Jill D wrote a review 202014 contribution 2 helpful votes it was good to be able to ferry back and forth from the Westin to the historic district. It was much faster than driving back and forth. Date of experience: November 20201 wrote helpful voting helpful Robert M Review Jun 2020 Winterhaven, Florida 96 Contribution 36 Useful votes This small non-promoted gem offers a free trip across the river and back from the convention center. If you have young people or want to take a boat ride, take advantage of this free city-sponsored excursion to provide a river experience. We didn't see much to do on the convention side of the river, but the return trip really gives a great perspective of what the shops in front of the river can visit. Spend an hour sitting in your seat and holding hands to enjoy the ride. Savannah Bell Ferry is part of the region's subway transportation system and operates from the river playground in downtown Savannah to Hutchinson Island across the Savannah River. The ferry's name comes from a group of four famous Savannah women. The Savannah Convention Center and hotel are located on Hutchinson Island, and the island offers stunning panoramic views of Savannah. The Savannah Bell Ferry fleet includes four different ships named for notable women in Savannah's history: Juliet Gordon Rowe, Susie King Taylor, Florence Martus and Mary Musgrove. Juliet Gordon Rowe (1860-1927) founded the first American Girl Scout corps in her hometown of Savannah in 1912. The Girl Scouts are committed to promoting strong leadership and decision-making skills among young women. Susie King Taylor (1848-1912) lived in Savannah and gained freedom from slavery at the age of 14. She served as a nurse for black soldiers and contributed to civil war efforts by teaching reading and writing. She opened one of Savannah's first schools for African-American children. Florence Martus (1868-1943), known in Savannah as the girl waving, was the daughter of a ceremonial sergeant at Fort Pski who took herself on to become the ship's unofficial greeter to Savannah. Legend has it that in 44 years no ship entered the harbor without her waving a white handkerchief or lantern. Her statue continues to greet visitors to the port from Morell Park along the river. Mary Musgrove Mary Musgrove (1700-1765) served as an interpreter for General Oglethorpe at the time of Savannah's founding. She played a key role in the negotiations between Tomodo and the Creek Indians, persuading them to peacefully accept a new colony on their territory. This is a great way to avoid the traffic on Bay Street and the fear of trying to find parking in the city designed for horses and buggies, especially during the tourist season and weekends. Park at a free spot at the Convention Center on Hutchinson Island, walk around the building on the Westin Hotel side, go down the stairs to the ferry landing, and board a wonderful free old ferry boat across the river to the city. Please prepare a camera or smartphone. You may encounter huge container ships or just pleasure boats, but if young kids are with you, they will enjoy the ride even more. The ride back to your vehicle from the city docks after a fun and boring tour of the city is equally relaxing and complimentary. Oh.... Did I say it was free? Grab a ferry across the Savannah River to hutchinson Island, a charming resort perfect for the weekend. It is easily accessed by free ferry or Talmadge Bridge from downtown Savannah, Georgia, and includes the Savannah International Trade Convention Center and the Westin Savannah Harbor Golf Resort & Torun Golf and designed by Pro Robert Cup and Sam Snead. You can take a golf clinic to improve your game or hire a PGA Pro for private lessons. Admission for one child is also free for each adult who pays for the game. This National Audubon Society certification course offers a glimpse of crocodiles living in eagles, ospreys, hawks, Chester, and Hall 17. Visit Heavenly Spa in the Westin. Choose from deep tissue, sports, hot river rock, aromatherapy massages and a hydrotherapy tub session. Includes scrub peeling, customized facials, manicures, pedicures, and waxing services. Couples massages and bridal packages are also available. The spa also has fitness facilities where you can work out with a personal trainer, assess your fitness or attend a small class. Breakfast and snacks are served at the coffee shop in the lobby. For lunch and dinner, guests can choose between casual poolside dining dishes or seafood and steak dishes from celebrity chefs. For golf lovers, the hotel also operates a bar and grill with views of the course. There are specialty bars including bourbon, champagne, chocolates, cigars and wine. On Sundays, I indulge in brunch while listening to jazz combos. Westin sponsors oyster roasts on the first Friday of every month from March to November. Eat oysters, prawns and other grilled items, roast marshmallows and bake other items. A full bar and live music round out the itinerary. Light up the night Throughout December, the Savannah Harbor Light Festival lights up Hutchinson Island with two miles of lights and a winter village. Walk, drive your own car, and take a carriage or trolley tour past the exhibits. The proceeds benefit nonprofits that support at-risk children and teens, as well as homeless and needy families.
