something simple, like someone to take care of. I will continue to live no matter what, so I can protect you... Aigis (Aegis in Japan) is a character in Persona 3. He is an anti-Shadow weapon (seemingly the last) and is also a member of the S.E.E.S., a student at Gekkoukan High School. He is also the main protagonist of The Answer, the last word of Persona 3 FES. Appearance [edit | source editing] Design[editing | source editing] Aigis appears as an android with short, blonde hair and dark blue eyes. Ikutsuki says his humane shape makes it work through thoughts like a human being, and I can handle a Personality more easily. Transferring at Gekkoukan High School and when she appears, she wears a generic girls' school uniform but protects her red ribbon outside her beach trip to Yakushima, a short school trip to Kyoto (inside she wears a robe) and she wears a kimono to the nearby temple post-New Year's Day. During the answer, he dons a tactical vest that can carry spare ammunition along with a new metal viewfinder and carved gorget. Persona 3: Moonlight Dancing, she wears a bright blue ribbon tie and blue cut black and white dress. He wears a black headphone-like headband with blue lining.
2 years later, during the Persona 4 Arena, she turns, wearing a new red tie instead of her red ribbon. He is now equipped with new advanced features behind his metal headband, legs and three weapons. Before entering a war she begins wearing a black military jacket dress, with a black jacket underneath (almost similar to her original school uniform), and black pants. Shigenori Soejima explained that while his headphones are similar to the Antikythera mechanism, their blue, yellow and red colors are used to evoke the image of classic anime heroes. The drum magazine on his arm was modeled after Luger P08's Trommelmagazine 08. [1] Personality[edit | source edit] Don't worry. I will always be there for you, protecting you...-Aigis's first persona 3 Aigis's first personality is a robot designed only to obey orders, but despite ingring towards the hero and giving it a very important thing to have him by his side, he goes too far to hug them in front of everyone. His desire to protect the hero is so strong that he was able to defeat Ikutsuki's program and free the entire team from their shackles. As a result of having no Aigis' social skills are more or less nonexisting; although it often looks human on the screen, it is said that it is far from passing in this way. He is prone to doing very strange and socially unacceptable things, such as entering the hero's room to wake him up and wanting to be on standby in his room where the Above calls him. A videotape shows him in a habit of entering the dorm room at night to check on him, even going so far as to record how long it took him to hold the lock, In Falling Down, even going so far as to leak into the boy's room during the group's stay in Kyoto. He claims it's unfair that he and the hero are not in the same room.
Despite the lack of social elegance, Aigis is nonetheless very polite to everyone, always using an honorary '-san' when addressing them. In the original Japanese version, he often finishes his sentences with arimasu before developing his emotions. Aigis is the one who turned the dog. He has been shown to be able to understand Koromaru and often translates for others, although he has been shown to be able to understand dogs in general. It reveals that dogs do not have a language, but are not the only way to communicate, the Answer understands Koromaru's feelings and thoughts. The arena said it was because of the 5th President of the World. Persona 4 Arena Ultimax, Aigis meets him, now an old dog. In November, when Ryoji Mochizuki first transferred to Gekkoukan High School, Aigis immediately suspects him and warns the protagonist to be wary of him, saying he is dangerous for reasons he cannot explain. Around this time, Aigis begins to feel some degree of human emotions; While he admits to the rest of the group that he is jealous of them and says they know what it means to live, he is not as 'functioning' as living. On the next full moon, he encounters Ryoji and understands why he is so suspicious of her; He is an Appraiser of Death, he is sealed away ten years ago in the body of a nearby child; That boy was a hero, so he really wanted to be there for her. After being badly wounded in his battle with Ryoji, Aigis feels great grief before resenting his function, believing himself 'worthless' for failing to fulfill his purpose as a machine. Towards the end of December, after being repaired by the Kirijo Group, Aigis' simulated computer software personality (artificial intelligence) develops human emotions and is compassionate and loyal to his friends, despite trying to fully understand his new emotions. He regrets imprisoning