Pokémon card checklist excel

I thought I'd dig up the one I'm currently using. I'm not a strict spreadsheet person because I think they can easily turn into jobs instead of fun. But I really had some goals that I wanted to finish by the end of the year and whisked this up. The first page is a pack collection. Another page for promotional packs. Then I needed somewhere to put the unskind korokoro set, so it went into a pack spreadsheet. I like the red/green/orange at first look because it gives me more of a sense of where I am than the number. I can focus on the times or something and judge how much red there is. I'm using orange for items that aren't the conditions I want.purple means it's not in the state I want (I have a few packs on blisters when I prefer regular packs). Overall, I like the way this system works for me!pssst.I have a card saver for sale. Hmu bbygrl is your favorite Pokémon so I have a question for all your CRAZY smart people. Lol. But I have a question. Anyway, do I need to easily record all the cards I have, along with that photo? Perhaps something that can be easily transferred between my phone and my computer? Record it in a spreadsheet with what it's worth. I'm not doing spreadsheets. So, is there an easy way to do this? So far, I've been using Pokelector in a way. However, I found that I re-purchased about 15 different cards because I can't check them easily/fast fast enough to know if I have a card. Does anyone else know an easy way to record my cards and list them at a price? Thank you very much. So I have a question for all your CRAZY smart people because it's your favorite Pokémon. Lol. I don't know anything about spreadsheets and I really want to have something much easier. I feel like I'm going to do a lot of spreadsheets. Also, a lot of the required amount of work. I can't spend that much time dedicated to spreadsheets and constantly checking that it's up to date. So I have a question for all your CRAZY smart people because it's your favorite Pokémon. Lol. You want to do a spreadsheet, so do you want to categorize and record all my cards/prices for me? During that summer's work, I worked in a sports shop for the season and their warehouse was completely disrupted. If they had skates (ice skating, hockey skating, rollerblades, inline skating, etc.), they made new lines of all sizes, colors, etc. so that one model of skating could have up to 100 lines. You're going to hit those 250k lines so fast. Checklist Benefits - Just grab the checklist you need and each set is your own file - comprehensive total page. Keep a cumulative total of all sets that have cards - color-coded card names - and set a summary at the bottom of each checklist. Includes the sum of rarity and type. - Updates are quick and easySteps: To make it work, download the checklists from the links above and place them all in the same folder. If you want to use the total files, you must be in the same folder as the rest of the checklist. For each new set, just add a new checklist to the same folder. The summary file is updated each time a checklist is added or updated, and is automatically updated by simply replacing the old total file with a new total file. If you want to update individual checklists, you must copy/paste the counts into the updated checklist and replace the old checklists in the folder. The checklist was created in Excel 2007, but for older versions, some of the colors may be out of place. Upcoming additions --: - Promotion set (Wizards, Nintendo, D/P, B/W for now) - POP series - Odds and ends (random set of cards) - No longer created - Color coding a percentage of pages as a gradient from 0-100 Add up - Check boxes on the remaining card pages to turn sets on or off - Add all four variations to the base set list - Japanese promos - No longer created - Japanese sets - No longer created - Error checklist release: 10/30/12 Changed the rarity of boundaries beyond 11/8/12#35 where all sets intersected + total released. Last edit: At 6:19 a.m. on Tuesday, I'd like to comment on how great these checklists have been for me. They made my card management so easy. The only thing I would like to see is having another file (similar to the idea of totals).Repeat the list of missing cards (by regular and reverse) for each set, but thank you for sharing these! This is more of a loving feature, but it's a surprising feature if you can use that aggregate spreadsheet to return to the main checklist (if items are entered in the aggregate) checklist. This is a very nice resource, it's sticking to the top right now. Great, thank you! Ottowa, I try to think of a way to do something like that, but I don't know how easy it can be. If there is a value you can like to change the background color of the cell, but that's not exactly what you're looking for. Last updated: October 31, 2012 They don't seem to be working with OpenOffice. Such a sorry as they look like great resources. Let me throw my thanks too. Checklists are very helpful in the projects I'm working on. Glory! I was planning to do this apology and make a spreadsheet (I had already started). It was a stupid mistake on my part. It wasn't working because it was read-only. It seems to be doing well right now. Also, update the list of base sets to include all four variations. @SMP88, a small update of the boundary intersection, 35 Golduck should be rare. Can I repeat my thanks again for what you created?