She was a sophomore at Gekkoukan High School, one year under the protagonist, taking on the role of the treasurer in the Student Representative Council Club. Religion[edit] Edit source] Chihiro has long dark brown hair, brown eyes, and wears black glasses. At school, she wears the standard Gekkoukan school uniform. On the weekends, she wears a white tortoise with a tan brown short truiba jacket, long white skirt, long white stockings and black slippers. Two years later, when she's a senior, her look is the same, but she's more mature and has become an elegant young woman, and her hair color turns more into a little lighter brown. In Persona 4 The Animation, her hair color is changed to auburn, and her eyes are dark brown. Chihiro's design stems from the rejected, original concept for Fuuka Yamagishi. [1] Amendment source] Persona 3[altering] Main article: Social Link/Chihiro Fushimi The Treasurer for the Student Chihiro is a very shy individual, she's not comfortable around men and struggles to stand up for herself. As a result, she often struggles to express herself to others. It is implicated in the game that the protagonist is the first person she started developing a bond with. Through her Social Link with the protagonist, she finally gets over her fear of men and even becomes very attens to the protagonist. Chihiro is one of the girls who can date the protagonist. One key plot point in her Social Link revolves around the accusation against her in relation to missing money. Being the treasurer, she is the primary suspect. Over the course of the Social Link, she grows more confident in herself, confronting the teacher about the matter (it turned out to be an accident on his part). Unlike her shy personality, she has a tendency to make angry outbursts when pushed too far. As the story unfolds with her, it is revealed that her family is very poor. She is also a fan of Shojo Manga. Her Arcana is Justice. Her Social Link's Ultimate Persona is Melgizedek, the righteous king. Religion[edit] Chihiro chose the same role as before as the male protagonist. However, if the player chooses to play as the female protagonist, her role as the Justice Arcana Social Link will be replaced by Ken Amada, and she'll only make a token appearance in Hidetoshi Odagiri's Social Link. Persona 3 The Movie: Falling Down | edit source] Chihiro makes a cameo appearance at Gekkoukan High School, where she considers calling Ryoji after giving his phone number to her. Later in the movie, Makoto and Ryoji help chihiro organize the Student Representative Council chamber. Religion[edit] Chihiro in Persona 4. Chihiro, who is set more than a year after the events of Persona 3, appears when the Persona 4 protagonist and his school come to visit Gekkoukan High School during their school holidays. Chihiro in Persona 4 is a confident, elegant young woman after the events of Persona 3, revealing that she took the role of president in the Student Representative Council. During Chihiro's introduction, the students from Yasogami High School, Yosuke Hanamura and Kanji Tatsumi immediately welcome through her beau, while Chie Satonaka laments that Chihiro beats her in all female attributes. Despite her confident and inspiring speech, Chihiro still appears to be somewhat forgettable similar to her past, losing the other's attention quickly. While the others are impressed by Chihiro's welcoming speech, Chihiro later reveals that her speech from her first year was written by the former president of the Student Representative Council, implying Mitsuru Kirijo helped her with her speech. Chihiro also reveals her previous phobia of men and seemed to get over it.
