Vladamson wrote in a review Dec 2019annapolis, Maryland117 contributions41 useful voteProfessional plays in intimate environment, never disappointed by productions in this theater. Our daughter, her husband and their two young children accompanied us to the making of the Christmas Carol. They enjoyed the production in the small theater. We sat in the front row, just a few feet away from the actors. It was a meticulous performance with the use of audio-visual effects to adjust these scenes. Highly recommended for a good night of fun. Typical prices are $50 each .... Broadway quality is on a much more intimate scale. It's a shame they don't have a bigger advertising campaign, because I think there are a lot of people in this area who don't know this theater is here. I have never been to another show there, but I highly recommend this .... Date of experience: May 2019Helena L wrote a comment on Dec. It was very personal that the audience was so close to the actors. The production was very good. He fascinated my two little sons from the beginning. Including a nice hot chocolate from the break bar. The theater is just off the main highway and has a large free parking lot, which is easy to reach. Great start to the general Christmas holiday season. ... We went to the closed West St location (summer offers in other city outdoors). There is a cocktail lounge setting while you wait for the show, you can take your drink with you. When it's showtime, you'll be escorted to the theater. The venue is small so no bad seats! The actors, the costumes, the set had all the top notch! I'm so impressed! Annapolis Shakespeare Company is a beautiful little blackbox venue, the only contemporary (and cozy) performance theatre in town, and they have a full bar with open piano and cabaret seating before productions. It also offers drama productions as well as Cabaret music. In warm weather it will often host production outside of historic places. They are a paid professional theater. If you are in town, try to get a ticket which shows what it shows .... Date of experience: September 2018 2018