Ryoji in the hero. Aigis wants his friends to kill Ryoji, because he can't stand the suffering of his friends and believes he's wasting their lives fighting Nyx. He still sees himself as a simple machine that is to destroy shadows and asks what his purpose is if he can't get to eat them. The group says he's the only one who can answer that question, but as long as they're alive, they have to do something. That's when Aigis realizes that someone doesn't have to save the world to find meaning in life, and most of the time, it can be simpler, like caring for someone or something, or even a pet. He decides to live so that he can protect his friends and fight along with them, and gains a renewed sense of purpose that triggers the evolution of his personality. Aigis's Social Connection revolves largely around trying to understand his new feelings; He often talks about things that are new to him or that he has never thought of before, whether he likes something or whether he likes the importance of a shrine. He says that he now understands that living beings are guided by emotions than facts, and that he guided koromaru to stay in his master's sanctuary long after his death. He also considered his room unsymnthing and couldn't believe he thought it was normal. After being bitten by a dog, instead it ends up hurting him, Aigis recalled an important fact; while his heart may be more humane, his body will remain mechanical forever. In general, the more people, the more he realizes why he's having an identity crisis that he's never really going to be human. In the end, however, he realizes what he had to suffer; As a machine, he cannot die, and so inevitably he will live longer, the protagonist he falls in love with, but in this case, he can stay by his side until then (which, tragically, ends up the suffer) and so inevitably he will live longer, the protagonist he falls in love with, but in this case, he can stay by his side until then (which, tragically, ends up the suffer) and so inevitably he will live longer. being very shortly after). Aigis falls in love with the protagonist regardless of gender, even expressing laments against not being a man during the female protagonist Social Link, but eventually overcomes it. In Persona O, if he is chosen as Yu Narukami's destined partner, he will refuse, insisting that the protagonist of Persona 3 is his most important person. Aigis is having an existential crisis. After the hero's death, Aigis is so devastated that he loses the will to live once again and wants to return to being just a machine, as he promised to always protect and be there for him. Apparently, he couldn't face her because she was the only one who didn't attend his funeral. However, as she warms up to Metis faster than the rest of the group, she is shown to be very kind, even allowing him to call her 'Sister'. While the group is debating what to do with the keys, Aigis isn't entirely sure. what to do, not be sure if it's more important past or present. After defeating Koromaru and Junpei, Aigis decides that fighting his friends is too much to bear, and because he doesn't want Metis to die, he decides to give up his key to the Up and Mitsuru and believes giving up his key will kill him. After a conversation with Metis, Aigis learns something: Strengthening the bond of friendship does not mean that the pain of living will stop, since pain is a natural part of life. He also learns that the hero can still fulfill his promise. Then he decides not to change the past, but to carry the burden of death of the protagonist and continue to live into the future. After defeating Erebus, Aigis mingles with Metis and returns to the person he was after the Kirijo Group repaired him and decides to go back to school with his friends. Over The Answer, she ultimately develops into a sweet, kind, empathetic and strong-hearted girl with a talent for leadership and restores her will to live. Of all the SEES. He agrees that Aigis cares most about the hero. Profile[edit | source edit] Despite my ability to feel emotions, there will come a day when I will have to complete my tasks once again, I'll be on hold until then... But, at the same time ... Maybe one day you will be able to fully understand ... to be human...