Lone Islander Seth Rogen is still working on forging a Fyre Festival movie, based on the video of I'm on a boat below, we can't wait for him. Meanwhile, grab Lonely Island vinyl at ReverbLP. Andy Samberg, Akiva Schaeffer and Jorma Taekona, known as The Lonely Island, have announced their first U.S. tour. The comedy music trio first rose to prominence after releasing Jizz In My Pants on SNL and YouTube in 2008, and the song's video quickly went viral, attracting millions of views with its raunchy humor and catchy dance hook. The band enjoyed more hit singles with I Just Sex, Jack Sparrow and YOLO and was known for working with a host of unlikely celebrities such as Justin Timberlake, Adam Levine and Michael Bolton. With three albums under their belt, Lonely Island went on the big screen in 2016 with Popstar: Never Stop Never Stop. Popstar, who used the same musical formula popularized by This Is Spinal Tap, saw Lonely Island play Style Boyz, a successful band that shatters after one member (Samberg) loses control of his ego. Despite forming more than a decade ago, The Lonely Island only played their first live performance last year, but has since been confirmed to perform at the 2019 Bonnaroo Festival. Related: How Fyre Festival may affect Seth Rogen and Lonely Island's new island continuing their giggle momentum, The Lonely Island have now announced via their official YouTube channel that they will be embarking on their first tour. Tickets to The First Lonely Island The run will go on sale on March 1 at 10:00 local time and the dates are as follows: 06/15 Manchester, TN @Bonnaroo06/18 Washington, DC @Anthem06/19 Philadelphia, PA @The Met Philadelphia06/21 New York, NY @TBA06/22 Brooklyn, NY @Theater Kings06/24 Boston, MA @Rockland Trust Bank Pavilion06/26 Detroit, MI @Fox Theatre06/29 Minneapolis, MN @The Armory The Lonely Island Output has been somewhat limited in recent years, perhaps largely due to andy Samberg's rise as a TV comedy actor in characters such as Cuckoo and Brooklyn Nine-Nine, and while the band has always remained active, the days of star-studded pieces of music that have unfortunately been uploaded to YouTube seem to be over. As such, this new tour announcement will delight Lonely Island's U.S. fan base, and is a positive sign that the team still wants to continue on new creative avenues, despite the decline in their activities. As a live act, The Lonely Island has already attracted a positive reception after first taking the stage at last year's Cluster Festival. This is despite admitting they have reservations about whether their act, essentially a pastiche of the entertainment industry, will work on stage in front of a live audience. According to the reviews, The Lonely Island managed to navigate the problem effortlessly and even threw some guest queues from the likes of Michael Bolton. Having gained more experience as a live band, The Lonely Island's upcoming tour is expected to improve on their positive stage debut last year, and if this limited run proves successful, a full world tour won't be too far away. You waited 10 whole years for them to tour, we'll hear a voiceover. And now they will finally be – for two whole weeks! The team's first grand tour follows their cluster festival debut in San Francisco, California in 2018, where they made headlines in front of Jon Stewart, Amy Schumer and Trevor Noah. Several special guests - including Michael Bolton, T-Paine and Chris Parnell - joined the show. Lonely Island, known for their wacky songs like Justin Timberlake's I'm on a Boat and Duck in a Box, released four studio albums: 2009's Incredibad, Golf and Chain 2011. 2013's Whack Album and the soundtrack to their documentary, Popstar: Never Stop. Entering, then, The Lonely Island, which built a loyal following through numerous performances on Saturday Night Live in America - the most notable of which is with Dick in the Box - before making the breakout into the music business properly around the time YouTube really took off - it's hard to think of an act that was more ripe for its potential for viral videos. Since then, they've had a string of real hits on the site, with I've just had sex, Jizz in my pants, Jack Sparrow and as an all-chalk boss up to nine-figure counting landscape in recent years. True, these degrees should be something of a betrayal to the fact that maybe the trio aren't for those with Sophisticated of tastes, but their impressive list of guest appearances across three records - including Justin Timberlake, Lady Gaga and even Michael Bolton - speaks to their popularity. They haven't toured properly yet, with their live activities limited to TV appearances, but expect something rather silly when they do; Andy Samberg last hinted last year that future dates are now just a matter of timing.
