When you log in to Strategic Trader, you will receive your account number from us immediately after you sign in. You can also find your account number at the bottom of any of our weekly update and trading alert emails. Once you have your account number, you can set a username and password. Your username will be the email address you used to sign up for a strategic trader. If you already have a personalised user name and password from another InvestorPlace Media subscription, you don't need to create a strategic trader again. Your existing user name and password will work for the strategic trader as long as you are a subscriber. To create a unique user name and password, you will need your account number and zip code. You can find your account number at the bottom of our weekly updates and trading alerts or in an email you received when you joined a strategic trader. You can also call customer service at 1-800-219-8592. Click here to create your username and password now. My user name and password don't work. Note that your password contains a lot of letters, so you need to type it exactly as you set it. I forgot my username and password. What am I supposed to do? If you forgot your username or password, we may email them to the email address you provided at the time of registration. Click here to select this option. How do I change my username and password? If you've already created a unique user name and password, click here to change it. If you haven't created a unique username and password, click here to start the process of creating a unique account. I already gave you an email address when I signed up for the service. Why do I have to give it to you again? The email you gave us when you created your username and password will only be used to send e-mail if you forget your username and password. For security reasons, we keep this information separate from your other account information so that you can record more than one email address with us.
