The new craft of intelligence pdf

Picture: Tunan Tran/Moment/Getty Images If you're a Harvard graduate or a high school dropout, you have a lot of intelligence that will take you away in life. And that's exactly what we're going to know more about today: your intelligence. There is no need to study for this questionnaire either, as we believe real intelligence goes beyond standard testing and exams. Now you may have doubts about how smart you are based on some of your grades at school. It is important to note that while grades are a piece of the puzzle when it comes to intelligence, there are hundreds of other factors to consider! For example, have you ever heard of emotional intelligence? This type of intelligence has to do with perceiving someone's thoughts and emotions based on nonverbal signals (although some verbal signals also play a role in this). In other words, if you have an ability to read to other people and detect when someone is angry, sad or hurt, then we will be the first to tell you that you are a pretty smart person! So no matter what kind of grades you have at school, it's time to start with a clean slate on this intellectual quiz! And just remember: you will always be an intelligent person for us. Smart ways to make your own bed canopy, recycle paper napkins, and give a new life of solitary rowing. 1 of 5 Sunny Canopy This easy project makes smart use of an embroidered ring and a pair of prepared curtains. RELATED: Diy Canopy Bed 2 of 5 Spoon Mirror Transform a flat Jane mirror into the fairest of them all - with a frame built from spoons. For an 18-inch round mirror, you'll need a hot glue gun and about 105 colorful plastic spoons ($3.45 for 24, amazon.com). Step 1: Place a generous glue point on the back of the base of the handle of the first spoon. Press the spoon into the mirror so that your bowl sits just outside the edge of the mirror and the handle points towards the center. Step 2: Place another glue point on the back of the handle of the second spoon in the same place, and place it in the mirror next to the first spoon, so that the widest part of the second a bowl nestles in your neighbor's neck. Step 3: Repeat steps 1 and 2 around the mirror perimeter, just make sure to keep the handles pointed in the center of the mirror. Then sit back and admire your magnificent work. 3 of 5 Napkin Notes Some paper napkins are so beautiful, it seems a shame to use them to wipe your hands; instead, recycle a few cards into single note cards. First, gently stretch the napkin layers (just want the top, printed) and smooth wrinkles with an iron over medium heat. Using a blank sheet of paper as a work surface, we place the napkin printed down and spritz the flat side with Spray Mount Adhesive ($14.29, 3M; shoplet.com). Place a blank folding note card ($21.49 for 60, Avery; staples.com) face down on the napkin, pressing evenly with your hands. Turn the card around, correct wrinkles with your fingers and cut it with scissors. 4 of 5 Silk Organza Necklace For the price of a silk organza yard, some memory wire, and a sterling silver fence, you can put together your own version of this elegant piece.
