The whole act in the video game gave us new ideas about how we can transform ourselves into a real life character. For this reason, this Tomb Raider costume guide is all you need to prepare for a whole new adventure! You can buy a Lara Croft is the gun-packing heroine from the video game and movie franchise Tomb Raider. Lara is a busty, athletic Brit known for raiding graves for buried treasures. She's very smart and she likes to have things her way. If you want to dress up as a sexy heroine with a mind and personality, then Lara is your girl. Her look is very simple to pull off, as long as you have some critical elements. Below are guides on how to get hair, makeup, and clothes just right to complete your tomb raider costume. Lara Croft OutfiteBay and Amazon both offer Lara Croft costumes that you can buy online. However, I will explain how you can create the look yourself without buying a pre-existing costume. Things you'll need for the DIY suit: Combat boots or gothic motorcycle belt boots gloves (optional) 2 black tactical leg cases 2 toy guns (optional) cargo shorts (brown or hunter green) tight-mounted tank top (blue, Hunter Green, or brown) Tube Socks Shorts and TopPut for shorts and tank top, you should tuck any excess shirt into your shorts. Socks and HolstersPull tube socks and put the cases on each leg. The cases have to come all the way to your upper thigh. Make sure it's tight enough not to slip down when you walk around, but also not as tight as causing the skin and thigh to bulge. The best way to make sure it's tight enough not to slip down when you walk around, but also not as tight as causing the skin and thigh to bulge. The best way to make sure it's tight enough not to slip down when you walk around, but also not as tight as causing the skin and thigh to bulge. The best way to make sure it's tight enough not to slip down when you walk around, but also not as tight as causing the skin and thigh to bulge. right. If you don't feel like carrying toy guns around, just keep them in thigh holsters to complete the look. Boots, gloves, and BeltEquip yourself with boots, gloves, and a belt. The belt can be worn looped through the shorts or else hung low across the hips. However, the latter option only works well for those with a wider hip structure. For boots, make sure that your socks are visible over the top of the but only about an inch or two over the top. Then it's time for hair and Makeup! Hair and Makeup Lara Croft BraidLara is depicted in movies and video games with long, dark brown hair that is usually styled in a single braid. If you already have long, dark hair, just do your hair in a French braid. If you don't have long hair, you could always choose extensions (if you're willing to spend money) or a wig. An alternative look that is not a traditional Lara Croft hairstyle would be to style your hair into a pixie cut. Go for dark and nude makeupFor Tomb Raider makeup, Lara usually wears darker colors. She doesn't wear plenty of makeup, she doesn't wear bright colors. Go with dark brown and nude shades for your makeup. Eyes: use a dark brown eyeshadow with black eyeliner (preferably liquid eyeliner to make your eyes look smaller. Nose: Her nose is very thin, so use concealer and foundation to slim down the ridge of your nose if needed. The video tutorial in this article helps explain how to properly put in your concealer and foundation to complete the show. Face: For your cheeks and lips, use nude lipstick, apply some of them to your index finger, and rub it on your cheekbones. This creates a glow on your face and also adds a small color. Use the same nude lipstick on your lips. Eyebrows are very arched. To achieve this look, learn your eyebrows don't have a natural arch in them. Then apply a clear mascara onto the eyebrows to force them to hold the arch all day. This is basically like applying hairspray to them. You can find many basic pieces for a Lara Croft costume in an army surplus store. Wikimedia CommonsHow to buy the tool as I mentioned earlier, Amazon and eBay both offer full sets of Tomb Raider costumes, if that's the route you choose to go. Full sets can cost as low as $20 and go up in the hundreds. If you are more inclined to create your own Lara Croft suit (as for cosplaying), not interested in sewing yourself, you can find many of the basic pieces you will need to complete lara's look in an army surplus store. Foot cases can be hard to find, but if you are communicating with a surplus store for your particular needs, they may be able to customize. Pipe socks can also be found in almost any Store. The belt can be as simple as a standard zone purchased in a department store, or as complex as a regular zone purchased in a surplus store. The type of belt you are using should be fine. If you plan to do a Cosplay Tomb Raider, then a better band may be in order. Battle boots can be purchased at any supply store. You can also buy Gothic or Gothic boots from higher quality stores, such as some boutiques and specialty stores any department store with a toy department. Another option for your equipment would be to check out the local shipping stores. It is highly unlikely that you will find foot cases in a shipping shop, but you might be able to buy from a department store. Shopping online for your attire is also an option. You can buy individual items on sites like Amazon and eBay. Etsy is an online site craftsman who could transfer some of your needs. To pull off the Lara Croft LookA a lot of what makes Lara so fun and unique is her personality. She's smart, and she doesn't take any crap. She's incredibly confident in herself and her abilities. To pull off Lara Croft's style, especially in a cosplay setting, you really need to radiate confidence. Lara is not the type to worry about whether her belly is flat enough because she knows she works hard enough to keep it that way. If you spend all your time pulling on your clothes, you won't be able to take off a Lara Croft cosplay very well. A great idea to help yourself create well before cosplaying as Lara Croft is to watch the Tomb Raider movies starring Angelina Jolie. Jolie plays a fantastic Lara and is an excellent example of the type of confidence you'll need to cosplay like Tomb Raider. As always, when cosplaying, just remember to have fun and enjoy yourself!© 2012 Daniella LopezCommentsJulie on April 20, 2019:Where can I find these awesome boots and how much? EK on September 21, 2018:What about the thing she wears on her back over her shoulders? What's that? Bilyeu from Orlando, FL on October 1, 2012: A very happy Halloween to anyone who wears this costume! Very clever and cunning! James Kenny from Birmingham, England on February 27, 2012:Cool hub, Daniella. I remember one of my friends at school imagined Lara Croft (yes I know- very strange) That costume would probably have all passed out haha.princesswithapen in February 2012:I I'm not a gamer, but I've seen Tomb Raider and this costume looks pretty cool. I'll share that. PrincesswitsapenDaniella Lopez (author) on January 24, 2012: Hey Daniella! I love the character Lara Croft ~ Excellent Hub! * Almost want to watch the movies now... Daniella Lopez (author) on January 7, 2012: Haha! Well, that's good, at least. : P Kelly Umphenour from St. Louis, MO on January 7, 2012: Thanks Kelly! Your daughter must be beautiful! You better take care of all these little boys... Lol! Kelly Umphenour from St. Louis, MO on January 7, 2012:Haha Daniella - very funny! When you first see the video the way it's paused with the frozin arrow in the middle of the girls' face on the page – my goodnes gave me a shock! This looks so much like my daughter is incredible:) lol But when I saw the rest - not so much! I think her cheekbones and eyes. Very good here and fast too! Whoa! Daniella Lopez (author) on January 7, 2012: Cute hub.. It would be fun for roleplaying too! Daniella Lopez (author) on January 7, 2012:@Ray: This is awesome! Tomb Raider is actually what got me into the game. I thought Lara Croft looked bad, so I had to play the game. = P@Kitty: I know it's a little early, but I was watching Tomb Raider and that's where the inspiration for this center came from, lol. Thanks for voting and reading! Kitty Fields from Summerland on January 7, 2012: Too early for Halloween costumes, but this is a very well-put together idea, Daniella! I voted for it, and it's awesome. Raymond D Choiniere from the game origiol Tomb Raider. Angelina Jolie played an excellent Lara Croft on the film series. Voted! :)
