Nicknamed Tater Salad, he is the author of a book I had the right to stay quiet but I didn't have the abilities that appeared on the New York Times best-seller list. Biography of Ronald Dee White was born on December 18, 1956 in Fritch, Texas, to Charles Don White and Barbara Joan Craig. [1] White served in the U.S. Navy. According to his account, White joined the service at age 17 and served as an additional rescue and rescue ship for the USS Conserver at the end of the Vietnam War. [2] From a young age his dream was to become a comedian. He lived in Mexico for a short time and bought a ceramics factory there[3] before returning to the U.S. to persecute the comedian. From January 2000 to March 2003, White toured with Jeff Foxworthy, Bill Engvall, and Larry Cable Guy as part of the Blue Collar Comedy Tour — a show that sold out across the U.S. in more than 90 cities and grossed over $15 million. [1] He's speaking on Blue Collar TV. In 2005, the WB Television Network aired pilot Ron White Show, a variety show that put together several celebrity cameos, cartoons, and sketches. He taped several episodes of The Gong Show with Dave Attell as one of the celebrity judges. White has appeared on TV shows Kath & Kim, Reno 911!, 12 miles of bad road, movie Sex and the City 2 and Horrible Bosses, and a cameo in rascal flatts music videos, Why Wait. [4] White is known for drinking Scotch as part of his activities, as well as smoking cigars or cigarettes. He announced during his You Can't Fix Stupid show, Somebody asked what I was drinking. If the company that made the stuff I was drinking paid me, I'd put it in my bottle instead of mine. But it's the kind of Scotch that people drink that are going to die penniless. That's right though! [5] In 2009, Comedy Central released get up dvd behavior problems. In 2010, Ron White and producer Michael Blakey created organica music group (OMG), a label that promotes both young and established musicians and comedians. OMG indicated that it will release all whites for future DVDs and CDs.[6] In November 2015, White announced that he would stand for President of the United States as an independent candidate in 2016. [7] In 2016, White starred Phil, a veteran motoring manager in the fictional Statona-House band, showtime series Roadies. Personal life White was married to Lori Brice from 1981 to 1993, and they had one son, Marshall. He was then married to Barbara Dobbs from 2004 to 2008, and he married the singer Margo Rey; from 2017, the two are no longer together, with White claiming that they were never legally married. On August 6, 2019, the La Supreme Court issued a ruling in which the judge stood with Ray and declared the couple married under Texas law. [8] On 7 September 2008, White was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and drug apaphernalia on anonymous advice, told Vero Beach, Florida police, that white private planes were taking drugs. [10] [11] It was found that he owns 7/8 grams of marijuana, which White later described as marijuana. [12] [13] Awards and Recognition, April 27, 2009, Texas state law officials were designated as Ron White Day. [14] White received the Armed Forces Foundation Patriot Award in March 2009 for his work to raise money to help wounded soldiers. [15] He also holds the benefit of the relief of Hurricane Katrina. White's 2012 comedy album Little Unprofessional was nominated for the January 56 Grammy Awards.