—Aigis' ability to feel emotions and benefit as a machine at the end of the game. This Japan-exclusive Feature-phone title serves as the hero of Aigis Aegis: First Mission, Aegis o 'Aegis appears: First Mission' which details its creation and early presence. The game begins with the awakening of Aigis at the Souta Aizawa Kirijo ErgonomiCs Research Institute. He is then joined by project head Yuu Kimijima, who previously called Aigis. During exercise, she is given ribbons by Yuu and taught to speak and act like a machine by Souta. He then meets a boy named Takashi Tomari. it is implied that this interest is primarily one of love, which makes Aegis feel a form of emotion that he cannot fully understand; it leads him to a crisis over whether these emotions are his intended programming or a mulfunction. It is unclear whether he reciprocated these feelings towards Takashi, but he states that he is attractive by human beauty standards. Aegis's ability to feel these emotions is revealed to be from Yuu, who gave him the Heart of Papillion and wanted Aegis to be like a normal person. That pushes Aigis deeper. Emotions, and he still doesn't guite understand them. Yuu, however, hopes Aigis will eventually understand. Towards the end of the game, Aegis faces a shadow of Takashi Tomari and other small shadows created by Yuu. Aigis therefore causes a crisis over whether he is obeying the goal of destroying shadows and killing Takashi, or ignoring it and protecting human life. Aigis decides to fight the shadow and potentially kill Takashi with the advice of the research team, because of the 'Great Good' (Leaving the shadow may be a greater threat to more human lives). This causes Takashi to appear unresponsive on the ground, which makes Aigis hope he didn't kill her. It was later clear that Takashi survived the incident without major injury. Yuu Is cut by a shadow, as kimijima argues why for his trick. Yuu protects Aigis from this and fatally injures him. As Yuu dies, Aigis finally understands his emotions and what it means to live. As Yuu exertes his last breath, Aigis promises him that he will do everything he can to be the person Yuu wants him to be. Yuu dies next to Aigis, and Aigis expresses deep regret for his loss. Aigis goes after the shadow responsible for Yuu's death, triggering the final boss battle. The shadow seems to have fused with a tree called 'Miroku Cedar', which took Aegis to a strange arena where he had to fight the shadow. As 'Miroku Cedar' evokes time travel and the future, it is possible that the later struggle with Death on this moonlight Bridge is symbolic. At the end of the game, it was revealed that the Kirijo Group decided to erase Aigis' memory and believed it would hinder his function, which would cause him to lose his sense of emotion. However, Aigis himself says that even if his memories are completely lost, he will still have the ability to have the emotions given to him by yuu Kimijima. He hopes that when he sees more use in the future, he will once again fully understand his emotions and become the person Yuu has always wanted him to be, thus keeping his legacy alive even if Yuu is forgotten. Persona 3[edit | source edit] Journey[edit | source edit] I know what my purpose is ... I'm a machine, a machine that's here to live. And one that gave me this new purpose ... Me. That's what I promised myself. I don't know how... But I guess that's part of living. Will you let me join you all? ... Thanks! I'll be with all of you. Whatever...! —Yakushima makes her look before Aigis wakes her up to the ultimate Persona Aigis. It is the first time he has appeared in Yakushima, where Sees members can enjoy their holidays. She seems to be looking right at the ocean, which is attractive to her protagonist, Junpei Iori and Akihiko Sanada by her beauty. The trio formulate a plan to flirt with him, only to fail after he explicitly tells Junpei and Akihiko that you are not one to fail. During the protagonist's encounter with him, parts of his memories are repaired and Aigis escapes. It later became an anti-Shadow weapon developed by the Kirijo Group (much to the dismay of Junpei and Akihiko), and also became the last anti-Shadow weapon to still work. Specifically, it's a 7-generation Anti-Shadow Suppression Weapon. Ikutsuki later appointed him a member of SEES and enrolled in gekkoukan high school. Throughout the game, Aigis shows an instinctive interest in protecting the protagonist, an interest that even he cannot explain. As the story progresses, he begins to question his existence, human life and role in life. When Ryoji Mochizuki transfers to Gekkoukan High School, he enemies the transfer student and warns him not to approach his hero, Ryoji. Game-wise, unlike other characters, Aigis bears segregation using a special 'Tactical' command, Orgia Mode, which increases its overall attack capabilities, at the expense of being immobile after using it. [1] In this mode, my limiter is temporarily disabled. Thus, my attacking ability increases significantly. However, since my inhibition logic is also disabled, I am fully autonomous during this time. Also, after Orgia Mode is enabled, it cannot be cancelled until I am overheating. Next, cooling time is required before you can continue normal work. Orgia Mode only lasts a short time, so timing is very important. —Aigis explains Orgia Mode after the defeat of the tin