Promotion of professional wrestling independent American Juggalo Championship WrestlingAcronymJCWFounded199StyleProfessional wrestling Deathmatch wrestling Lucha libre Shoot PuroresuHeadquartersDetroit, MichiganFounder(s)Crazy Clown PosseOwner(s)Crazy Clown PosseFormerlyJuggalo Championshit Wrestling Juggalo Championship Wrestling (formerly Juggalo Championshit Wrestling) is an American independent professional wrestling promotion founded in 1999 by Violent J (Joseph Bruce) and Shaggy 2 Dope (Joseph Utsler), better known as the hip-hop duo Insane Clown Posse. JCW currently performs shows across the country. Backyard Wrestling: Don't Try This at Home and Backyard Wrestling 2: There Goes the Neighborhood features numerous independent fighters from the promotion. JCW's style is largely based on hardcore wrestling. Bruce and Utsler refer to Extreme Championship Wrestling as the biggest influence on the company's style, as well as its unique camera angles, which they compare to that of the film Natural Born Killers; disappearing in and out, and turning everything. [1] In the early years of the company, the talent consisted mainly of rappers and well-known names who performed under parody of alternative names. The company instituted a change in the list after changing its name, focusing more on independent and hardcore fighters, as well as several established names. JCW records most of its programs and launches them into slamtv episodes! and on DVDs, which are sold in your online store. He launched JCW Wrestling School with Kevin Canady as head coach in 2010. In December, the promotion began to be held at fortnightly events at The Modern Exchange in Southgate, Michigan and established a video distribution partnership with HighSpots.com. In March 2011, he launched a broadcasting website and began showing his fortnightly events live on the internet pay-per-view (iPPV). History Strangle-Mania Live (1997) In 1996, Crazy Clown Posse released a VHS titled Strangle-Mania from ICP, which featured a compilation of death fights from the outrageously Violent Wrestling from Japan video collection, overlaid with their own humorous commentary. After the release, the duo, along with local Detroit booker Dan Curtis, hosted ICP's Strangle-Mania Live event in 1997 at sold-out St. Andrew's Hall. A year later, Curtis and the group coordinated another Strangle-Mania Live show called Hellfire Wrestling, which would be followed by a tour of 80 hellfire wrestling cities. Curtis reserved the talent and wrote the scripts. Hellfire Wrestling sold the Majestic Theater in Detroit. Two days after the show, Curtis was found dead in his apartment due to a sudden diabetic problem. The Hellfire Wrestling tour was subsequently cancelled. [3] Juggalo Championshit Wrestling (1999-2006) An early announcing the como Juggalo Championshxt Championshxt Booked by Brian Gorie and Dave Prazak, The Crazy Clown Posse held the first Juggalo Championshxt Wrestling event on December 19, 1999 at St. Andrews Hall in Detroit, Michigan. The event featured seven fights and included wrestlers such as The Iron Sheik, King Kong Bundy and Abdullah the Butcher. [4] Crazy Clown Posse defeated the team of two Doink the Clowns to become the first JCW Tag Team Champions, and Evil Dead won a Hardcore Battle royal to be crowned the first JCW Heavyweight CHAMPION. [4] The event was filmed and released as JCW Vol. 1 on May 9, 2000. Lasting 38 weeks on the Billboard Sports and Recreation Top Sellers list, the video peaked at number 2. [5] Prazak, however, left the company for financial reasons, leaving Gorie only to book the company. In April and May 2000, Gorie booked a Strangle-Mania Live tour of 15 cities spanning from Detroit to Denver. The tour focused less on older fighters and featured younger talents such as Chris Hero and Mad Man Pondo. JCW Vol. 2 was filmed during tour stops in Cleveland and Milwaukee, and was released on July 23, 2001. The video peaked at number 8 on the Billboard Sports and Recreation Top Sellers list. [8] The promotion later held several matches at the first Annual Juggalos Meeting, which it has continued to do ever since. Brian Gorie left the company shortly after, and Bruce and Utsler took full control of the reservation of the events