Don't miss his 'Runaway Tour' when it comes to you! Don't miss Post Malone's 'Escape Tour' when it comes to you! Post Malone There's a joke, love him or leave him pop and hip-hop mainstay headlines sold out Wednesday night at Bridgestone Arena as part of his extensive Runaways tour. Rocking a vintage Tim McGraw T-shirt (hear good stuff from your show tonight, McGraw Later jested on Twitter) and a playful slurping from the Bud Light Cup, the night began with a hit of self-deprecation from this 24-year-old star. But his opening speech didn't stop with the profound jabs at the isolation of voting society in his music. He continues to share. My greatest prayers and my greatest love for those in central Tennessee who were affected by the deadly tornado that tore through the region earlier this week. I just want to say my biggest prayers and faith are with everyone here. Thank you so much for coming out tonight, ladies and gentlemen, and strong ladies and gentlemen. Thank you so much for tonight. The trail of ruins across Tennessee. With a collection of tough and heartbreaking party music Malone devoted Wednesday to a celebration of life - an 80-minute party filled with pyrotechnics and high-energy anthems for bleaching shakes. Onlookers worked the catwalk stage in his blue jeans and shirt. (Malone often expressed gratitude for the country's western culture by wearing dolly parton's face during his Bonnaroo headline set last summer to sport a suit influenced by Nudie). Malone played host in what felt like Nashville's biggest home party. Soundtrack? A mix of pop and hip-hop from the most committed stars when he wasn't committed to both categories, Malone gained heavy metal influence for Ozzy Osborne's 2019 Take What You Want collaboration and took off his show down to the center stage with an acoustic guitar for Stay of 2018 (he later smashed the guitar during the Rockstar Number Doom, a rare image in the city's favourite musical instrument). Congratulations. The number 2016 that he devoted to living your dreams, whatever you want to do, and he delivered it all with admiration for the out-of-the-world city to celebrate life.