second shadow, re-programmed by Aigis Ikutsuki to attract Sees members to Tartarus. Ikutsuki reveals mitsuru Kirijo's plans to replace his grandfather's wish: to awaken the thirteenth arcana, which should never have been, Death. Under Ikutsuki's program, Aigis is forbade to subdue SEES members and is then ordered to kill them to sacrifice them to awaken death. However, Aigis can't bear to kill the hero and begins to resist Ikutsuki's reprogramming. Saving the hero is a strong desire to protect him. Takeharu Kirijo, however, is killed by Ikutsuki. During his battle with Ryoji on the Moonlight Bridge, Aigis trapped him in damaged circuits and restores memories. Ten years before the game, the player learns that his mission is to defeat or seal Death, thus preventing Nyx's arrival. Unable to defeat Death, he sealed the existence with a young boy, the only survivor of a nearby car crash. This young man he became his hero. He's trying to suppress death and protect him because he feels a great guilt for his actions. Because Ryoji is the body burşus of death, he feels he is his natural enemy. Damaged during his fight with Aigis Ryoji and must be repaired by the Kirijo Group, which means he is not playable in December. When he returns on December 30, he asked the hero to kill Ryoji, because he believes that a robot that has lost its purpose is the failure itself. Aigis says he can't feel it as a robot and therefore can't even shed tears for others. The party comforts him, saying that he has already shown similar qualities and emotions to more people and is gradually becoming more humane. Taking his friends' words to heart, Aigis' decision becomes stronger and Nyx decides to stand up to the Avatar's power. After the Nyx defeat, Aigis is seen crying. Aigis with his hero in his final moments. After the Dark Hour is over, Aigis is the only one who, at first, remembers Tartarus, the Dark Hour and his sacrifice during the month of life that the protagonist borrowed after the Nyx defeat. He allows her to live like a normal student for the few precious weeks she has. Then, on Graduation Day, he holds the protagonist as he drifts into his final sleep and vows to live his life protecting him, unaware that he is dying at that moment. Social Link[edit | source edit] Hero fes and portable aigis can date. Aigis Aeon Arcana, the protagonist represents a special Social Connection for these 2 versions that you can access after December 30, where Aigis returns from the Kirijo Laboratory to repair after his battle with Death. However, because the school is out then, you cannot activate the connection until the protagonist school continues on January 8. Unlike other SEES female members, Aigis has prerequisites for no Academics, Charms or Dares to stay. Aigis will not take the hero angry for another female flirtation. Also, like Elizabeth, Aigis will fall in love with the gender hero no matter what. Aigis is talking to Kiyoshi Sakuma. Thanks to the hero's union with Aigis, he helps Aigis understand the concept of life, and his mixed feelings towards himself and his hero. Characters in Social Connection include Kiyoshi Sakuma, his grandmother and a cat named Mewlie. After completing Social Connection, the hero of Aigis will give him Charred Vida, composowing the ultimate form of Aeon arcana, Metatron. Answer[edit | source edit] This ordeal ... Maybe we brought it to ourselves. The existing future... and access to it... Very different things. We have not yet understood such an obvious and natural principle... We really understand very little. We didn't know anything, use the key to open the way to the future. In this latest so-called, Aigis changes the protagonist as the playable hero, inheriting the power to summon multiple Personas, but he can no longer use Orgia Mode. After the hero's death, Aigis decides to stay in the lab instead of continuing his work. It was also revealed that after his death, the hero protected his Evoker. After persona 3 events, SEES members decide to meet one last time. Metis, who sees here, is attacked by Aigis who introduced himself as a sister. Seeing his members as an obstacle, Metis easily defeats them and drags Aigis into battle. After a heated battle, Aigis tries to summon Athena, but Persona instead turns into Orpheus, the protagonist's Personality. Aigis, who over-uses Orgia Mode, eventually faints but succeeds in suppressing Metis. While unconscious, Aigis woke up in the Velvet Room. There, he learns about the hero's unique talent. Igor tells Aigis that the transfiguration symbolizes the change in Aigis' spirit and that his journey is about to begin. While unconscious, Aigis' body was also enhanced by SEES members with more armor and irhoving. Metis would then take Aigis to Zaman Abyss, an underground labyrinth located beneath the dormitory. Mitsuru