Circlepix's marketing toolkit works together to get agents and brokers to sell more homes faster and for more money. We are excited to strengthen PIXmarketing with this free and valuable addition, says Greg Gehring, COO of Circlepix. Springville, UT (PRWEB) March 01, 2017 Circlepix, a leader in real estate marketing automation, announced the release of Lobby Listing Display. This service will be added to PIXmarketing, Circlepix's top marketing software, as a free addition to all brokers who subscribe to the service. Lobby Listing Display offers a slide show presentation of the brokerage's current listings, formatted for 16x9 monitors that can be displayed in the lobby of their office or in a street-facing window to attract additional attention. The presentation includes a list of information and images for each object displayed, as well as a suite of other customizable features. Brokers have the option to add a variety of lead manufacturing tools to their listings, such as QR codes and information lines, and have full control color scheme and image layout. They can also customize their presentation by adding videos, logos, and company announcements that appear between entries. The customizable features of lobby listing display really make this a unique offering for brokers, says Greg Gehring, Circlepix's chief operating officer. We are excited to be strengthening PIXmarketing with this free and valuable addition that will help improve the visitor experience in brokerage offices while hiring the ability to produce lead brokers. PIXmarketing offers brokers a number of tools to help their offices and agents get maximum exposure for their ads, and Lobby Listing Display is the first of several new broker-level improvements to launch in the coming months. We work hard to make PIXmarketing the best tool for brokers and agents, says Paige Viehweg, product manager for displaying lobby listings. And with the addition of lobby listing display, we know that brokers will recognize that PIXmarketing is really head and shoulders above the competition. The lobby listing screen is ready for brokers to use on their Circlepix account.