=) Update 11/8/12 #35交差する境界の希少性を変更しました。 Added new set P1 Wizards Promotion. The total page does not yet reflect the promotion. All error cards (such as the first edition of Promo Pikachu #1 and Error Promo Dark Persia) will be included in the error checklist later. Hi SMP88 (all, first post! I registered only to say thank you for this! I've been trying to motivate myself to make these for years.) I couldn't find a complete, up-to-date set list with easy-to-use, useful information in Excel. Finally! And you've made it all available for the world! If there's anything we can do to help, keep it going (unlikely with those excellent skills) just horror. What a man! Yo SMP88 has just discovered that the metal energy 94/109 of the EX Ruby sapphire set is a rare holo and says the table is rare, but FYI may also apply to Miracle Energy 95/109, but I can't confirm it because I don't own it. Dark energy 93/109 is standard rare as the table says. One small question is, I'm trying to get Excel to import all the data from my workbook into one new filtered worksheet, simply by displaying all the cards I don't own in the first edition, normal or rev holo (all columns).Set the set with another column that displays the set. I think I can do it, but it proves harder than I thought! Is there a way to do this? I tried PivotTable (which worked with only one data source) and saw SQL queries to get line information from many external files. Excel is the whim around. Cheers man! You're welcome, I may have these. The error checklist welcome, I'd like to complete the promotion list first, and then start a Japanese set. I might just create a basic error list and slowly add to it over time. I've seen several different lists, all of which show that ruby/Sapphire's metal energy is normal rare, not holo. Miraculous energy from neo-destiny is rare,Checklist shows it. If you click them and select only Blank, the blank cells in that column are displayed. You can also use filters to find individual cards. You have to do it set by set and you can't do normal and RH at the same time, but it helps a bit. Total Spreadsheet Help I have a little file in the same folder as the rest of the list I'm working on, but none of the information has been updated on it. I haven't getting an error when I click on the update button when nothing has happened yet. Any suggestion?Page 2 Hey Man - I have that metal energy card, that's how I know! As long as everything is in the same folder, if you open the total list and click Update, you will need to update it. I may still be missing it, but is it possible to add a POP series list and a pre-release card checklist as each set or its own section? Just a suggestion, otherwise really good, thank you! Last updated: November 26, 2012, I have a complete set of Ruby/Sapphire, and both metal and darkness come in holo and non-holo. It still looks like the non-holo version was part of the actual set. Either way, anything that didn't come to the set had to come as a promotion or a league reward or something, so I have to decide where it came from. I may be missing it. Did everyone tell me I have a pre-release card checklist as each set or your own section? Just a suggestion really good, thank you! I was wanting them down, but forgot to put them on the to-do list of threads. I'm going to complete the POP sheet after finishing the promotion. After that, a pre-release card and all other odds and end-type cards will be made. It still looks like the non-holo version was part of the actual set. Either way, anything that didn't come to the set had to come as a promotion or a league reward or something, so I have to decide where it came from. Let me make this as easy as possible. It came from the actual set. ButAfter being in the game from the beginning, I don't know what I'm talking about. :nonno: Final edit: November 26, 2012 There should be a 5-card version from what I can say. - Non-holo with 'e' at the bottom left - Reverse Holo - Non-holo promotion without 'e' at the bottom left - Holo 'winner' promotional holocard looks like a promotion on this page? It came from the actual set. But After being in the game from the beginning, I don't know what I'm talking about. :nonno: Nonhoros and reverse holo can be pulled from the set (as in, from booster packs). Holo (plus winner version) was a league promotion but still has set symbols. The poo didn't even check the gallery! I definitely looks like my card, I don't know how I got it. There are no stamps or anything, but I don't think they did it at the time. I didn't collect from 2001 to 2009, so different kinds come in! I was lazy and busy at work. I'll take a day off next week, so I'll have some time then. I should be available to raise the rest of the promotion by the 29th. Thanks for all the hard work, thanks for the update! I don't know if I can post a spreadsheet here, but I have a checklist of Japanese promotional sets (BW-P, PCG-P, DP-P, PLAY, P, ADV-P). My spreadsheet also includes a link to a photo of the card, so I know that the person who completes the list has the correct card. If I'm only allowed to post LLK on these!-Colton I'm not sure if I'm allowed to post spreadsheets here, but I have a checklist of Japanese promotional sets (BW-P, PCG-P, DP-P, PLAY, P, ADV-P). My spreadsheet also includes a link to a photo of the card, so I know that the person who completes the list has the correct card. If I'm allowed to post these just LMK!