eventually sees again the group, with Aigis serving as field leader, the hero will inherit the position of an event that is largely disturbed above. As the story progresses, it becomes increasingly rekindly the mankind's side and the urge and will to lose the punishments that a living varan must face over the death of the hero. Metis, who wants to remove his will and humanity on his side, is manifested as known as his sister, who does not want to be alone. By reassuring them to the deepest part of Zaman Abyss, members encounter shadow manifestations from the negative emotions of SEES and the will to see the protagonist once again. They also witness fragments of each SEES member's past as the older brother of the time explores. Metis also says that One Personality is a person's shadow, but not tamed, which surprises everyone, but Metis is surprised that de SEES doesn't know it. After defeating the shadow, Yukari became enmity with aigis out of jealousy, as he inherited the hero's Wild Card talent and had one of the keys to unlock the past. Aigis will then meet with Metis and Fuuka to get the remaining keys back, which can only be taken from Sees members by prevailing in the fight against them. As the struggle continued, Aigis gradually remembered his causes and will to live and decided not to change the past, but bear the burden of the hero's death and continue to live into the future. When Aigis collects all the keys and converts them into real keys, he attempts to steal the
Up key. But Metis reveals that it's impossible. He suffered an emotional breakdown above and is comforted by Aigis and Mitsuru. Aigis decides to investigate the hero's true cause of death and moves with sees members to the final battle against Nyx. There, they witness the protagonist seal nyx and what he becomes. Upon Metis' explanation, the party realizes that the protagonist has become not a seal to prevent nyx's arrival, but a seal that prevents humanity from contacting nyx in its desire to self-destruct as Erebus. Witness Erebus's seal and therefore its protagonist trying to destroy him, and sees members decide to defeat Erebus. After Erebus' defeat, Aigis uses the real key to return to the present day, but was transferred to the Velvet Room along with sees members. Igor explains that Aigis has reached the end of his journey and has found the answer to life. This event also reveals Metis' true identity as a manifestation of Aigis's humanity. While Aigis feels tired, the sisters make up and turn into a single being. Aigis new beginning with the Up. The next day, Sees members were surprised to find that Aigis continued to sleep, fearing he was suffering the same fate as his hero. They took Aigis to his room and tried to fix him. However, because Aigis was unconscious, he heard Metis' voice deep down, encouraged him and woke up to hear the Call of the Above. Aigis later cancelled his attempt to stay in the lab and would decide to continue studying at Gekkoukan High School, where Yukari claimed to be Aigis' roommate. Aigis was last seen on the roof of Gekkoukan High School. Persona 3 Em[edit | source edit] Aigis is a party member and this mobile title serves as a social connection. It can be used in this way in accordance with her appearance in The Journey on 07/21, but before that she can be seen as a figure hiding in the bushes. The motion set in Persona 3 Em reflects Persona 3's kini and reacts similarly in dialogue with its protagonist. A Certain Day of Summer[edit | source edit] Aigis Summer A Specific Day is the main focus of the first story. He is the first story centers around Aigis city tour before starting school at Gekkoukan High School. When you put on your dorm friend's clothes, Yukari's clothes fit best. He was going to describe all the differences between the up and his body, but The Up there stopped him. Persona 4 Arena[edit | source] In her story mode, everything began when a plane was hijacked, the first in a decade. Aigis was called in to lead Shadow Agents to stop the abduction. Aigis, who found Mitsuru among one of the passengers, sees a young woman in a long white dress like herself when she is first seen. Mitsuru, I'd like to see an important cargo piece at Aigis. It includes a previous generation model called Labrys. They follow the cargo, meet Akihiko and jump into the TV world. In it, Aigis finds other Persona users and is having to fight them because of a strange tournament in this world. He finds a young girl who looks like the young girl he saw on the plane and doubts it's labrys. But after a while, she loses her confidence and confronts her shadow but soon Elizabeth appears and confronts him to give him the strength to move on. Aigis continues to the Announcement Hall until Labrys finds himself facing Yosuke Hanamura and Rise Kujikawa in his shadow.
