Excerpted from Guy Berryman Phillips was born in rural Randolph County, North Carolina, in 1890 near Asheboro. Her father and mother moved their five children to the Trinity College community to take advantage of the great educational opportunity. (Trinity College was then transferred to Durham and became Duke University.) His two brothers and two sisters continued to live in the former home area of Randolp and Guilford counties. After graduating from Trinity High School, Dr. Phillips entered the University of North Carolina and graduated in 1913. He later earned a master's degree in arts from Columbia University and received an honorary D. Litt. from High Point College. He also did a special job at the Chicago Univeristy. In 1917, Dr. Phillips was married to Annie Elizabeth Craig of Monroe, North Carolina. Their four sons (Guy B. Jr., Charles Craig, Andrew Craig, Robert Lee) and their daughter Helen were all educated at the University of North Carolina. From 1913 to 1916 he was an English teacher and sports coach at Raleigh High School, from where he went to Oxford as superintendent of schools. From that time until he joined the staff of the University of North Carolina in 1936 as an education teacher, he was a high school principal in Greensboro and superintendent of Salisbury and Greensboro schools. From 1937 to 1958, he was director of the summer session at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and during that time, from 1948 to 1954, he was dean of the University's School of Education. Throughout this period of teaching and school administrator, Mr. Phillips has also participated in various professional activities as well as activities in his church and community. Eugenia Floyd, a fourth-grade teacher at Scroggs Elementary School and teacher of the year 2020-2021 at Chapel Hill-Carrboro Municipal Schools, was named one of nine regional teachers of the year in North Carolina. She will qualify for the 2021 Burroughs Wellcome Fund North Teacher of the Year.
