Brio train table top

Together with wooden train sets, wooden train tables are a classic feature of the children's playroom at home and in the preschool classroom. It can be difficult, though, to get an idea of all the options that are out there — after all, I consider myself a pretty expert train stuff finder at this point, and it took me several different search tactics to discover all the train tables here on this list! And so I hope that this list of the best train tables for toddlers and preschoolers will be helpful in your search. This guide was last updated on September 10, 2018. This post contains affiliate links to websites that sell these products. Posts in Ultimate Wood Train Guide: The Best Wooden Train Sets The Best Wooden Train Sets: UK Edition The Best Wooden Train Table for Toddlers and Preschoolers Do You Need a Train Table? Alternative to Gluing wooden train tracks to train tables wooden train tracks wooden train bridges and elevated tracks roundhouses and engine sheds organize wooden trains and track wooden freight wagons... and more to come! It has taken me a long time to figure out how to write this post. Although I have a lot of firsthand knowledge about the different brands of train sets, there are only so many train tables that a family can own (in our case, one at home and one at my mother's house). But when I got into the research for this, I realized that we've played on many different train tables in bookstores and toy stores, and from carefully reading as many reviews as I could, I think I could tell which train tables were a good bet. I've listed as many train table options as I could here, but as you'll read, some of my recommendations for the tables on the list are much more enthusiastic than others. But before you read this list, there's a question you should ask: do you really need a train table? If you are unsure if you should buy a train table, you should read my honest review of the pros and cons of train tables, based on my own experience and on conversations with other train parents. I've changed people's minds in both directions! If you already have a complete wooden train that, or are planning to buy one separately, buying a train table that doesn't come with a train set makes a lot of sense. Also, most of the higher quality tables I didn't find with train sets included, so if you can afford to buy them separately, I recommend starting here. If you buy a train table and need a set to go with it, you can find lots of great options in our Guide to Best Wooden Train Sets (which are now shown in both an AMERICAN edition and a UK edition). Made in USA Hardwood Train Tables These are the most powerful, safest way to go when buying a train table. Some of them are also a very, very good deal in comparison to some of the brand train tables names I'll list below, given that they are much better made with better materials. If you can get one of these, it's probably your best bet. Especially if your little one is likely to try to climb the top of the table like mine did! Sodura Birch Wood Train Table Made in the United States of all birch wood and finished with an industrial-grade, low-VOC, non-toxic finish. 3/4 hardwood legs and solid construction make this a sturdy table that seems like it will hold up to a lot of games. You can fit two Sodura Birch Train Table Trundle Boxes underneath for storage. Judging by Amazonreviews, this table would be an excellent choice. Little Colorado Handcrafted Play Table – Unfinished (US) and Little Colorado Kid's Play Table – Natural (US/CA) Little Colorado makes its train tables out of Baltic birch wood, and the description indicates that it can hold 300 pounds, so it sounds pretty solid. They are apparently a very green company, using water-based, low-VOC, American-made finishes, wood from environmentally responsible suppliers, low-formaldehyde MDF, and 100% recycled packaging. (I'm not sure if the table is solid wood or if the top is MDF.) At 19 inches tall, these tables are almost as high as the Beka table below, which is great as preschoolers get taller. Also available: Storage Box Set Finish: Ground / Unfinished and Storage Box Set Finish: Natural Lacquer. Beka Basic Train Table with Top ( US ) This train table is made in the United States of unfinished solid maple with a Baltic birch two-piece top. I also like the height of this table — 20 1/4 inches — because most train tables are short for older preschoolers. For toddlers, you can contact the company and request shorter legs for an additional price. (Personally, I would have just gone with the longer legs and let him grow into them.) You can also buy Beka train trundle boxes separately (two will fit under the table) or buy the table along with two boxes for about the same price as buying them separately. Nilo® Multi-Activity Childrens Play Table Their website states that half the table is made in the United States, with a sturdy hardwood frame and melamine top. This seems to be a very innovative table, which comes in two different sizes and the ability to have holes around the outside that will allow you to attach accessories to connect to many different types of toys. They also sell LEGO/DUPLO-compatible base plates to fit their table. The company has obviously put a lot of thought into making the table as functional as possible. The tables are 19 high, but you can also buy 24 legs to allow the table to grow with your child. Train Tables Online is another source for hardwood, Made-in-USA wood Tables. Their train tables come in cherry, red oak, poplar and maple. You can choose different play boards for the top, from Thomas-brand them to solid wooden boards that match the table. Trundle boxes for storage are also available. They also offer customized after-treatment services. These are slightly more expensive than the Beka and Little Colorado tables, but they look pretty beautiful. International shipping may exist; the site says to contact for shipping quotes to locations outside of 48 contiguous states. Choo Choo Track & Toy Co. also has a made in the USA wooden train table. It's more expensive than the others on this