Related Posts Every week we have a special letter of the week. During the week we make crafts that contain the letter of the week and practice the upper and lower cases of the letter. WHAT WE DO - ACTIVITIES: During the week we learn of a specific letter (in this case the Letter B), we will often do an activity celebrating that letter. Some ideas for the letter B go to a Baseball or Basketball game, ride Bikes or go to a Ballet (in our family, Daddy does sports and Mommy does culture "grin") WHAT WE DO - BODY: We chose our back as the body part for B week. We did simple exercises stretching our backs and then Mommy and Daddy gave the girls a Back Rub. WHAT WE DO - CRAFT: Trying a Picture. Get a package of mixed dried beans (about $2 at your grocery store). The mixed packages come in many different colors. Young children will get a lot of practice with fine motor skills that pick out beans. Before you make your picture, you can sort the kids the beans in their different colors (my youngest daughter likes to sort things). Then take a simple coloring book photo (try the Butterfly Photo or our Letter B template). Let the kids glue the beans to the picture to colour it in. Be sure to craft for about 5 or 10 minutes and then practice letters for a bit... it keeps the kids interested in both activities! WHAT WE DO - FOOD: Bananas are a Beautiful "wink" food to use during B week. For those incredible cooks out there, make Banana Bread with your kids. They love to smuse up the bananas and stir everything together (even more than eating the finished product in my household). Or, for those busy B weeks, take a short slice and make peanut butter sandwiches (with bread of course) and slice bananas on top. If you make the slices small (cut the circular slices into 1/3 or 1/2), the kids can make designs or faces. If you leave them in circles, they run out of the room too quickly. Are you looking for letter B crafts? This Printable B is for Bee Letter Craft activity is ideal for toddlers and toddlers. Not only is my free printable letter crafting fun they also work the fine motor skills! Add this printable letter craft to your letter of the week preschool curriculum for more theme fun.
