ViP622 Web Dish Summary Dish ViP622 Guide Network Dish (21.10 MB PDF, redirected to www.dishnetwork.com) ViP622 Web Dish Review Features: ViP622 Satellite Receiver Web Dish contains 2 individual HDTV tuner in one box. These TV1 and TV2 assignments are set. TV1 is intended for use in a HDTV or standard TV in the same room as ViP622. ViP622 contains outputs for both TV1 and TV2. Easy distribution of TV1 and TV2 images is allowed throughout the house. Inclusions work on UHF or CATV channels and are not HD TV signals. All Dish Network ViP receivers are compatible with MPEG4 and Mpeg 2. MPEG4 allows for more channels in the same bandwidth. Read more about satellite channels using MPEG4. The ViP622 DVR has two operational modes, one and two. In one mode ViP622 can be used as a dual DVR tuner with full control over all of the tuners of the single remote control. In one mode, you can switch between the relays, or press PIP on a remote use in the image-in-picture feature. Click on swap and the two pictures will swap places. Of course you also have full Control of DVR on all of the rolls. The bonus of ViP622 is that you can also use the receiver in one mode of the TV2 site. When working in one mode, (changing media by pressing a button on the front panel) the ViP622 dish provides capabilities such as TiVO and should be considered a strong replacement option for the community at Dirk TV In TiVO. For a two-room DVR operation, switch to dual mode. In dual mode, both viewers have full control over their tuner. Each person can record or watch without affecting the other person. In dual mode, you won't be able to watch one channel while recording another channel if two people are using the system. If the TV is only watching in one room, and the viewer presses the log to record a channel, they are given the option to send the recording request to another tuner. Dish ViP622 features name-based registration. NBR allows you to select a view to be recorded and not a channel/time scenario. For more information about NBR, go here (pdf) the 120GB internal hard drive that provides up to 100 hours of digital video recording. Compared to 40 or 80 GB TiVO hard drives from DirecTV that provide 32-80 hours, the 100-hour hard drive is a new standard for others to match. The UHF network announces the remote dish from a remote range of 200 feet. However, this is through the outdoors and does not take into account the decrease in the remote UHF range caused by walls and floors. Usually 1 normal framed wooden floor or 2 walls is a safe assumption for effective UHF remote operation. The remotely usable UHF range is greatly reduced if it passes through construction, concrete walls or flooring. The installation of the ViP622 ViP622 dish does not require some special wiring considerations.
