In a command economy, the government determines what products are available for sale and how much they should cost. Today, most countries have what is actually a mixed economy. Supply is the amount of a product available for purchase. The law of supply says that the higher the price of a product, the more the product will be produced for sale. Demand is the amount of a product that people want to buy. What are the four ways in which supply and demand can affect the price of a product? Capitalism emerged in the mid-1600s. Why has the transition of feudalism been difficult for serfs? The main reason for companies (producers of goods and services) is profit. Individuals and businesses are allowed to own private property. What is the main motive for business in a capitalist system? In a capitalist society, businesses are owned and managed by the people, rather than the government. A capitalist society is characterized by freedom. Individuals can choose what they want to buy. In a system that is motivated only by profit, such as capitalism, human well-being can sometimes be neglected or ignored. How do high-power companies make it difficult for workers to succeed in starting their own businesses? Gross domestic product was Smith's idea on how to measure a nation's wealth. The invisible hand was made up of a combination of market forces, such as supply and demand, that worked together to make the market efficient. Conservatives tend to encourage as little government intervention in the economy - and people's lives . What are the three main opposing views on how a government should participate in the economy? Many countries successfully use capitalism as their economic system, but some countries do not like capitalism. An alternative to capitalism is called socialism. Socialism is a command economy that is based on the idea of cooperation. A lot of money, called capital, is needed to start a business, and starting a business is risky. Describe how the U.S. government supports our economy our monetary system. System. System.
