The easiest way to say this for a very young Scout is to make a good turn to someone every day: that is, he is a donor and not a recipient. This is the spirit that makes the older Scout into a gentle, helpful, reliable woman. Ours is a circle of friends united by ideals. I was led to Juliette Gordon Low when trying to draw attention to someone famous who had something to do with this week's interviewee, Lisa Day Long. When Juliette Gordon Low's name came up in a Google search for famous women from Georgia, I had a classic head-smacking moment. Not only did we have three generations of girl scouts in my family, but I visited her beautiful and fascinating home in Savannah, Georgia. Addition year marks the 100th anniversary of the 1990s. You can learn a lot more about this leader and champion girls on the Girl Scout website HERE. Juliette Gordon Low Quotes The work of today is the history of tomorrow, and we are its creators. My goal ... Continue with heart and soul, dedicate all our energy to the Girl Scouts, and the heart and hand with them will make our lives and the lives of future girls happy. It's right, even if no one else does it. Scouting rises in you and inspires you to put out the best there. To put yourself in a different place requires a real imagination, but by doing so every Scout will be able to love among other things happily. We must accept the fact that transport and communications will bring the world into close relations, and the youth of the world should share common standards and ideals. Ours is a circle of friendships united by ideals. If you've ever made it to Savannah, I highly recommend visiting juliette gordon low's house, especially if you're a bit of a history enthusiast. I came away from a inspired tour! The portrait of Low above was painted by Edward Hughes. It hangs in the National Portrait Gallery and is in the public domain since the copyright expired.
