An adventurer got Thyrus, the White Trolls' relic weapon from Gerolt. Muahahaha.... MUAHAHAHAHAHA! These gods-given hands have worked yet another miracle! Feast yer eyes on Thyrus, jus' as it was in days of yore! 'Tis a sight to move a man to tears.... You lucky bastards. You better take care of it! Gerolt, after he successfully revived Thyrus. Relic Weapon (古武器, Inishie no Buki?) is a group of weapons that require a large amount of work to upgrade and customize, but offers high rewards. Due to their high potential statistics and difficulties in obtaining, relic weapons are often considered to be at a level of ultimate weapon, although there are alternatives for players who do not enjoy Relic grinds. Relic weapons have six phases of upgrades: base form, Zenith, Atma, Animus, Novus, and Nexus. Starting with the Novus stage, players can customize the secondary stats on their weapons. Once they reach the Nexus stage, players can turn their relic weapon into a Zodiac weapon starting with patch 2.45. Unlike many weapons, Relic weapons cannot be equipped by classes, only by their upgraded jobs. Relic Reborn quest, which is available to the player at the end of the main story quest. The beginning quest is The Weaponsmith of Legend, but at the end, obtaining additional Relic weapons does not require this quest to be completed again. Gerolt is the main weaponsmith of Relic weapons. Stages[edit | edit source] Broken form[edit | edit source] The base form is unlocked via a mission with Gerolt. He instructs the adventurer to find the ruined relic to return to him in Hyrstmill. After that, the adventurer must bring a specific crafted weapon, with two specific materia double-melded, varying on the class, to him. This will present the player with the unfinished weapon. Base form[edit | edit source] The base form is item level 80. Once the broken form weapon is acquired, Alumina Salte from Dhrome Chimera in trial A Relic Reborn: Chimera must be achieved by defeating it in the trial (for which the job weapon is for). After that, the adventurer is required to get a book, and must talk to Rowena in Mor Dhona, and then get Amdapor Glyph from Amdapor Keep in exchange for the book Gerolt requested. 24 specific beasts from the specific stronghold must then be killedZahar'ak Lancer x8, x8, Thaumaturge x8 (U'Ghamaro Quarrymen x8, Roundmen x8, Bedesmen/ Priest x8), and then sly Hydra (as the job weapons are for, using unfinished weapons). Finally, White-Hot Ember, Howling Gale and Hyperfused Ore must be achieved by defeating Ifrit (Hard), Garuda (Hard) respectively, as the job weapons are for. After that, a Bottle of Radz-at-Han Quenching Oil must be purchased for 15 Allagan Tomestones of poetics and given to Gerolt at Hyrstmill for the base shape to be completed. Zenith[edit | edit source] Zenith Weapons is a small upgrade to point level 90 weapons, and is acquired from a simple quest. The first upgrade requires only three Thavnairian Mists to be purchased from Auriana in Revenant's Toll, Mor Dhona (x22.y6). Each costs 20 Tomestones by Poetics, making a total of 60 tomestones used per relic. After that, the player must visit the North Shroud Furnace of Gerolt, and merge them with the base form weapons (Curtana and Holy Shield require two mists and a fog respectively). This will upgrade to Zenith. Atma[edit | edit source] In order to upgrade to Atma, Gerolt asks the adventurer to speak to Jalzahn, who in turn asks that more crystal Atma objects be manufactured by FATEs around Eorzea. To achieve an Atma, the Adventurer must complete a destiny with the Zenith Relic Weapon equipped, and the crystal can randomly fall at an estimated 10% chance. When an Atma falls, a pop up in the game will notify the player. The rating has no effect on whether it will fall and players do not have to remain the full length of fate as long as it is completed. Players can collect multiple Atmas of the same kind, but only one of each species can be used per weapon. Once the crystals are brought to Jalzahn, the hunt is over.
