Illuminator ir (an/peq-15) tm

U.S. Government and Law Enforcement is the standard subject laser module for U.S. Warfighter that is only available for Advanced Target Pointer/Illuminator/Engagement Light (ATPIAL). Designed and built as an IR laser/illuminator assembled in the next generation of weapons, it faithfully served U.S. Military Forces and Law Enforcement agencies for years instead of fighting for the venerable AN/PEQ-2A. One of the most important developments in ATPIAL is the addition of co-aligned visible laser diode flour, which increases functionality that allows use without night vision devices. Slave with visible laser IR laser pointer means zero with one, the same zero fuses as the other. This is extremely advantageous because you can reset or control your zero during the day using a simple drilling technique. ATPIAL's increased functionality comes from nearly half the weight and predecessor size. The exceptional functionality of this unit provides everything you can ask for in a single compact package. Its design levels the unit low from the rail and wraps picatinny in a low-profile way, resistant to knots. This is carried out using recessed railway-grabber assembly. Recessed controls are located on top of the dwelling for easy access in the field with gloves. The body body is built from a high density/impact polymer and is extremely robust. The material takes a lot of weight, the unit of appreciation for long hours carrying a rifle. ATPIAL also offers a rear-facing battery compartment that allows the user to remove the device (we know not to store our high-end NV and laser equipment with batteries installed, don't we?) without removing the unit. A molded cord ring rolls the back. Windage and Height are adjusted with small screws on the top and sides of the unit. Each adjustment generates a positive click. A tool need to adjust wind/height because it keeps setting points low profile so it doesn't catch them in the field. The standard problem for ATPIAL (AN/PEQ-15) U.S. Fighter jets is the weapon-mounted laser unit. IR Lasers are limited to Law Enforcement and Government sales only and cannot be sold to civilians. Purchase of IR Laser equipment can only take place at the Department, Agency or Unit level. IR Lasers cannot be sold to individual Law Enforcement, Military, Government or Contractor personnel. No exceptions. If you are a government employee and want to buy an IR laser, the agency should place an order for you. We don't make the rules, but we follow them. These lasers are regulated by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration). Price queries must include an email request from an official government or government contractor email address. All ITAR restrictions apply. Signed in only to customers who purchased product may leave a review.
