Clue bingo cheats

Published GamesPopular GamesAdvertisements Released GamesPopular GamesAdvertising Clue is a classic 50-year detective game. You can get the upper hand by quickly eliminating some of the 324 possible combinations of Whodunit with what and where. Mark the cards you hold in your hand on your detective notepad. Put a person's initials next to the card that shows you when you ask for a clue. Suppose player A shows you the knife. Mark its initials next to this card. Make a note of the initials of the person showing a card to another person if you are sure which card it is. For example, if a player asks someone about the knife and Professor Plum in the kitchen, player C shows a clue and you already know that A has the knife and B has the professor, then you know that player C has the kitchen. Remember ,or mark) the cards you show each player. If a player forgets and asks for the same card twice along with another card you hold, show them the card you showed it before. Hold a poker face. Be mysterious about which cards you hold and don't hold. Tips There are six suspects, six weapons and nine locations. Eliminating the possibilities requires some luck, but above all deduction skills. Clue Jr. is ideal for children between the ages of 5 and 8. They will use deductive reasoning to find out which pet in the neighborhood has hidden which toy in the clubhouse.