-Colton would be good to me. I'll probably still make my own, but another way to format the checklist is welcome. You should have a D/P and B/W promotion page tomorrow. So how do I upload it here? If you have a drop box, I'll put it in, otherwise PM me and we can work out how to put them in the same drop box that all of me has in. Can you expect this week's D/P and B/W promotional pages? Can someone tell me the exact number of lv.X releases in English? A total of 56 pieces (Japanese lv. not including X). Just search for bulb lv.X and I will show you allX is along with out of what they are coming from. Thanks, how many/promotional do you know? go and one too lazy to count on one, just that 56+ 19 = 75. Hmm, how should I arrange my super pre blinding. I need to get to 81, maybe I put six times the distortion of time space?: Tongue: Another good idea of the Roton Set + Sharon selection checklist would be for staff promotion. I've been trying to find a finished list of staff promotions for a while, but I can't find them. Update 2/2/13 Added new set 55 Plasma Storm Updated 00 Total Workbook Plasma Storm and thank you guy for updating to fix some small errors! I tried to make myself to do it - make some kind of template, prove your work in the future and keep the checklist that the community prefers! I came up with the following Star to be fixed, paste it into B3 and then repeat: =IF(C3=c,.,#,if(C3=*,★,if(C3=h,★,h,if (C3=,if,if), ★ if(C3=fa,★,if, if) ★) It should already contain columns, circles, diamonds, and star symbols - the font is Aryal Unicode MS. If it doesn't appear correctly here, you'll need to use Insert Symbol to add it again with a wordfsomething. They're in the Other Symbols section and there you need to find them (go straight to that section, lotsa characters! Don't want to push me in, you can't of work into this and it's you - tell me to get lost if you want!: biggrin: Cheers Man!---------- Post at 10.30pm 2013 ---------- even better - Hollow Star for Super Rare = IF (C3=c,.,IF(C3=x,★,IF(C3=C3=c...★, IF (C3=h, h★, if (C3=ex, EX,IF (C3=fa,IF), IF(C3=if=) If, IF, IF, IF, IF, IF (C3=; IF(C3=; IF, IF), C3, FA, IF(20010)H)H)) Now, it's not bad to put rarity, I just copy letters and symbols from the previous sheet and make sure it fit the new set. I like hollow stars, but I might find out to put it in. Is Arial Unicode MS a standard font? I don't want to use this font that some people might not have. Their own promotional page is not a problem for me. I just need to figure out how to make a total page of promotions. Having something like an FA promotion can be messy on the total page. Hey meUnderstand how to make it look good. If you have any ideas, please let me know. Thanks. I'm pretty sure of that standard - but even if it doesn't, after making that expression and changing the font of the cells afterwards, the symbol seems to be in most forms - the usual Arial displays them all, with letters next to them. For some reason I found them in one font, but they work with everything by Arial at 9pt, looks pretty good. Arial is most definitely a standard font that I think you agree with! Maybe the Racity Word column in the Promo P1? Excellent work on all the different holotypes of information, such as p4t p-cosmos, p-fa, p-rev2005, p-rev2011, etc. No matter what it is or if it's every page, I expect some differences to be unique to one or two cards so far, but it's going to look messy. You probably have a completely different promotional holocard look. I think it's a bit to count all the unique promos each of the total pages on their own, but you can have a set book with standard cards with the same number/set, ara typography and all prints, or a textual description of the difference between cards for subset names (southern islands, wizard stamp sets, pre-release cards, season season cards, etc.). I group promotion pages by generation. For example, there are two slightly different wizard promotions, 51 and 52, each numbered 51/52, but each second entry has a Pokémon Center NY Stamp in the additional information column. It's cumbersome, but it encompasses everything and the information doesn't change much if it's down. If you have any idea for yourself, please let me know! ----------02/04/2013 03:37 ---------- pm added Asterism (baghq) Wizards Shining symbol: ● Italic Hollow star, good Nintendo Pokemon star symbol: ☆ BothAll. Consider putting different symbols in the next set. I might go back and redo all the symbols, but that depends on whether I need to go back and change the other ones. I think you've come up with a way to pull the cards that are left in another set. You can do it within each sheet, but everyone should redo each workbook or put it in a separate sum like a workbook. Now if the card doesn't exist as a variation (like RH EX), I can't even select it. It seems to be more difficult to copy/paste thoughts. Does anyone like how it's laid out? I've been trying to find a finished list of staff promotions for a while, but I can't find them. I have a completePromotions if you are interested. Just like the time... If you are interested, I have a full staff promotion. Just PM me.. That's good, I'll contact you when I try. Before you finish the promotion, clean up the sheet a bit more and add it to another worksheet. Its format would look like this: top 1 - Turtwig (common symbol) I need to edit individual