Grupa sastāv no Robert Curry, Brian Angel, Willie Taylor, Qwanell Mosley un Michael McCluney, Pavārds ir veiltjums the day that Angel, McCluney, Moseley, Curry, and Taylor went from unknown to stars. The band released their first album, Day26, on March 25, 2008, one week after labelmates and Making The Band 3 winners Danity Kane released Welcome to dollhouse. The album's first single, Got Me Going, was released in the group 4 final. The album continued to debut at number one on the billboard charts. Subsequent seasons of Making a Band 4 featured the band on tour and making their second album Forever Day, which also topped the Billboard charts. Career Making Band 4 returned to MTV for another season and was followed by Day26, Danity Kane and Donnie Klang on the Making The Band tour. Season 3, Part 2 of Making the Band 4 debuted on February 12, 2009. The season followed Day26 as they recorded their second album, Forever Day, which was released April 14, 2009. Brian Andrews, Michael McCluney, Qwanell Mosley, Robert Curry, and Willie Taylor were selected as part of Diddy's brand new all-male R& amp; amp; B music group while fellow cast member Donnie Klang was selected as solo artist by Bad Boy Records. The name of the 26th day was chosen from the day they were released, which was August 26, 2007. After being signed as the band Bad Boy, Day 26 began another season of Making a Band with label assistants Danity Kane and Donnie Klang. After this season, Day 26's debut single Got Me Going was released for download in January 2008. Got Me Going finally reached #79 on the Billboard Hot 100. Day 26 later released his self-titled album Day26 on March 25, 2008. The following week, the album #1 on The Billboard 200 selling 190,000 copies. This is the third feat #1. Album production includes Mario Winans, Danja, Bryan-Michael Cox, Strings, and following many others. The second single Since You've Gone was released on June 9, 2008. The song failed to reach the Billboard Hot 100, but #52 the Billboard Hot R& amp; amp; B/Hip-Hop Songs. The third single was scheduled, but was written off due to low album sales and production on the next album. In total, the album sold 387,000 copies. On August 19, 2008, Day26 returned with another season of Making a Band. This season involved Making a Band 4 - Tour, which decided the collapse of Danity Kane. 2009-2011: Forever In The Day and the new lineup Of Making a Band 4 returned to MTV for another season and was followed by Day26, Danity Kane and Donnie Klang on the Making The Band tour. Season 3, Part 2 of Making the Band 4 debuted on February 12, 2009. MTV aired Part II of the last season of Making a Band 4. The season was followed by Day26 as they recorded their second album, Forever Day, which was released April 14, 2009. It also featured past Danity Kane Dawn Richard and Andrea Fimbres are trying to move forward with their group. During the season Que had several disagreements with Screwface, the group's new manager and several members of the group. In December 2009, after differences with their new management team, especially their manager Screwface, Que separated ways with the group. Que has made several videos talking about the split. In his UStream, he read an excerpt from a letter he received notifying him that he had fallen out of the group. Dear Qwanell, I have been instructed by Day26 members to copy here to officially advise you that group members no longer want to work with you. Participants shall request that you no longer contact our representatives on behalf of or in connection with Day26. You can have your lawyers, also copy here, just any investigation to my attention. Brian, Willie, Robert and Michael wish you the best in your future endeavors Que appeared on Imma Put It on her music video and future music video album. 2011-2012: New Day and Collapse In November 2011 the band recently released the single Made Love. The music video was released in January 2012. They also announced that they are working on a new album, titled New Day. On July 16, 2012, the news hit the media, which Day26 officially announced its downfall and plans to continue his solo career. With great sadness and deep pain, we regret to inform you that effective immediately, the Atlantic Records Platinum recording group, DAY26, has decided to take a break from the band and focus on its individual projects. On behalf of all participants; Willie, Mike, Rob, Brian and even Que, we'd like to thank all the fans a.g. fans, dj's around the world, promoters, radio programmers, Bad Boy Entertainment, Starstruck Management, BET, VH1 and Fuses in general, for your unending support throughout these years. We would also like to admit that this trip would not have been possible without the vision and mastermind of Sean Diddy Combs and, of course, MTV Networks, to make a group of unknown male stars that they are today. We just thank you from the bottom of our hearts and really want you to know that the journey will not end here. We continue to wish each other the best and constant success in all our individual efforts, and all we ask of you is to please give each member a chance and a chance to shine no matter what they do. ... And as the saying goes, it's not goodbye, but just see you later. God bless you all, Much Love, Day26. 2013-present: Reunion and Return Tour on Thursday November 21, 2013, fans received word via Twitter from several group members that the band would merge and plan a tour for next year. Several videos have hit the web showing a group material for the upcoming new album. The band planned to release the album before the tour kicked off and in doing so, signed with BMG Rights Management. On May 26, 2014, Day26 releases its first single,, at its upcoming EP, titled Return, released on June 26, 2014. In the spring of 2017, all day26 participants announced that they will have a 10-year anniversary experience concert on social media to be held at the Highline Ballroom in New York on August 26 to mark the day they were formed in 2007. Due to the venue being sold out and huge fans demanding more tickets, the band decided to add an encore concert on August 27. Joining the concert magazine for the show is the band's fellow reality show Making The Band 4/label mate Donnie Klang, who will also celebrate his 10-year solo reunion on the day he chose P. Diddy, who kick-started his career. In a recent interview with radio personality Sway on his radio show, Sways Universe, Willie announced that the band was recording their third studio album, but also discussing what fame has done for the band in their 10 years, as well as opening up about the controversy with Diddy by not allowing the band to appear on the Bad Boy Family Reunion Tour. [1] On June 29, 2018, Brian Angel leaves the 26th day. The singer announced her departure via an Instagram post. It saddened me to announce that I am no longer part of day 26 there are no problems between us, no anger or anything of that nature. it was a decision that I made just myself. as you guys know, we recently celebrated our 10th anniversary. they are currently on a journey. and yes, I'm away from traveling dealing with a lot of personal issues. I wish the guys of day 26 nothing but the best (of course im forever day 26 they tattooed in my skin), but this chapter in my life is close to me. I'm drawn to Brian Angel and all my solo endeavors. I look forward to all your future support... God bless you all pre-day26 Careers Accordingly, two of the band members were seasoned artists before auditioning for the series Making a Band. The development of their careers would eventually lead them to their own path of success. Robert Curry Robert was part of a voice/hip hop teen duo from Detroit in the late 1990s called Antuan & amp; Ray Ray, which was a 3-track collaboration and features New Edition/BBD member Mike Bivins recording label BIV 10 Adventures BIV 10 Pee All Stars Album. Robert performed under the stage name Antuan, and his other half of the band Ray Ray is Rashad Morgan, who went on to become an R& amp; amp; B artist rapper T.I. Grand Hustle Records. [2] Their best-known song and video from the album was Feelin It, which was also part of the animated film Our Friend, Martin's Soundtrack. [3] Another well received song for the album duo was Rain, a remake of the cover version of the 1974 classic song Remember The Rain in the 21st century. After his contribution with BIV 10, Curry became a songwriter, promoting lyrics to many in the artist industry. [4] Willie Taylor Willie was previously part of the R& amp; amp; B vocal band from his hometown of Chicago called the Kwiet Storm in the late 1990s. Their band released a music video for Leave Me Alone, which distributes BET music video playlists and shows including 106 & amp; Park. Taylor left the band a few years later to start a solo career and become a songwriter for many artists such as Jagged Edge and Ginuwine.The band Kwiet Storm eventually sign with Island Def Jam a few years after Willie became part of Day 26.
