Bernat baby sport yarn tiny tulips

I've called this tiny Tulips baby blanket not only because it's the color name of the variegated thread I've used, but also because the shells used at this point remind me slightly of the tulips. This baby blanket is made with exactly one ball (802 yards) of Bernat Baby Sport yarn. The point is quite simple, involving only two repeated rows. In case you would like to use this point for another project, it is a multiple of 8, plus 1. This pattern is my original design. It cannot be published elsewhere or distributed in any other form. If you want to share this pattern, you can post an image to your website with the link to my original site. You can use this pattern to make items for personal use or for sale. If you sell finished items of this pattern, you should give design credit to Lacy Crochet's blog (lacycrochet.blogspot.com). I put a lot of time and honest work into creating my designs, so please respect my work. Thank you!