sheets to add some formulas to pull the correct data. I'll edit all the sheets anyway, so go ahead and change the realicity symbol to the Ariel Unicode version of the previously mentioned pasty2k2. Doing this changes the way I add rare and I can quickly add rarity for future sets. I might also add additional categories and symbols to fit me. It also removes locks on most existence cards (such as RH EX). This made it difficult to copy/paste. I'm going to trust that people won't remove them. Let's also examine the conditional formatting rules that we use. Recent sets show the format of the mobile office suite, but not the old set. I'll look into it and fix it if necessary. If anyone discovers any formatting errors (enter colors, numbers, rarity), please let me know as soon as possible. It's easier to fix something now, rather than needing to go back. Editing all these sheets will take weeks with the limited time I have. I'm going to release them all at once, so you might not hear anything from me for a while. If you keep using the sheets that are out there now, they are all still good. Thanks for your help and suggestions. If you need the help of English promotions, please let me know. I have almost all of them. It's just missing a few people who have difficulty finding something super rare in English, something like that (Pipup San Diego 07). I have almost all of them. 99% completed. It's just hard to find something that's hard to find something like super rare English stuff, namely something like (Pipup San Diego 07), and if I can put it in an Excel sheet with numbers, names and special items (RH comes instead of the normal type one) and separate it with a set, I'll format it to look just like everything else. I'll probably wait to release them until I can release everything at once, but it's going to be another one off my plate. Well, let me know when you're ready for it. I'll give you important information like if RH exists. I also got promotions for all city/state/national championships, all prerelease releases, and all combat roads. If I could get something like this on the Set of Japan, it would be great: Smile: Thanks for the update - sounds good, only two little things I found otherwise are the title of Nobel Victory, but it means it's a noble victory, but it doesn't matter if it's painful to change it like you rigged it to the total I expect. The second is the sum of pages that do not have all the column widths of the page set when the number exceeds 1000. Again, v minor, don't worry if you forget, I just change the size after downloading! I'm looking forward to seeing the next lot! cheering man! thanks to the update - sounds good, the only two little things I've found otherwise are the title of Nobel Victory, but it means it's a noble victory, but it doesn't matter if it's painful to change it like you rigged it to the total I expect. I'm looking into how to make everything on the sheet work for even outfit if necessary. If I could get something like this on a Japanese set, it would be great: Smile: The usual Japanese set is on my list of things to do. I probably won't be able to reach them until this current project and English promotion is complete. Is anyone interested in printing the checklist? That's good, some Japanese sets would be great. Out of curiosity, what kind of engineer are you excel pro, so it's much easier to edit data in Excel because I can enter the amount you have because I don't really need a personally printed checklist because you need to be excellent heavy fields (matlab + Excel fw). If I need to reprint every time I add/trade/sell a card that will be an annoying haha. I graduated from Aero and work in oil and gas. Quick updates/suggestions. I've made some changes that I want applied to every sheet but it's not real. Even so it's easy to review before I go and make it every list. The updated files are located here: m 3 things.1 - We have changed the list of base sets to 3rd and 4th editions. I will somehow update the total page to reflect this. 2- I changed the jungle to have a new rarity symbol using Ariel Unicode and a couple backend stuff needed for the rest of the sheets. 3- I created a 000 remaining text to show which cards are left per set. For now, it uses a jungle sheet that is in the same folder. A rarity symbol using Arial Unicode and a couple backend stuff needed for the rest of the sheets. 3- I created a 000 remaining text to show which cards are left per set. For now, it uses a jungle sheet that is in the same folder. One thing before anything else - something was an overlook,I would appreciate it. When I get some responses, I start finishing the rest of the set. Page 4 Looks good man. I gave it a nest for my PC for vortex and jungle lol. Yes you've done more hand-held than the formula in my example I gave with 6 Nested IF lol. I think the little problem I get is due to apps (Polaris or something) that don't support all the features so that it works properly on Excel, but it works almost perfectly on my phone as well. But it can be read on the go, so you can get a quick peek in the middle of a trade at an event or something. Have you changed the list of base sets to Arial Unicode? The only minor thing I can think of is probably the pain to change at this point is the order of the base set list columns, shadowless (second ed), 1st Ed, 3rd, 4th place? I finished it through Sky Ridge. Work and