She co-wrote the best-selling erotic romance trilogy Fifty Shades of Grey, Fifty Shades Darker and Fifty Shades Freed.[3][4] with the accompanying novel Grey: Fifty Shades of Grey as Told by Christian and Darker: Fifty Shades Darker as Told by Christian. Prior to this, he wrote Twilight fan fiction Master of the Universe, which served as the basis for the Fifty Shades trilogy under the online name Snowqueens Icedragon. In 2019, her first book, which was not included in the Fifty Shades trilogy, The Mister, was published for negative critical reception. [5] [6] [7] Fifty Shades novels have sold more than 125 million copies worldwide, more than 35 million copies in the US, and they have set a record in the UK as the fastest selling paper cap ever. [8] [9] In 2012, Time magazine named him one of the 100 most influential people in the world. [11] The novels were later adapted into Fifty Shades of Grey, Fifty Shades Darker and Fifty Shades Freed. Erika Mitchell was born on July 7, 1920, in New Year's Day. [1] He was raised in Buckinghamshire. [1] James attended independent Pipers Corner School and Wycombe High School, a girls' state grammar school in the town of High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, and then at the University of Kent in south-east England, where he studied history. [1] After leaving university, James became assistant to the studio director at the National Film and Television School in Beaconsfield. He married screenwriter Niall Leonard in 1987, and they have two sons. In 2012, they live in Brentford, west London. [1] [14] Fifty Shades trilogy Main article: Fifty Shades trilogy James reports that the idea for the Fifty Shades trilogy began in response to the vampire novel series Twilight. In late 2008, James saw the film Twilight, and then he was heavily absorbed into the novels the film was based on. He read the novels several times over a few days, and then for the first time in his life sat down to write a book: basically a sequel to the Twilight novels. Between January and August 2009, he wrote two such books in quick succession. He says he then discovered the fan fiction phenomenon, and this inspired him to publish his novels

as Kindle books under the pen name Snowqueens Icedragon. Early In August 2009, he began writing Fifty Shades books. [14] James has spoken of his shock at the success of the books. The explosion of interest has completely surprised me, he said. [16] James has described the Fifty Shades trilogy as my midlife crisis, which is big. All my fantasies out there, and that's it. [17] He didn't start writing until January 2009, as he revealed while he was still active FanFiction.Net: I started writing in January 2009 when I finished the Twilight saga, and I haven't finished since. I found Fan Fiction in August 2009. Since then, I've written two of my fics and I'm going to do at least one more. After that... Who knows? [18] In August 2013, trilogy sales saw James top forbes' list of highest-earning authors[19] with $95 million in earnings that included $5 million for film rights to Fifty Shades of Grey. [20] On June 1, 2015, James announced the upcoming release of Grey: Fifty Shades of Grey as Told by Christian, released to stores on June 18, 2015. Darker: Fifty Shades Darker as Told by Christian is released on November 28, 2017. [21] In a blog post published in June 2020, James revealed that he works with Freed: Fifty Shades Freed as Told by Christian. He also noted that the book does not yet have a release date. [22] Charity work James was one of British celebrities, including Tom Hiddleston, Benedict Cumberbatch and Rachel Riley, to design and sign his own card for the UK children's charity Thomas Coram Foundation for Children. [23] The campaign was launched by stampin' up! The UK and cards were auctioned on eBay in May 2014. L. James. [1] It's the fourth installment in fifty shades, which originated as fan fiction. [2] The novel was published on 18 June 2015 at the same time as the date of birth of the Christian Grey character. The first edition consisted of 1.25 million pieces. [3] [4] Summary Christian Grey, a successful and wealthy 27-year-old businessman, meets 21-year-old university student Anastasia Ana Steele when she interviews him on behalf of his friend/roommate Katherine Kate Kavanagh (contracted the flu at the time) for a university paper. The characters develop attraction for each other and Christian suggests a sadomasochistic relationship with Ana. Christian hopes that his relationship with Ana will alleviate the effects of a traumatic childhood, but his dark sexual tendencies and self-interest will drive Ana away. Ana is initially naïve about Christian's sadism and the power dynamics of their relationship, but as the novel progresses, she realizes that her behavior is cold and controlling. Development on June 1, 2015 James announced he was writing another book for Fifty Shades due to the popularity of his fanbase. [5] Later that day, he posted a photo on his Instagram account confirming that the novel would be called Grey, that it would be told from Christian Grey's perspective, and that he had knowingly chosen its release date to celebrate Grey's birthday. [6] [7] Grey's pre-order sales have been very strong, prompting many retailers to order large amounts of book to meet demand on the release date. [8] The bookseller's editor also commented that Grey could become the biggest book of the year. [8] Random House reported on June 11, 2015 that a completed copy of Grey had been stolen and that Kent Police were investigating the theft. [9] [10] 8. The theft on 16 June[11] has been compared to stephenie meyer's Midnight Sun leak in 2008. The Midnight Sun leak prompted Meyer to put the job in for now, but James noted that Grey would be released as scheduled. [12] Reception Press The critical reception to Grey has generally been negative, and many critics have criticized it for being too similar to Fifty Shades of Grey. [13] The Independent criticised the book and the choice to include internal monologues stating that he had an empty spiritual life and that the effect is still comical – Mills & Boon meets Peep Show – while the rest of his internal monologue is used to find bleeding obvious. [14] The Telegraph wrote a scathing review in which they called it as sexy as misery reminiscence and as arousing as a sex offender's diary and wrote It's hard to figure out what Ms. Steele sees in him – even if you try to imagine him as Jamie Dornan, it's Jamie Dorna's serial killer in the Fall. [15] The Guardian pointed out the book, noting that while the first book was a rather funny and rather mild portrait of a woman's sexual fantasy that instead of a frivolous and repetitive mild S&M, a love affair is now the twisted work of a complete psychopath. [16] In the US, The Washington Post also found little in the original series in the rewrite: Where Ana had strange quirks, a confusing inner goddess who was an Olympic caliber backwards, and a general sense of naïve wonder that lightened Fifty Shades and reminded readers not to take the story too seriously, there's nothing like that here. Gray is dark, relentless and far too serious, like Mr Grey. [17] Audience Fan's reception to Grey has been positive and the book sold over a million copies in its first week of release.