list, but again, it looks like a very nice option. Shipping is only available within the 48 contiguous states. TAG Child's Activity Table (US/CA) A made-in-the-US activity table with interesting shelves under the tabletop. We had a TAG toddler table and chair for our son when he was littler, and we loved it. The chair was also a nice size to pull up next to his train table. Modular/Portable Train Tables Connect 2 Play 24 x 48 inch Portable Activity Table (2 sections) and Connect 2 Play 48 x 48 inch Modular Activity Table (4 sections) These robust plastic activity tables are easy to put together — once you've got the hang of it, it only takes a few minutes! — and you can rearrange them in different configurations. The pieces fit back in their original box, making the tables ideal for grandparents or families living in small spaces because the table can be packed away in a closet or attic when not in use. This is also a good table to use at events outside the home, or at children's museums, train museums, or in preschool classrooms. I own four of the 2 section packs, and I take them with me to practice shows when I'm promoting my wooden train book with custom trains that I did to go with it. I really enjoy using these tables, and I wish I had known about them when Little Engineer was younger! Although they may not be made of wood, there are lots of practical reasons that make them a very useful option. Major Brand Train Tables Brio Play table (US/UK/CA) I like the simple landscape painted on this table — solid green for grass, with blue in a corner for water. We've been playing on this table in toy stores, and that's a nice one. This gaming table is designed to work with the Brio Deluxe Railway Set, which has been a very popular set with our readers after we recommended it highly on our list of the best wooden train sets. Thomas Wooden Railway Play Table (US) If your child is a super Thomas, you may want to join the Thomas table. We've been playing with this in the store, and it's a nice table. I love the train track shelf between two of the legs, especially the ability to build tracks up from the floor to it. (It would have been nice for them to include more The reviews generally rate this as much higher quality than the KidKraft tables, which is about what I expect. (More than one reviewer commented on buying this after having a KidKraft table they were unhappy with.) This is a higher train table — 18.5 inches compared to 16 inches on a KidKraft table I checked — making it a better height for preschoolers as well as toddlers. Hape Railway Play & Stow Activity Table ( US / UK ) This table has a storage space under the three-part play peak. The product photo shows leaving a piece of play top in place to create a multi-level train layout, which looks like fun. The play top is reversible, with a jungle (or rural) theme on one side and a city theme on the other. Bigjigs Rail Train Table with Boxes (UK/CA) This table contains a two-sided tabletop with a landscape design on one side and plain green color on the other. Although we have no experience with Bigjig's train tables, we have a number of their wooden trains, and I think it is a good brand to join. This train table was available in the US on Amazon when I started this list, but now seems to be sold out. I'll add the US link back in if it changes. Plan Toys Toy Play Table (US/UK) Plan Toys is one of the most environmentally friendly toy companies that make wooden train products that are widely available. This train table is made from unfinished rubberwood. However, it doesn't seem to be solid rubberwood... most of the reviews I read described it as particle board. You can also buy matching toy boxes (two will fit under the table). Chuggington Wood Railway Let's Ride the Rails Play Table (US) If your child loves Chuggington, this could be just what you're looking for. It is designed to go with the All Around Chuggington Set. KidKraft 2-in-1 Activity Table with Board, Grey/Nature and Espresso I'm hesitant to recommend KidKraft train tables because of the mixed reviews, but many like their KidKraft tables. P'kolino Little Modern Activity Table ( US ) This is an interesting, attractive, modern playtable. The two-piece top is reversible, with a regular wooden side and a chalkboard side, and underneath is a storage space that is painted with trains as landscapes, so a small train that can be hidden under the top during other activities or when the table is not in use. This is a fairly small train table, nice for a small space. Melissa & Doug Deluxe Wooden Multi-Activity Table ( US / UK / CA ) This is a standard-sized white train table with a two-piece green game board. The reviews on this one are pretty mixed. It also includes a jumbo box in the side... as I would just call a box, because it looks like it would waste space that could be used to slip a larger storage tub under the table. An all-in-one train table and train set package can be a gift, and has the advantage of coming up with everything you need to play included. This can save you a lot of money, but sometimes you get what you pay for (the only brands from my Best Wood Train Sets list that make train tables with sets included are Bigjigs and Imaginarium.) Often the play board top for the table is painted or printed with a design that coordinates with the train set, which can look nice, but can also be limiting when your child is ready to build their own train layouts. In addition, the temptation to glue these train sets to their matching train tables is strong, so do yourself and your child a favor and read our list of Alternatives to Gluing Train Tracks to Train tables to find out why and how to avoid this. Bigjigs Rail Services Train Set and Table (US/UK/CA) Bigjigs is one of the brands we recommend on the Best Wood Train Set list. The quality is decent, and I appreciate their innovative and unique designs. This is a great set to learn about community helpers. Bigjigs Rail City Train Set and Table (US/UK) Another Bigjigs train table and set the table, this time with a city theme. Bigjigs Rail Dinosaur Train Set and Table (US/UK) If you have