themselves. On August 21, 2000, the company received popular exposure when the Vampire fighter, who was also jcw heavyweight champion, brought the title with him on WCW Monday Nitro of World Championship Wrestling. He began to proclaim that the JCW Heavyweight Championship was the only world title that meant anything to him before giving Tank Abbott a title fight. The match was called by Bruce and Utsler, called under their 3D and Gweedo personas, who also interfered in the match to cost Abbott the championship. In 2002, the promotion was the second highest-grossing wrestling organization in the United States. The following year, Bruce and Utsler set out plans to record matches for JCW Vol. 3 at the Juggalos Meeting in 2003. However, due to the amount of injuries suffered by the fighters and the fan fight, the footage was ruled out. Another event was scheduled in Columbus, Ohio and filmed at Newport Music Hall for the video. The event continued to bring younger talents such as M-Dogg 20, Josh Prohibition, Nosawa and Necro Butcher. [11] JCW Vol. 3 was released on DVD on November 11 of that year. Two weeks later, JCW Vol. 1 and JCW Vol. 2 were re-released individually in DVD format. Name change and development (2007-2010) 2 Tony Tuff during the first season of SlamTV! After the release of the first three jcw videos, the company sporadically began for himself as Juggalo Championship Wrestling. On July 16, 2007, the company updated its website, changing all references to itself to Juggalo Championship Wrestling. [12] His logo, however, continued to display the words Juggalo Championshit Wrestling until the end of 2008. In late 2006, the company began a three-month feud with the Philadelphia-based Pro Wrestling Unplugged promotion. The relationship between the companies continued after the events, as PWU owner Tod Gordon allowed several wrestlers to compete for JCW on their next tour. In March 2007, the company began filming the internet wrestling program SlamTV! on the 22-city insane Clown tour, titled The Tempest Release Party. The episodes lead to the first annual bloodymania wrestling event, which was held at the Juggalos Meeting that year. The lineup featured a number of independent wrestlers, including Human Tornado, Zach Gowen, The Thomaselli Brothers and Trent Acid, as well as several well-known fighters such as The Great Muta, Justin Credible, 2 Cold Scorpio and Scott Hall. [15] Both the first season and Bloodymania were released on DVD later that year, and became the first wrestling videos ever sold throughout the Hot Topic chain of stores. [16] The postseason saw the formation of the juggalo world order group. Season two of SlamTV! was filmed on the Slam TV Tour 2008. [17] Although shorter than the first season, the lineup introduced noted trainer Scott D'Amore and wrestler Raven, as well as the eight-team JCW Tag Team Tournament. [18] On May 17, 2008, juggalo Championship Wrestling hosted matches in the inaugural Hatchet Attacks. At the following year's event, the company held its first women's wrestling match in a decade. [20] Both Bloodymania III and Bloodymania IV were performed in the following two years without full SlamTV buildup! Stations. Running full-time (2010 – present) In January 2010, the company announced plans to run full-time and launched JCW Wrestling School with Kevin Canady as head coach. [21] That August, Juggalo Championship Wrestling began a video distribution partnership with HighSpots.com. On December 22, he began holding fortnightly events at The Modern Exchange in Southgate, Michigan. [23] All shows are planned to be recorded and released on DVD. Scott Hall was made Executive Consultant for Juggalo Championship Wrestling in February 2011. Later that month, Vampiro came out of retirement and returned as a fighter and consultant to the company. He raised hopes of developing talent, bringing the company internationally and, more specifically, bringing it to Latin America. The company held its first pay-per-view on the internet, called Hatchet Attacks, March 26, 2011. The event was filmed and aired live online by the local The Rave. [28] Juggalo Juggalo Championship he later launched his own broadcast website for its fortnightly events, and broadcast its first