Stihl br600 leaf blower parts diagram

1/11 AdShooter/Getty ImagesA leaf blower can keep your farm leaf-free, but it can do so much more! We highlight some of our favorite leaf blower attachments, but before you buy any make sure your choice is compatible with your bladder. Check the brand and model numbers against the compatibility notes for any attachment. Be sure to save your receipt just in case that universal attachment isn't quite so universal after all. 4/11 via amazon.comIf you absolutely hate emptying collection bags, you can even choose disposable bags with leaf collection. Simply fill them up and drop them straight into the trash. Although more expensive and less environmentally friendly in the long term than reusable bags, they can be a good choice if you are dealing with particularly unpleasant materials like wet or rotting leaves. Shop Now 5/11 via amazon.com Of course, if you're really serious about eliminating collection bags, consider an attachment like the Worx Leaf Collection System. Designed to fit almost all leaf blower/vacuum combos, this ingenious system creates a sweeper that deposits leaves directly in a waste container. No more emptying countless small bags! Shop Now 7/11 via amazon.comThe shape of a leaf blower's nozzle has a direct impact on its performance. Just as the adjustable current of a garden syringe is better suited for various tasks, so too is the end of a blower. Round nozzles put air down on a larger area, while flat ends like this Ego Power + Flat Nozzle are better suited to maximize distribution, making them a perfect match for light, dry blades. Please note that this nozzle is specific to Ego blowers. But before you pull out your wallet, check what diameter your wet wipe vac hose is. Some shop vacuum nozzles are ideal for leaf blowers. There are no uniform sizes, so it's worth checking out! Shop Now 8/11 via amazon.comCan't get enough alternative nozzle? You're our kind of DIYer! Using a leaf blower involves a lot of repetitive wrist movements as you sweep the leaves in front of your path. Toro Oscillating Nozzle Kit is an ingenious blade solution that uses the power of the fan itself to change the direction of the air. You simply move forward and the nozzle makes sweeping motion for you. Shop Now 10/11 via amazon.comIf you've had backpack leaf blowers for a couple of years, bring it back to a more comfortable ride with a set of new harness straps. This two-pack echo bladder backpack straps will make your leaf blower more fun. Similar products are available for most other brands of blowers, so stay tuned and don't be afraid to upgrade your blowstraps and frame. Shop Now 11/11 via amazon.comFinally, here's an attachment that doesn't go on your blower, but rather a blowdryer that goes on your string trimmer! Delivers up to 500 cubic feet per (CFM), this TrimmerPlus blower attachment is compatible with fastening-capable string trimmers from major brands like Troy-Bilt, Snapper or Ryobi.Shop NowAll prices and links were current from publication. 1/9 Westend61/Getty ImagesLeaf blowers are a huge time-saving device, perfect for rounding up leaves and blowing away yard debris from dirt to grass clippings. Since they are available in a wide range of designs and prices, it can be difficult to recommend a single leaf blower to any homeowner. With this in mind, we have compiled a list of great choices for specific situations. Scroll through and see if you can spot a leaf blower that's right for you! 2/9 via homedepot.comWe'll start our list with the Toro PowerJet F700 ($57). It lays out a staggering 725 CFM (cubic feet per minute) of air, with a maximum speed of 140 mph. The latter is important when moving heavier objects such as dirt or wet, compacted leaves.

