focused on gear in a vacuum that the gear as a whole isn't considered. In general, it's a decent starting guide for everyone who doesn't know much about the class, but is pretty lethargic and sword focused once you do. Also, I would argue that focusing on +hit is misplaced for sword rogue as well given the +swords skills though combat swords will run rogue. At least give a context for how much hit a rogue should rifle for in a pve environment relative to +weapon vs. no +weapon. Edit: and while I'm at it, Bracers of the Eclipse > Nightslayer Bracers. Press != better. You should add boots from the Shadow Flame and Nightslayer Shoulders as BIS items for dagger rogues in Stage 3. Because they are closed to elderly core leather gloves, they will benefit more from the non-set items. Boots and shoulders are incredibly weak T2 items pre-raid bit needs to be changed to 6pc shade, it's way more dps than devil's courus mixed with down pieces of Boots from Shadow Flame BIS for dagger roguesNightslayer Shoulder Pads BIS for dagger roguesQuesDagger crook can't get the 8p set bonus because we need to wear aged core leather gloves, so our BiS is different please correct the list. You forgot to call the Dragonfang Blade for the off-hand, it's slightly better than the Core Hound Tooth. (The Shadowpanther website says that it's slotter.) There is extremely valuable content in the comments, especially mention updated information obtained from classic dissent and updated sim spreadhseets. Not updating the guide is misleading to both rogue and other players (spoilers board members, curious other classes competing on gear, etc.) that probably won't bother with reading the comments. The directory must be updated please. Thankscc: @wowhead, @rokman You should add that Maladath, Runed Blade of the Black Flight is not the best in slot for Human Sword Crook are Warblade of the Hakkari Where are the Shade Boots? o. 0 0