other things delayed me. I'll probably get ready in time for the plasma freeze. I got off work today, so I've been plowing these. One thing before releasing a set sheet. A column with a card name should be the same with for each set, or it is better to fit that column for each set. Just let me know because it's really the only cosmetic difference. Otherwise, I must have these sometime tonight. --------- post added 04/18/2013 08:35 PM --------- Update 4/18/13 Update Update updates all workbooks with background items required for updates, changes fonts/symbols of rarity, and removes cell locks on cards that cannot be that type (i.e. A RH EX) Added a new 000 Remaining Cards workbook and an updated 00 Total workbook to fix 05 Team Rocket errors. But if I can get to it, I'll include them in the plasma freeze update. Lovely one guy - missed this like a week, just check them in and they look great. Personally, I think setting the same width might seem a bit silly for the someone who pushes out an HGSS double name legend card or column width. I think they're ok this way, but I don't really care - only cosmetics, whatever everyone wants! the rest of the list is great - exactly what everyone needs to see if they need the card they said. You couldn't make it faster! Small fix update 5/4/13 000 Fixed the remaining card books. Other than that, it's great! This great version of all noticed is that it's spelled Swamma in a spreadsheet suwama that crosses boundaries. Other than that, it's great! Haha, thank you. There's probably more out there to re spelling mistakes somewhere, lol. I'll fix it with a plasma freeze update that should be done by the end of May if everything goes well. Final edit: May 13, 2013 You are a rock man, meticulously work! 5/22/13 Nintendo's promotional list with the addition of the promotion sets P2 Nintendo Promos, P3 DP Promos, P4 HGSS Promos and P5 BW Promos edited P1 Wizards Promos in a new rarity font is still not complete. I know there are a couple packs that have multiple versions, I'm still trying out how to put them in there. Yes promotional list! Should I continue with my English card (other promotions, league cards, etc.) or start a Japanese set? If anyone has a list of rarity for Nintendo promotions that would be great. I know some cards came in both non-holo and holo, I just don't know what format to use for that. Also, if someone has a list for league promotions or random odds and ends the promotion or I also want them. Final edit: June 10, 2013 Hello, I want to make a checklist first and say a great job, I have one question. How do I check a card I already have? In the normal or reverse holo column, just put the number or question mark into the appropriate column. If you have a new question. I can't tell you how valuable these lists are to me now. I haven't played or collected since 2007 and these are perfect to help me catch up. Thank you so much. :biggrin: Renamed the main folder and changed the pk link. Try placing the file in a folder on your desktop. If you are using a new version of Excel, you must click the Enable editing prompt when you open the file. So this may seem like a silly question, but what do I need to do to check each card in my spreadsheet to update the total spreadsheet? Are they going to auto-update or what we calculate ourselves? If you use a number 1 or higher, you will recognize that you own the card and update the sheet accordingly. I'll update the first post to clarify it, thanks but the quick reply! Yes I found it, I just one in every spot.thanks! I know your post said I'm working on the POP series I'm looking forward to, but are you doing Dragon Ball as well? Include it in the next update. But I don't know when exactly it will be. SMP88, I know this statement is explained by everyone who used it! I wanted to repeatedly recall the excellent pieces you've created! I'm also making use of your spreadsheet to document the cards you have in a particular set and the level of detail placed while maintaining simplicity is very appreciated! Glad you liked them. Is anyone interested in making the checklist printable? It just requires everyone to re-download the sheet again. The next major update is when Flashfire is released. I need to finish the POP series checklist by then as well. For now, I'm not going to be included in the totals or the rest of that card files until I find a better way to organize them. I'll probably be making another total total type file that adds all the sections of the card (promotions, POP, odds and ends, etc.) and set files together. We'll see where it goes. I also need to finish the base set eventually. Individual files have all four variations of the base set (1st, shadowless, 3rd (unlimited), 4th), but the total file only counts 1st and unlimited until you figure out where to put the shadowless and 4th place. Does anyone have any suggestions on making the remaining cards file flow better? I don't want to split it into too many tabs, but having so many sets in one tab doesn't seem to work either. I was thinking of having them all in one tab and having a checkbox to show/hide each set, but I'm also looking for other suggestions. Page 6 Update 5/9/14 Reconfigured folder structure. All English sets are now folder English and others (currently only POP Promos are included). We added 60 Flashfire to the English set folder, 000 Remaining Cards and 00 Totals that updated