corps deployment tape overseas. [7] Until January 1, 2014, there are still former requirements. Under these rules, naval reserve service tape was awarded to any member of the U.S. Navy Reserve (formerly the U.S. Naval Reserve) who, while serving as a drilling selected reservist (SELRES) or officer or provisioning and administration of reserve/full support (TAR/FTS), completed twenty-four cumulative cumulative on duty aboard a U.S. Navy Reserve Force reserve ship or designed to deploy/regularly deploy the U.S. Navy's Reserve Air Squadron (RESFORON). The term Navy Reserve Force Ship refers to any U.S. Navy ship commissioned under the operational or administrative control of the Navy Reserve, or a self-propelled auxiliary, boats or other water ship operated under the operational control of navy or type commanders. The term Navy Reserve Aviation Squadron refers to any Navy Reserve flight squadron that operates naval aircraft, is considered a command at sea, is regularly deployed or capable of deploying overseas, and is considered a hardware unit under the operational control of the commander, naval air force reserve (formerly commander, Naval Air Force) or navy or commanders of another type. The Navy Reserve Marine Service tape is also provided to members of navy reserve headquarters, provided that at least half proceeded to reserve exercises qualified as the exercises were conducted. The Navy Reserve's Marine Corps tape is not eligible for service performed by members of the Marine Corps Reserve Force, or Navy reservists who have been called to active duty, but the service performed by that personnel will qualify for a marine service deployment tape or Navy and Marine Corps tape overseas if possible. Coast Guard Marine Corps Tape Coast Guard Marine Corps Tape Coast Guard - a U.S. Coast Guard decoration that was established in 1984. It is awarded to those members of the Coast Guard, which serve more than twelve cumulative months of maritime duty aboard a U.S. Coast Guard cutter attached to a navy training group, or aboard some other Coast Guard vessels and non-Coast Guard vessels (i.e. U.S. Navy warships with the Coast Guard [LEDET] detachment, which are under official orders from the Coast Guard. [8] The NOAA Marine Corps Deployment Tape Deployment Tape of the NOAA Marine Corps Deployment Tape is a NOAA Award created retroactively through January 1, 2002. It is awarded to noaa commissioned by the Corps and health service personnel who have served twelve months of accumulated sea duty, which can also include temporary duty at sea, which includes at least one 90 consecutive deployments. The following rewards can be earned for an additional twelve-month accumulation of sea duty, as long as they also include an additional deployment of 90 consecutive days. Previously, the tape of the deployment of the Navy's maritime service was awarded. [9] Those members of the NOAA Corps who had previously earned the tape of the deployment of the Navy's maritime service, version of NOAA if they did not deserve a version of the Navy while serving in the Navy.