a Dinosaur Train, this could be the perfect train table for you! Maxim 50 Piece Train Set with Train and Play Table (US) This is very small for a rectangular train table. I wouldn't expect great quality and the layout is quite simple, but the bright and colorful images all over the table would be appealing to some kids. KidKraft Train tables: I'm including these on the list, although I still hesitate to recommend them. Some people — including a blogger friend I trust — love their KidKraft train tables. In real life, I've heard frustration with them. And online, the reviews are extremely mixed — some people are really happy them, some people feel that the tables are not robust and the tracks are shattered and not high quality, among other complaints. I have two theories: there can be a great variation in the quality of different products, and between production runs by the same product, or this may just be a brand that rides a quality line, and you get a lot for what you pay, but it may or may not last as long as you want it. If you're looking at a KidKraft table, you should compare it to the Imaginarium train table sold at Toys'R'Us, which I recommend. Conductor Carl 80 Piece Train Table and Playboard Set (US) This is a budget train table that gets surprisingly good reviews. I have no idea how it stacks up in terms of quality with, say, KidKraft and Imaginarium, but people seem happy with it. At this price, it's worth a look. Imaginarium train tables: Note: Unfortunately, Toys'R'Us has closed all its stores, except for those in Canada, which are still open and still sell Imaginarium train sets and tables. have at least one Imaginarium train table available. I feel they are a good value for the low price, especially if you get one — as my mother did — when it's on sale. While our table has gone into another home (it was still in good condition at the time), we still use a lot of the pieces from the train that came with it. Available only in the UK: Square Train station We have a square train table in our house. It's a great site saver. Building complicated track layout can be difficult, but not impossible on a square train table. (Let me know in the comments if you want me to make a post on how to fit funny track layouts in the confines of a train table!) Maxim Enterprise Inc Train Table with 45 Piece Train Set (US) This table is very similar to the table we own, although ours is white with a blue two-piece top, and this has a natural look with a one-piece green top. (We really like our table!) The product description says it's made of 100% deciduous trees (at least, it does when you scroll down to see the version without 1% typos), although I can't find any confirmation that in reviews. It also includes a small fabric storage compartment. Kidkraft 2-in-1 Activity Table (US/UK/CA) This is a very small (23 x 23) playtable, suitable for toddlers or very confined spaces. The playboard is reversible, with landscapes for a train set on one side and a LEGO-compatible surface on the other side. When you lift up the board, there is storage underneath. Alternative to Traditional Train Tables Fisher-Price Thomas Wood Railway – Up and Around Sodor Adventure Tower (US) This is an interesting twist on the idea of a train table: a three-level tower. It takes up much less space than a regular table, and it can be a good choice for toddlers because there are tracks built into the two upper layers. There is also a crane

to lift supplies from the second level to the third level and back again, and the lower level is supposed to be built into a wooden train layout on the floor. Step2 Deluxe Canyon Road Train & Track Table (US/UK/CA) This is a plastic table with cast landscape and built-in track. This is possibly a great choice for toddlers who take apart train tracks or DIY Super Easy Garden Train Table This was a fun and easy project! See how I made an outdoor train table/garden for my son last summer with no tools required. He thought it was so cool! Toddlerbed to Train Table (in less than 5 minutes) from Munchkins and Moms What I thought was particularly cool about this idea is that it's a temporary transition. Your child's toddler bed can go back to being a place to sleep in time for bedtime! DIY Train Tables I hope to eventually make a full post on DIY train tables, but for now I have a Pinterest board filled with all the best ideas I could find. We have some posts here on Play with the beautiful beautiful DIY modular wooden train tables that you should take a look at if you are interested in making your own, especially for younger children or a public space. Follow Jessica | Play Train! | Epic Fun for Kids's board DIY Train Tables on Pinterest. Once you have your train table picked out, you want to browse our Train Play archive for lots of ideas on what to do with them! You may want to read our Guide to wooden train tracks for advice on expanding on a basic train set as well. I also recommend signing up for our email newsletter to keep up with our new train ideas and activities as we post them. A note on safety: Wooden train sets generally involve a fair range of choking hazards, especially when dealing with cargo for freight cars or other accessories. There is also the possibility of a magnet coming loose, although the only time we've had that problem in the last three years was on a Brio shipping container when the plastic square hiding a magnet came loose. (We checked all the other shipping containers and none of the others seemed to have the same problem.) Most wooden train sets are rated for age two or three and up because of these dangers. Take this into account when buying a train as for your children, as well as their own stage of development when it comes to putting things in your mouth. We were lucky that Little Engineer was beyond the mouth stage when he was only a year old, so we could buy wooden trains from the beginning of his interest in them. Even so, I did put a number of smaller pieces away until I was sure, and I always closely monitored him with his trains. This guide will be expanded over time. Do you have a question I didn't answer?