Flashfire, added P6 XY Promos to include promotions through XY03 and all are included. All checklists are found in the same folder as the rest of the files in the English Promotions. All English checklists that do not fit into any of these two categories are included in folder English and others (currently only POP Promos are included). We added 60 Flashfire to the English set folder, 000 Remaining Cards and 000 Totals that updated Flashfire, added P6 XY Promos to include promotions through XY03. Don't want to re-download the file to fit the structure, you can do it yourself. Just create a folder named English Set where you are storing the checklist. It then moves all set files, including the 000 Remaining Cards and 00 Total files, to that folder. The new POP Promos checklist causes problems no matter where you download it and keep a checklist. If you have any corrections or suggestions, please let me know. If this had already been asked, sorry, does the tcgo card match the same as the pack? The collector number is the same between the physical card and the digital card. PTCGO cards go into a checklist that is part of the actual set (i.e. a league promotion). Hey SMP88 the 00 remaining card page issues, ive noticed a problem with the 000 remaining card pages in base set 1. it shows the NA value of each card under both holo and normal etc. BTW just needs to thank you for all this and it's valuable in the value of all Pokemon tcg collectors out there too. The problem is not the end of the world, but I thought you wanted everything else well and were well controlled. Thanks! Yeah, base set has two set errors (first, shadowless, normal, fourth print), so I was still working on the best way to incorporate it. I will update and fix it in the next week or so. Yes, please! Just joining in just to post this takes time to figure out exactly how to do it in each checklist. I'd like an August set, but there's no guarantee. Also, the way I make it printable is to remove the black background and text color. You can also print a header at the top of each page. Any additional things that anyone is interested in? There is no update now, but we will complete Furious Fist by the end of this week. I'm just starting a new job, so I've had more time to do some of the things I want to do with these checklists. At a least, the main set and promotion are updated each time a new set is released. Maybe I don't know where to look, but where is the XY Karoset set here? Hopefully with an update after furious fists. Also, furious fists should be up tomorrow. I've been busier than expected for the past two weeks. Update 8/12/14 Added 61 Furious Fists to the English set folder 000 Remaining cards and 00 totals to include Furious Fist I will update XY Promotions with the next mini-update in a week or so. Is anyone interested in making the checklist printable? I just registered to say yes please! Here you are I Pikachu on top? I love the look of your checklist and have wanted to print it with it for many times. I've scoured the internet for decent printable checklists, but they don't exist (except for full color from the official website). If I could add your checklist to my card collection binder, it would make me very happy! Thank you so much every time I check a new card. Very useful for creating a resource and taking the time to update it. Thanks for your efforts to compile these lists. This was the only place I could finally find the full set of BW and XY promotions. Highly appreciated. Why is the spreadsheet locked (i.e., it looks like you can't copy and paste the contents of the file into another spreadsheet that you want to use to extend content). It is locked so that user cannot accidentally change the formatting and then know how to undo it. But if I don't need to fix it, the value of the number of cards that should be able to be copied. The spreadsheet is also not locked with a password, it is only locked. You should be able to unlock it by simply clicking Unlock Sheet. - - Update - - I just registered to say yes please! Here you are I Pikachu on top? I love the look of your checklist and have wanted to print it with a card binder in it many times. I've scoured the internet for decent printable checklists, but they don't exist (except for full color from the official website). If I could add your checklist to my card collection binder, it would make me so happy! Very useful for creating a resource and taking the time to update it. I have a pretty good idea on how to do this, I just need to find time to update all the spreadsheets. To make it printable, make a button somewhere above, remove all colors (text and fills) and send it to the printer. I might add something to move the margins or the number of line, but I have to look into it more. Man, I just want to thank you for that great job! One question: Do I need to put POP promotions and other promotions in the same folder in the world? When I added more odds and finish the type of thing (pre-release promotion, chore promotion, etc.), I will. spreadsheet of everything that is not in the normal set? So will I get a total too? Man, I just want to thank you for everything in the world order. Thanks! ^^ prerere release is happening and the card list is out, so I need to have a phantom force checklist by tomorrow. In addition to this, I releasing a dragon vault checklist, an updated XY promotion list, and more stuff you