When was the last time you played a game as a parent named Susan wearing a chicken suit? Last week, you said? Okay. But can that old man explode like a balloon? And does he still have his arms attached to his body? Wakakak that's what I thought. YamaYama is out. Today. Gives you all the sleeveless action you can expect in a party game. You may be wondering at this point what YamaYama? Well, it's a videogame built for two to four friends who want to laugh and have fun. In terms of YamaYama is basically simple, although there are features installed beyond your imagination. You can enjoy a match with anyone: your children, friends, parents or cat. It's pretty simple, but planning and backstabbing are part of the game. There are many different game modes in YamaYama. You have to hitch a ride on the flying pancakes that the bees are driving. Then there's the one where you have to save the penguin before it's shot at the rocket into space while the other players try to stop you. The list goes on. How do you feel about the fatsuit? You know, you see at city fairs and carnivals. We enjoyed it! So much so that we have built YamaYama around that idea; all characters have the ability to fatsuit. We don't know how it works in other games, but in YamaYama if you press a certain button the character you play as a fatsuit, pushes all the other players away. That's how it works in real life, because of physics and - I don't know - science? But be careful: others can fatsuit. When eliminated in YamaYama you can still play the game, move your indicators and drop traps of various types to tamper with the results of the match. Do other players mean a lot to you? Revenge from beyond the grave! So! Now you know a number of YamaYama. Play with your friends in over twenty game modes in different arenas with six uniquely drawn characters.