But for dry leaves or grass clippings, CFM gives a better indication of power. Either way, the Toro stands out. The only limitation is the length of your power cord, which is why it is best suited for areas relatively close to your home. Shop Now 3/9 via amazon.comBut what to do when you have more square meters to cover? The Husqvarna 350BT ($302) delivers 690 CFM, a lot to move large amounts of leaves in short order. And the padded shoulder harness allows you to work in comfort. This combination makes it a great match for homeowners with large turns and a significant number of blades. According to the manufacturer, the 350BT is also designed to emit low noise levels, allowing you to work without worry in residential areas. It's a good feature. But if you really need a silent leaf blower, check out the next post on our list. Shop Now 4/9 via homedepot.comOkay, to be fair, maybe we should call this least noisy leaf blower. But regardless of title, Ryobi Whisper 550 CFM ($179) is a determined champion. Ryobi markets the Whisper series as the industry's quietest blower. With running a volume of only 59 decibels, they've backed up the hype! For context, normal calls are around 60 db, while a typical leaf blower can be as high as 89 db. You can protect your hearing and avoid annoying your neighbors with the Whisper series, but you don't have to give up power – this 40-volt cordless model still puts out 550 CFM! Shop now 5/9 via amazon.comIf you want an all-in-one blower, then it's worth checking out this WORX WG520 Turbine 600 ($135). Packaged with a gutter cleaning system and a collapsible 26-gallon farm garbage can, it's a bargain for a leaf blower. The modular cleaning system provides an 11-foot range, so you will be able to clean single-storey gutters from the ground. 7/9 via homedepot.comTopping out the scales for most home users, beast ($419) delivers an eye-catching 1,250 CFM. This walk-behind model is designed to move large amounts of leaves over large open areas. Its all-metal construction can take a beating, and the adjustable blower will let you get the angle perfect to move leaves and debris. It makes fall cleaning easy. Now shop 8/9 via amazon.comOn the opposite end of the scale, it's hard to beat the value of Sun Joe 6-Amp Blower ($17) when you only need a leaf blower sometimes. Weighing in at less than four pounds, this skid bladder puts out a respectable 155 mph/260 CFM. It's a great choice for blowing leaves or grass clippings from your patio and front steps, as well as drying your car after a car wash. And with more than 2,000 five- and four-star reviews on Amazon, it's ready to make a strong impression. (Photo credit: Shutterstock) The best leaf blowers have been designed to take the effort out of cleaning up your farm and driveway. Choosing which one is best for you depends on how large the area is that you need to clear. If you have a large farm, or need a leaf blower to use professionally, we would suggest a gas leaf blower because these tools will work for a long time, as long as you refill them with gas. Gas leaf blowers are powerful but are also noisy. Cordless or electric leaf blowers are normally quieter than gas models but they do not offer quite the same effect. They are good for clearing smaller areas. Best overalls(Image credit: Black & Decker)The Black & Decker is a battery-powered leaf blower and therefore gas or extension cord is not required. On a full charge, the battery should last for about 30 minutes. This lightweight leaf blower weighs 6.9 lbs. The Black & Decker leaf blower has handle pads and vibration damping functionality to make it more comfortable to use. The total length of this leaf blower is 37 inches. Best electric leaf blower(Image credit: Toro)This Toro leaf blower is compact but extends to a long 41 inches, and pushes blades up to 16.8 feet away. You will never get on gas or battery because this leaf blower runs on electricity. Toro UltraPlus is a versatile garden tool that not only acts as a leaf blower, but can also be used as a vacuum. It also has a metal impeller that shreds leaves and other debris into small pieces. Best gas leaf blower(Image credit: Image source: Amazon)The Husqvarna is a gas powered leaf blower that has a 1.1 horsepower two-bike engine. This leaf blower has a design that makes it very easy to maneuver. The inline fan housing reduces the stress on your arm and wrist making the machine comfortable to use. It comes with interchangeable flat and round nozzles as direct airflow at two different airspeeds. Best Value(Image Credit: Black & Decker)The Black+Decker electric leaf blower is a cord bend with a seven amp engine that provides a healthy 180 mph air speed. It is ideal for garden paths, hill yards and lawns. At 4.4 pounds it's a small, lightweight blow-up that you can hold in one hand. A cord retention mechanism means you won't get annoying cord hooks when you walk around your property. Best handheld leaf blower(Image credit: Poulan)This Poulan leaf blower has a powerful 25cc two-cycle gas engine capable of air speeds up to 230 mph. This leaf blower has a cruise control function and trigger-driven variable speed control attached to soft-grip handles. These features along with anti-vibration features built into their design reduce muscle fatigue and make it convenient to use. What is the best leaf blower - gas or electric? When buying a leaf blower, you need to determine whether you prefer a gas-powered or electric model. If you choose a gas leaf blower, you will need enough strength and mobility to rev up the engine using a pull cord, as it often requires a hard jerk. In addition, many gas-powered blowers consist of a two-stroke engine, which requires a mixture of gasoline and oil that you must prepare and keep at hand. If you choose an electric leaf blower, you must either remember to charge the battery before use (if it has a battery) or, for cord models, find a socket that gives you the best access to your farm. Another factor before buying is the issue of a cord tangling around objects like sprinkler heads and bushes. If you prefer total control over the speed of the leaf blower and you have a large area to cover, choose a device that offers significant power and maneuverability. If you have a smaller farm and are just planning to do the occasional simple clean-up, then one with less power and maneuverability will work fine. Nicely.
