Re: Route 219 13 years ago Rob, I he made 219 in Western New York in ages (from a college trip to the hockey playoffs in Buffalo in 1990). Error: Enter a valid e-price address In addition, I've drilled on your route to Google Maps and it's only about an hour longer wise (9 hours vs. 8) than the fastest route and it's actually shorter for about 25 miles. Another option that will allow you to jump 80 completely, and is very scenic, would be to go to Harrisburg, PA, then take Route 15 north to Mansfield, then Route 6 West on Route 219. This section of Route 6 from Mansfield south to Bradford is beautiful: one of the most beautiful units in Pennsylvania. It also takes you very close to Leonard Harrison State Park, near the small town of Ansonia. The park has beautiful views of the Grand Canyon in Pennsylvania. Nothing compared to the real Grand Canyon, but a beautiful area regardless. This route will make the journey about 10 hours instead of 9 for the route you suggested, but it's well worth it if you have the time and want the scenery. Wellsboro is a large small village a little west of Mansfield where you can stop for food. The hotel is ideally located next to the train station and 100 metres from the historic centre. Feel.