Proclaiming his sister's real name, he follows her and her shadow to the roof, where she and Yosuke are trapped by the tournament. He beats Yosuke but is impressed by his determination and promises to save him for him. Labrys once again confronts his shadow and denies it, as his full power is released as he returns to the Announcement Room. After defeating her shadow, Aigis goes to her sister and tells her that while she doesn't understand the circumstances as an android, she knows what it's like to be different from people. Labrys feels intimacy in his words and accepts his shadow that bees his Persona. Soon both android girls make their way to the roof again to get out but are not replyed without resistance. Aigis tells the memories of his sister, Labrys' memories are also outside Aigis, and when he goes to the pier and searches for the promised girl, he says he also finds his dear friends who accept him for who he is. In doing so, Labrys realizes that Aigis has fulfilled his dream, and both sisters cry in joy for each other as they continue to search for their mother. Aigis and other Wild Card wielder and his successor Yu Narukami also serve as important characters in Elizabeth's Story Mode, where they teach him the true nature of Wild Card. He's the boss in Yu and Yosuke's story, and after he fights, he tells them about Labrys and the events of Persona 3. He angrily attacks Teddie in story mode and believes he accidentally took Labrys and planned to hurt her. In Mitsuru's Story Mode and Kanji's Joke Finish, Aigis serves as an important supporting character, although he is not the boss. Playstyle[edit | source edit] Aigis is a morphing character but unlike Naoto, he is reputable in any range with Orgia Mode, greatly increasing his abilities while at the disadvantage of completely limited ammunition fills in each round) and mediocre crime without Orgia Mode. Aigis is also the second fastest character in the game after Yosuke. His game plan revolves around multitasking; he must be ready to switch at once several times in a single lap during a single lap during a single lap during a single lap, in addition to keeping his normal meter, orgin mode meters and amoetyp under control. Athena serves as a way to both defend Aigis and complete his attack. Unlike other Personas used in the game, Athena is actually immune to the holiday when the persona uses her shield is hit. With all these options and enough application, you can carefully manage all mechanics, Aigis can become one of the most powerful characters in the game. Aigis is arguably the most dangerous character to encounter in Point Attack, other than Elizabeth, thanks to his incredibly powerful enthusiasts, such as having 999 rounds instead of the standard 120 and his Orgia Gauge constantly full and active.