self-produced pay-per-view on the internet on April 6. [30] JCW would hold more self-produced internet pay-per-views on April 20, May 4, May 18, June 30, July 20 and 28, 2011. The F*ck pay-per-view The Police would prove to be their final pay-per-view on the internet until they perform another one in May 2012 on the Hatchet Attacks supershow. The 2012 Juggalos' Meeting was heavily hyped by a first showdown between Corporal Robinson and Rude Boy, both JCW legends. The departure did not take place as planned due to Corporal Robinson being released from JCW, with Psychoic Records officially announcing that Robinson had walked away from the company. At the 2013 Juggalos Meeting it was announced that Evil Dead and Mad Man Pondo were inducted into the new JCW Hall of Fame, the first two being inducted. SlamTV! Main article: SlamTV! SlamTV! is an internet wrestling show, broadcast by crazy clown posse's wrestling promotion Juggalo Championship Wrestling. It features colorful commentary by Handsome Harley 'Gweedo' Guestella (Shaggy 2 Dope) and Diamond Donovan '3D' Douglas (Violent J).[31] with Luscious Johnny Stark (Jamie Madrox of Twittd) filling in whenever necessary. His initial run was 20 episodes, recorded on a national tour titled The Tempest Release Party. [14] Until its creation, in addition to three initial DVDs, the only way to see JCW was in face-to-face or home videos. Style and production Juggalo Championship Wrestling was founded largely on hardcore wrestling, but has since mixed with the Puroresu and lucha libre wrestling styles flying high. His list features a mix of independent and veteran artists. Cape Robinson, the company's fighter and creative writer, calls the product totally different from his common wrestling show. It has crazy and strange characters, has difficulty hitting hardcore matches, has music, has its loud flyers. It has a taste of every flavor. [33] Along with its unique mix of wrestling styles, several other aspects of the company have drawn similarities to Extreme Championship Wrestling. Alex Marvez of Scripps Howard News Service drew parallels between the energetic fans of the two companies. 1.wrestling Radio host Bruce Wirt calls Juggalo Championship Wrestling the best modern version [and] eCW because of its fan base, wrestling styles and original stories. [32] Co-founders Joseph Bruce and Joseph Utsler refer to Extreme Championship Wrestling as the great influence on the company's style, as well as its unique camera angles, which they compare to that of the film Natural Born Killers; disappearing in and out, and turning everything. [1] Bruce Wirt praises the company as a at WWE e Total Nonstop Action due to its unique characteristics. [32] Juggalo Championship Wrestling features a live musical performance at each wrestling event, leading Wirt to compare the combination to that of WWE's Rock 'n' Wrestling Connection. [32] Shaggy 2 Dope and Kevin Gill provide comments, which have been described as sometimes politically incorrect and side-funny. [34] The company also notably has no rematch clauses, rather than forcing former champions to fight on their way back to the main event. [37] Broadcasts See also: Major pay-per-view events on the Internet Juggalo Championship Wrestling began its first broadcast with the internet wrestling program SlamTV! Aired from April 7, 2007 to August 4, 2008, the show aired 21 episodes in two seasons. [39] The video release of the first season was the first wrestling DVD ever sold throughout the Hot Topic chain of stores. [16] A brief series called Slam TV Express was later aired for three episodes from May 25 to June 4, 2010. On March 26, 2011, the company produced its first live pay-per-view on the internet (iPPV), called Hatchet Attacks. [28] Juggalo Championship Wrestling began broadcasting fortnightly iPPV events on April 6. [30] The company holds most of its events at The Modern Exchange in Southgate, Michigan, in what are considered television recordings. [23] Major events take place every several weeks at concert venues throughout the United States. [23] Annual shows include Hatchet Attacks, Oddball Wrestling, Flashlight Wrestling, Hallowicked After Party, Big Ballas' X-Mas Party, and the company's main wrestling event, Bloodymania.
