Jeux de sea of fire 2

As every month, Sea of Thieves offers an update that adds new missions, new cosmetics or new ways to get more gold and reputation. March One, called Heart of Fire, offers a variety of detailed new features below. Tall Tales scenario quests are back with Hearts of Fire. Players will have to go to a cellar full of traps to find out the truth about Flameheart's rumours, which would complement its strengths and alliances. For bored legend hackers, the update is here for you. New Athena tours have been added with legendary treasures in the key. It will take five trips from Athena to win promotion and access to the legendary treasure hunter's special clothes. New toys have been added to the game with a new type of cannonball and grenade can be found in barrels. Chain balls: Less effective than ordinary cannonballs when piercing the hulls of ships, but they are the ideal weapon to destroy a mast, cabestan or bar in one shot. Use them to prevent your next victim from escaping or make life difficult for a potential pursuer. Chaos Balls: These grenades, halfway between a trombone and an incendiary ball, can be a nightmare for groups of enemies. In addition to dealing damage, chaos cannonballs repel enemies, making them a good tactical choice when you're being chased by skeletons or trying to keep other pirates at a safe distance. Finally, new cosmetics are available. Not only will the new Tall Tales quests unlock fiery clothing, but the market will also feature banana clothing and a Conker-style set for your ship.
