Failure breaking benjamin lyrics

Life will come our way, it has only just begun. The world will die alone The frail will fall under. Time will take our place. We return it back to a Calm before the cold, the long and lonely road. Look for the light that takes me home. Tired of feeling lost, tired of letting go. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Error. Drive the cloud away, we will fall from last to none. The darkness before dawn, the war will continue. Look for the light that takes me home. Tired of feeling lost, tired of letting go. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Tired of wasting your breath, tired of nothing left. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. We bury the sunlight (failure), we bury the sunlight (failure). Error! Error. Error. Failure We bury the sunlight, we bury the sunlightFailure! FailureFailure I don't really know what the song means to Breaking Benjamin, but I can relate to what it means to me through personal experience. Life can be a juggling act sometimes with work, relationships, and financial responsibility, and we can create impossible obligations for ourselves. I worked three jobs to fulfill my financial obligations to live in a better house, drive a better car and pay for things that I thought were important. I slowly killed myself when my youth was volatile. I had everything I thought I could want, but happiness and calmness. I lost my job and struggled to hang on to what I had. Sometimes it is better to let things fall instead of carrying the load and burden of what we have. I failed and had to restart from the beginning. I carried through those dark days just to find light at the end of the tunnel. It got worse before it got better, but it was the best thing I've ever done. I have much less than I did, but I have peace and no assets can pay for it. Life will come our way, it has only just begun. The world will die alone The frail will fall under. Time will take our place. We return it back to a Calm before the cold, the long and lonely road. Look for the light that takes me home. Tired of feeling lost, to let go. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Error. Drive the cloud away, we will fall from last to none. The darkness before dawn, the war will continue. Look for the light that takes me home. Tired of feeling lost, tired of letting go. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Tired of wasting your breath, tired of nothing left. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Error. Tired of feeling lost, tired of letting go. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. Tired of wasting your breath, tired of nothing left. Tear down the whole world, tear down the whole world. We bury the sunlight (failure), we bury the sunlight (failure). Error! Error. We bury the sunlight (failure), we bury the sunlight (failure). Error! Error. Error. Error.
