Metropolitan high school bronx

A positive school climate promotes school safety, students' self-esteem, emotional well-being, mental health and a lower incidence of substance abuse, student absenteeism and suspensions. The New York State Education Department (NYSED) continues to promote initiatives to support student engagement and thereby enhance student achievement, safety and wellness. Our social emotional learning materials support the priorities of the state's ESSA plan and promote a positive school climate. Resources set benchmarks and frameworks for teachers to implement social emotional learning practices in their schools and classrooms. Mental health education can help young people and their families and lead to positive decision-making and lifelong success. School safety indicates the safety of the school environment based on reported incidents. Student-level attendance What percentage of students attended school on days when the school was open? 78% Student suspension rate What percentage of students have been suspended from school for at least one full day during the school year? 4% Chronic absenteeism rate What percentage of students were absent 10 percent or more of the days they were enrolled in school? % × The high rate of absenteeism and low achievement of the Metropolitan High School was founded in 2005, and in 2016 merged with the former Peace and Diversity High School, another small school in the same building. The first year after the merger was difficult because there was a high turnover of employees. Students said they felt they didn't recognize their school because many adults were new and the two students' bodies were connected, according to the school's latest comprehensive education plan. In response, staff introduced measures to increase student morale and engagement, including peer leadership programs and teacher advisory groups. The school is still struggling. Its graduation rate is very low and many students are chronically absent. Metropolitan High School is housed in the Building of the Reverend James A. Polite Educational Team, which offers basketball facilities, a basketball court, a large football field and a track. ADMISSIONS: A priority for Bronx students. The school does not take into account assessments or test results.
