Help Center Final Fantasy 14 has just received its first batch of new content since the launch of Shadowbringers! You can now play the first four missions of the Eden raid, which we currently have some of the best gear in the game. But it's not just about being good. It's about looking good. And the FF14 Fashion Report is the primary way to parade things around. More importantly though, it's also a way to make the economy easy for MGP! That's why we're revved up for week 77 of the FF14 Fashion Report – including how to get the easy 80 points this time around. Don't you know? This is another incredibly simple Fashion Report this week! There's just a lot of options. The easy 80 - the Fashion Report score, which is the maximum reward for minimal effort - is not bad at all. Players level 10 and above should be able to scrape together a bare minimum in addition to effortlessly. Although mileage may vary when it comes to a particular but fairly common tone this week. You also like it: FF14 doesn't make bones about how players look good. Fashion is such an important element of the game, in fact, that the developer Square Enix introduced the FF14 Fashion Report. This week's challenge allows players to play dress-up for fabulous prizes. Well, specifically, the challenge charges a huge amount of MGP (a special currency used in Manderville Gold Saucer) that can be exchanged for prizes. You just have to earn an increasingly elusive easy 80 points in the Fashion Report by wearing the right outfit every weekend. Special thanks to the indomitable r/kaiyoko for sorting out many of these figures in the Final Fantasy 14 subreddit every week. FF14 Fashion Report Scoring – The basics, as always, you can participate in the FF14 Fashion Report at the Manderville Gold Saucer. Simply head to Wonder Square and talk about Masked Rose! You want to have at least one random piece of gear equipped with almost every slot for your character. It will earn you at least 68 Fashion Report points for not working at all. This does not include Soul Crystals, belts, or off-hand items either. From here you can increase your score if you meet the categories defined by the Fashion Report Judge, as well as adding certain dyes. Pairing the right clothing category with the weekly theme is worth 6-10 points. The correct colour of the paint (e.g. grey, white, black, etc.) is added to one bonus point, while finding the right shade of paint (e.g. Ice Blue, Chocolate Brown, etc.) is worth two points per hor. Using dye to boost your fashion report score is usually easier than matching every category item perfectly, because most paints are horribly cheap and accessible, while most garments are expensive – or they need high ranks of crafting Jobs to create. Of course, this is not always the case, as some dyes are only available for special currencies or real money from the Mog station. FF14 Fashion Report: Easy 80 points for 76. If level 29 is literally any class or 1 00 000 - whether you are a disciple of war, magic, hand, or earth - just buy yourself a Toadskin Jerkin. There's only a few thousand gils on the market. Although mileage may vary depending on the server and time, of course. Here's a fuller list of FF14 Fashion Report items for Week 77: Head - Sharlayan Glasses (Gold Saucer), Shady Visor (Vanu Vanu Beast Tribe), Imperial Shadow Visor (Hidden Skin Map), Sable Death Mask (Complete throughout the Allied Beast Tribe quest line) Neck - N/A Body - Toadskin Jerkin, Raptorskin Jerkin, Boarskin Jerkin Gloves - N/ The Legs - Raimie Pants For Striking/Scouting/Targeting (Nolraise, Ishgard - The Columns), Picaroon's Pants For Striking/Scouting/Targeting (Ultimate Boss Drops Amdaporor Keep Hard and Keeper of the Lake) Feet - Thavnairian Babouches, Thavnairian Sandals, Marid Leather Babouches with Crafting/Gathering Earrings - N/A Wrist - N/A Ring - N/A If you have one or manage to acquire one, you can supplement the rest of your outfit by using two or more perfectly correct dyes. Keep in mind that you need to add at least two top-level paints if you only use one of the gears listed above. Unfortunately, there's no one perfect retoni this week. Ash Grey Dye can be already every Dyemonger NPC in every major city. It's something everyone can enjoy. The next two easiestoptions are only directly purchasable from Beast Tribes. This means that you need to have bred a reputation for lxal and/or Sahagin to acquire them. Soot Black Dye could have had a few hundred gil through lxal Sale if he achieved his revered reputation. While coral pink is only available in Sagahin, it has friendly status. You might find both of them on the market as well. But at least my server (Excalibur) Coral Pink goes for the outrageous price. The best paints in the FF14 Fashion Report this week are: Weapon - Ash Grey (Dyemongers) Head - Coral Pink (Sahagin Beast Tribe) Body - Jet Black (Real Money Purchase) Gloves - Jet Black (Real Money Purchase) Legs - Soot Black (lxal Beast Tribe) Feet - Pink Coral (Sahagin Beast Tribe) FF14 Fashion Report Tips this week, as mentioned earlier, it's been a relatively simple week. Considering the sheer number of opportunities, mid- and high-level players should have zero problems. You may already have what you need just for Dungeons! The only question is if you're stuck on level 29, in front of Heavensward, and you have to rely on Toadskin Jerkin and paints. Since both best paints are tied to Beast Tribes, you may not be able to buy the best matches outright. But don't worry. You don't have to be punctual. While purchasing two-point matching paints is the cheapest method, you can also slightly different shades to make up the difference. Just grab that Ash Grey Dye for your gun and complete it in two pots with any red color on your head and feet. You can only get half the points matching the right color paint, but not in the shade. Yet it's still plenty to get you the simple 80 points in the Fashion Report this week. If you are terribly low on gil, but have plenty of MGP for some reason, there are also the Sharlayan Specs. You can buy these 20,000 MGP from the Gold Saucer – and wear them as low as the first level in each class. This makes this a good alternative for players who have not yet reached level 29 as well. You might avoid some of that with all the important MGP, but you can also turn a profit. Finally, for maximum stinginess, there's the dungeon gear. Those Picaroon pants that we have-you drop are the last boss of Keeper of the Lake and Amdaporor Keep (Hard). This is not exactly the most effective way to get your gear, since in both cases you need to run the entire dungeon just for a chance at the right drop. But it's an opportunity. You can always try to run them un synchronised to quickly delete them. Then, however, you need to level 50 for the right work, depending on the drop. These can be Dragon, Ninja, Monk, Bard, mechanical, or dancer. And, as always the case, you must first complete your quest for Color Your World to apply paint to FF14. You can start to level 15 as any class speaks Swyrngest west thanalan (X: 12.6 Y: 14.3). Even if you hit the easy 80 points this week without paints, it's also worth future FF14 Fashion Report checks. You can also get a few free paints to go wrong, to start with! These are normal paint paints. As such, they often work on the FF14 Fashion Report in the coming weeks. And here it is! This should et et the right way for the FF14 Fashion Report this week. Be sure to check next Friday for another update and instructions on how to farm your 60,000 or more MGP. In the meantime, good luck and have fun out there, adventurer! Adventurers!