In addition, Aigis holds the ability to be one of only two characters (be the other yu) in the game where you can use two Personas in battle; Athena for normal combat, and Palladion for her Instant Kill, Heritage Liberator Palladion. Score Attack[edit | source edit] Aigis is the ninth character the player has fought in Score Attack. Aigis will always be in Orgia Mode, which will never run out and will have 999 rounds. Persona 4 Arena (Manga)[edit | source edit] Aigis faces Kanji Tatsumi after defeating him at the P-1 Grand Prix. He then joins Yosuke in the battle against Shadow Labrys. Persona Q: Shadow of the Maze[editing | source edit] Aigis Maintains its unique ability to enter Orgia Mode. It consumes a turn to start, lasts for 2 more turns, then it is forered into cooling and then cannot move to 3 turns. When under the influence of Orgia Mode, the damage output of Aigis is doubled and made immune to diseases. Orgia Mode is not a buff slot consume and can stack with Boost and Shura Tensei. Aigis' cooperative attack is multiple hits against random enemies similar to myriad arrows skill. Persona Q2: The New Cinema Maze[edit | source] Aigis is one of the last Persona users to attend the party because she was captured by the Overseer alongside the P3 hero and trapped in the research lab of the A.I.G.I.S., which distinguishes themselves from most of the S.E.E.S. Eventually the persona was found by the rest of its users, which it was overwhelmed by security drones and crashes due to overheating in Orgia Mode. They were eventually found by the party and joined them in the cinema lobby. It also appears that life forces, such as repairing machines and blood pressure, also have capabilities other than struggle for detection. In addition The P3 hero feels the same pull towards the P3 hero as he did with the P3 hero and wants to protect both. Later, when the Ribbon lost control of Orgia Mode to defeat host, Futaba connected Ribbon to Aigis' system to recover the boot process, which was temporarily crippled by overheating. She learns of two unison attacks with her current and new friends with special screenings. Aigis is plausible enough that he can be easily tricked by Futaba into saying inappropriate or strange statements, which he inherits even if he returns to the Iwatodai Dormitory in the last word. Etymology[editing | source edit] is a shield worn by Aegis Pallas Athena in Greek mythology. Pallas is an epithelium in which Athena accidentally kills Triton's daughter Pallas, In pallas's memory. Aegis explains more corporeal accounts worn on shoulders and nipples in a grotesquely embellished coat, with a less common buckler carrying a Gorgon head - even replacing both role at the same time. One theory places Aegis as Pallas' remnants of protecting Athena after death. However, an Aegis Zeus and various Greek heroes are recorded as being worn from time to time, even mt. Olympus himself is said to be shrouded by Aegis. In reality, there is no central narrative or tradition, but Aegis, whatever it is in particular, represents the protection of the gods. This is a phrase referred to by someone who wants to spend Aigis' days defending the hero and, in his words, always wanting to protect him. This reference is supported by the protagonist's ultimate Personality being the Messiah, an entity in the world's religions that is considered an entity that will bring salvation to the world. Except Portable in all versions of Persona 3, Aigis' upper lip twitches o flashes. In Persona 3, Aigis is the only character (protagonist) whose attack animations and war quotes change to weapon-equipped. He is also the only character to change his All-Out Attack bid after receiving his Ultimate Persona. In Aegis: The First Mission, Aigis has been shown to understand monkeys as well as dogs. Aigis, who at first had a perfect understand of Koromaru's thoughts, gradually loses that ability when he wakes up to the powers of wild card in The Answer. While Wild Card makes it more human, it begins to lose some of its mechanical properties: people can't talk to dogs, so Aigis can no longer understand dogs because he looks more like a human being. This is reflected when he accepts Metis back into the sea of his soul: while he earns it all back Emotions, she also re-gains the ability to cry and the need for tired sleep (so as soon as they combine it collapses again). Despite this, arena ultimax once again exhibits his ability to understand Koromaru. In persona 3's final anime scene, where the protagonist sleeps on Aigis's lap, there's leather around the neck of Aigis's white suit, and instead of the robotic headset-like pieces he normally has, he has ears. It may symbolize him because he's more humane. Aigis' first robotic emotions, but as he becomes more humane, he wins Athena over Palladion, who has a more humane appearance than his predecessor. Persona 3 FES has some audio files hidden on the DVD disc, which contain the sounds of the hero, and Aigis shouts the names of other SEES members' Personas. Interestingly, among these files, there are different audio clips for Aigis Palladion and Athena, separate from the one she uses Persona 3, In Persona 4 Golden, if naoto shirogane is equipped with gekkou uniform, he will imitate Aigis lines say. Aigis' theme at persona 4 Arena is a remix of Heartful Cry, first heard fighting SEES members for Keys in The Answer. Shadow Aigis' theme is the Shadow master, which is used for battles with Shadow Arcana in Persona 3 and for all Shadow Bosses in The Answer. At Persona 4 Arena, Aigis, like Yu, is listed as Fool Arcana, but despite this, Athena is still listed to be Chariot Arcana. Because Athena really is a Chariot Arcana Persona. The addition of Aigis as Fool Arcana instead of Chariot Arcana may imply that Aigis has regained Athena as one of his many Contacts, rather than losing his Wild Card talent alumnus after the Events of The Answer. Yu and Elizabeth confirm this in the game, because they often say they feel the Joker in it. Another fact that the evidence is similar to this Yu, Aigis will also change personas during lnstant Kill, as Athena Palladion transforms, she develops her Persona de-evolves instead of awkwardly.