see. There are more than I thought, so I'm double checking a few things. I just point out that this seems to work really well on Google Drive (sheets) and that's great! This is a great job!Page 7 I have a question. I'm not used to a new generation of Pokémon cards, so I'm trying to figure out the full set. One problem I recognized (looking at Flashfire) is that I don't know how you specify between non-holo, reverse foil and holo. I see you have a normal list, a list of reverse foils. But what happens to Pokemon who only have holo? To express in the list The Holo card is part of the normal list. The normal set is non-holo (indicated by cat), an commons (indicated by kw), and EX (indicated by over-age EX), full cards in are (indicated by FA) and secret cards (indicated by SR) (the symbols phosphoteid represent rare - there are multiple types of rare cards) will have parallel foil versions, except for B&W and secret cards. This is a set of all holo cards that parallel the core card (minus ex, full art, and secret cards), and the set. If you look at the sets before B&W, they were rarity order - holo, less common first, then rare cards, then rare cards, then common cards and trainer cards (in the same order). Exploration is a good example to look at. If there is an EX card or secret card in the set, it will be the end of the set after the trainer/energy card. Non-holo versions of cards will often come from pre-built themed decks rather than packs. These cards are included in the Master Set instead of the BJJ I seem to have come to ask the same question as JC24 and don't really understand your answer.I look at a spreadsheet that can check normal and reverse holo, I can check if it's the same card that has normal, holo and reverse holo? Do I need to know which cards those cards are in a quick and effective way, especially if there is a hole in checking them, because I can always keep it on my card instead of checking my phone or computer. I like parallel foil because it's an unopened pack and again - the first 5 cards will be commons, the next 3 will be parallel hole/reverse holo, then uncommon, then unusual, then rare and, again, the master set includes a complete normal set and a parallel foil set. They also include all sorts of things like cut glass cards, which are usually considered emotional, but they have set numbers and usually non-holo, so usually holos have non-holo cards that can be found in a booster pack. Sorry you haven't had a primed card yet. The sheets on the set are ready, I just need to update the total and check. I started a new job. After this weekend's state convention, you'll have to have it by the end of next week. When I started making these checklists about 7-8 years ago, the term I heard was reverse holo for an alternative version of the card. Parallel foil is probably a better term for it, but it stuck. Those with holo are seen as holobox. This is your standard picture foil card. Currently, these cards have a horizontal foil pattern in the picture box of the card. Previous versions of holobox had different foil patterns, but they were always included in the image on the card. Reverse holo (or parallel foil) is an alternative foil for almost every card in the set. Currently, the foil pattern for these is an energy symbol or pokeball around the whole card, and the image has no foil pattern on it at all. Each one that is not EX, full art or secret rare has a reverse holo version of that card. Previous sets had different reverse holoThe diamond/pearl had a foil with black/white stained the entire card (other than the picture). The original original set had a variety of full card foil patterns. The only thing to remember is that the normal holobox has a foil pattern in the picture of the card and that not elsewhere. Also, there is currently no selection of alternative art cards that are not part of the booster pack. Cards like non-holocards in theme decks now have no place to record them. For Milotic, there are non-holocards in the theme deck, normal holo versions of boosters (foil patterns are included in the image) and reverse holo versions (energy symbol foil patterns). Currently, non-holo versions have no slots anywhere on the sheet. As a collector, an accurate amount that says (if you forgive the cliché) that I'm unclear about it than I've. I've created an account that says (if you forgive the cliché) that I'm never grateful for your work. I'm starting to get into collecting and your list is completely unparalleled as far as I can see. Glory. I always check this thread - and I can't wait to make criminal crashes to be added to the total! Hi, these checklists are great, but I have a technical issue. Can someone help me? Sorry, I haven't done, I'm just busy. I don't know the open office question. However, .xlsx be saved as a file. But a pretty big announcement. With the release of the Roar checklist, I will implement two new features in the checklist. The first is a print button to print checklists automatically. Start with a roaring checklist, but from there I will add and add button to other checklists over time. The print button formats the print area and removes the color border, then prints it in black and white. In addition, we offer two options to print only the checklist information + aggregation) or the checklist part + a summary at the bottom of each checklist. Another feature is an update to the remaining card books that show only the sets that you want to display and that you can interact with over time. I'm still solving some final bugs, but if all goes well, I'll have to release these early next week. Also, if someone has additional features that you want to include, let me know and see if I can add them. That's absolutely fantastic, isn't it? These checklists were very helpful. I can't thank you enough. Looking forward to the updated list! Tournament Promotions by Year: League, City, Region, State.2. All promotional energy from leagues, teaching programs, player rewards programs, etc. 3. Promotion of all player rewards programs 4. Promotion of all teaching programs I understand that there is some overlap with energy and programs, but the list of Bulbapedia below is too complicated to follow. I really appreciate this. Thank you for the great work! When will the checklist be updated? First of all, I want to say a massive thanks for the checklist, iv had been searching for something like this for a while and finally found us and 100% perfect. Are you wondering if you plan to do 3 new sets? I have completed the checklist, I just need to get Excel to my drop box. If put them in later tonight. The total checklist hasn't been updated yet, but you'll have to give me until the weekend and do them now. 9/16/15 Add Primal Clash added to English set folder New feature with 65 Ancient Origins added to 64 Roar Sky English set folder - printing with this update provides new printing features. It's only on the roar and ancient origin checklist now, but in the future we'd like to add it to more checklists as disabled. Enable printing when you open the file with the Print button on the topline. You will see a pop-up box asking if you want to print the overview. Click Yes to print the entire workbook, including all the counts at the bottom. If you only wanted the overview, click No, only the last card in the set (before the of the counts at the bottom) is printed. Click Cancel to cancel printing. Thanks for the SMP88, I've tried using other Excel/checklists, but yours is definitely my favorite. Thank you for your hard work! Is there a chance to update the total spread thanks to update SMP? (I wish I was excellent and good!, thanks to update SMP, is there a chance to update the total spread?) (I wish I was excellent and good! I will update the totals that day, but I'll be lacking in adding the last few sets to it during the next week or two. Hey! Thanks for the great list! You're doing a great job! What is the difference between Normal, 1st, 3rd and 4th editions?1.I know about the stamp of first edition (the first card without shadows so far). These cards also had 1995, 96, 98, 99 Nintendo, Creatures, GAMEFREAK C 1999 Wizards at the bottom of the Excel sheet?2. Also, I know that the card printed after this was exactly the same card, except for Machamp. And these cards didn't have a first stamp. So I think it's the same as the normal of Excel sheets?3. 3rd edition?Is this the most common one?Shadows and printed 1995, 96, 98 Nintendo,Gamefreak C 1999 Wizards at the bottom?4. The fourth edition is the same as the third one, but a little lighter and brighter, printed 1995, 96, 98 Nintendo, Creatures, GAMEFREAK C 1999-2000 Wizards at the bottom? That's right. Edition 1 is those with the first stamp. Shadowless and 1st are identical, except 1st has the stamp and is generally brighter/darker on top of the cards. Without the first stamp of shadowless. I haven't added the shadowless cards to the Excel sheet yet because I'm still figuring out how to do it. 3rd edition is the most common, the shadow behind the art (I have no way to do. I just decided to work out how to add the total page up when I figure out how to add shadowless and 4th place and try to update them all at once, if you know how you look at the total, it calculates which only cards you have to which number Ultra Pro 3 ring binder (which I use for set/display storage). I thought there were more than 50 9 pocket pages per 3-ring binder full of cards and now requires my folder to be full of cards. The formula is calculated when this update is fixed. This allows you to plan your collection in advance, and if you've stopped collecting it for years, like me, you don't have to shift the set in a folder when filling an a previous collection. However, you must join/unjoin cells in hidden columns, conditional formatting, but only once for every three or four sets. I've done some coloring - added a conditional format to the total to get excited a your set got 100% closer on your collecting journey! Do you think I'm distributing copyrighted material if I upload them there? Cheers, Paul finally I was able to semi-automate filling out total/bitype sheets using a formula generator. Excel doesn't allow the value of one cell to be used as an external reference from another cell, so you'll need to copy/paste and F2/ENTER a bit, but you won't manually find out where the tables in the summary are in the individual sets. As opposed to 20+, it takes about 2 minutes to pass now. Wait for your A-OK, I'll pm you a link. Sounds good. If only you could send me a great link. You may see it by the end of next week. Thanks! Oh... SMP88 exceeds the quota for saved private messages and can't accept more messages until it clears some space. Oh dear ah dear dear oh dear..! Poop, just cleared some space. If you don't see an alert, a PM is sent.