blank expression, Aigis' sprite has an extra left fore arm. In persona 4 Arena's official art book, Aigis initially turned out to be a braided ponytail similar to Fuuka. Similarly, there is a sketch wearing a Yasogami High School uniform. Aigis is among the few heroes of the entire Shin Megami Tensei series who are not silent when controlled by the player, with only the Persona 5 protagonist expressing so many lines in dungeons. Aigis Persona 4 Arena Ultimax has the ability not to share a mirror match theme with any character. While other female Persona 3 characters (including Elizabeth) have All Out Erasing as their mirror match theme, Aigis has Mass Destruction FES. Papillon Heart appears on his chest during electric shock at Persona 4 Arena. Although Aigis' rifle weapons are fed with the magazine, these weapons will carry spare ammunition rounds between his fingers in battle after they are equipped. In Persona 3 Portable, Aigis, along with Elizabeth, are the only characters of heroes who fall in love with both sexes. Morgana can wear an Aigis costume as a DLC. The events described in Aegis: The First Mission occur in May 1999, when Aigis was first activated. At Persona 4 Arena, the activation date is actually claimed to be September 10, 1999; Four months after Prequel's story. While Aigis' memories are erased and put on hold at the end of Aegis: The First Mission, it is possible that the date claimed at Persona 4 Arena is actually a reactivation date, as opposed to a continuity error. Equipping Sera's costume in P3D would be Aigis's first line of Pray (Light shines in heaven). Aigis Persona Q2 has a similar: New Cinema Maze, Ribbon. Other Media Views[edit | source edit] Vermilion Re Lord: 2: God Tribe. Aigis appears next to Yu Narukami and Elizabeth. Unlike other guest characters, Aigis has two cards, one paired with Athena, and the other aigis EXO paired with Christ. Both of Aigis' cards belong to the Tribe of God. Aigis's ability is Orgia Mode, which improves its statistics and allows it to use Heavenly Spear, which causes multiple severe light damage to an enemy, while Aigis EXO has Orgia Mode, which greatly improves its status and allows it to use megido Fire EX as an attack capability, causing multiple heavy Fire damage to all enemies in a region. Element-wise, Aigis Light Elemental and Aigis EXO Fire are Elemental, and both are weak in electricity. Although both of Aigis's cards have lower statistics than her guest companion Persona 4 Arena, Aigis' Orgia

Mode can only be run for a limited time. The HP indicator also served as the Orgia Meter and will overheer if its HP reaches 1. This will not only leave Aigis with dangerously low health, his statistics will also be significantly reduced, making him extremely Until we get HP back. Also, if either Yu or Elizabeth

Aigis or Aigis are on the same team as EXO, their stats will increase slightly (for Defense Yu and Crime Elizabeth) as an additional benefit when he uses Orgia Mode (EX), but Aigis is not to the same extent. BlazBlue Cross Tag Battle is the first game in which Aigis uses the original Japanese text name globally as Aegis, audio clips about voicing their regional names pronounced by Japanese or English characters are kept as Aigis, unlike Teddie; Playable Character (DLC) References[edit | source edit]
