Has fallen series 3

Gerard Butler is set to reprise his iconic action role of Mike Banning in Night Has Fallen, who will be the fourth film in the hit Has Fallen franchise. Ric Roman Waugh, who led Angel Has Fallen, returns to direct the sequel to Millennium Media, which also brings back Robert Mark Kamen (Taken) to write the script. Butler and his manager Alan Siegel will produce under their G-BASE banner alongside Heidi Jo Markel of Eclectic Pictures, Les Weldon, and Millennium Media president Jeffrey Greenstein. Jonathan Yunger and Yaviv Lerner. Avi Lerner, Trevor Short and Boaz Davidson will be produced on behalf of Millennium Media. Night Has Fallen will be filmed at Millennium Media's Nu Boyana Studios in Bulgaria and throughout Europe. Image via FilmDistrict The Has Fallen franchise had a fascinating trajectory as it was initially seen as something of a rip-off of big spec selling White House Down, even if it wound up beating that big-budget Sony film to theaters. Olympus Has Fallen, however, was clearly better than that Channing Tatum-Jamie Foxx movie, which was quickly forgotten. A ghastly sequel, London Has Fallen, threatened to derail the entire franchise until Waugh got things back on track with Angel Has Fallen. The Has Fallen trip continues and we couldn't be more excited to tackle the challenge of building with our dear friends Alan Siegel and Gerard Butler on this beloved franchise. These films are driven not only by action, but by the special characters and relationships of Mike Banning and his friends, family and foes, Greenstein says. We look forward to re-teaming up with Angel Has Fallen's Ric Roman Waugh to handclapse audiences worldwide on another journey full of this touching and fun character moments, as well as unique and heightened action, and a dark turn of events that will send this next installment into a wildly unexpected trajectory. Millennium Media will launch sales on Night Has Fallen at this year's AFM. The company is also behind the hit action franchises stemming from The Expendables, The Hitman's Bodyguard, and The Mechanic, as well as Rambo: Last Blood. Millennium also produced the acclaimed indie films The Outpost of director Rod Lurie, and Tesla stars Ethan Hawke. Butler, who is busy filming Joe Carnahan's action thriller Cop Shop, will soon be seen in the disaster movie Greenland, and you can click here to watch the trailer for that film. The film stars are Gerard Butler, Morgan Freeman, Jada Pinkett Smith, Lance Reddick, Tim Blake Nelson, Piper Perabo, Nick Nolte and Danny Huston. The plot follows United States Secret Service agent Mike Banning again as he races against time to clear his name after being framed for a drone attack on the president of the United States, Allan Trumbull. The film was officially announced in October 2016 and Roman Waugh was hired in July 2017. New members of the cast were added in early 2018 and filming began around Bulgaria and the UK in February of that year. The film was released by Lionsgate in the United States on August 23, 2019. It has received mixed reviews from critics and increased $146 million worldwide. Plans for future sequels and TV spin-offs are in development. Plot Secret Service agent Mike Banning (Gerard Butler) underwent training at a military facility in Virginia, owned by his former Army Ranger teammate Wade Jennings (Danny Huston), now CEO of private military company Salient Global. He is recommended for the position of Secret Service director by President Allan Trumbull (Morgan Freeman), to replace retiring director David Gentry (Lance Reddick), but hides the fact that he suffers from migraines and insomnia and takes painkillers to deal with chronic back pain. While Trumbull was on a private fishing trip at Queen's Lake in Williamsburg, Virginia, attack a swarm of armed drones and overwhelmed his protectionist detail, with only Banning survival and rescue from the president. Both men are incapacitated, but Banning is recovering while Trumbull is left in a coma. FBI special agent Helen Thompson (Jada Pinkett Smith) is presented with evidence implicating Banning in the attack, including traces of his hair and DNA found in the discarded van used to drones, leading to his arrest. En route to a detention facility, Banning's carriage is crushed, but he escapes after killing and unmasking the attackers. 2007. as mercenaries of Salient Global with whom he participated in the training exercise. Realizing that Jennings betrayed and framed him, he calls his wife Leah (Piper Perabo), who lets her know he is alive and determined to expose the true perpetrator. The call alerts Thompson to Banning's location, leading to a car being chased by numerous police officers. Banning manages to slip away again at night, sitting out the next morning to his father's cabin in the background of White Hall, West Virginia. At the White House, Vice President Martin Kirby (Tim Blake Nelson), now acting president, reveals to the press that Banning is responsible for the assassination attempt with support from the Russian government. Banning and his father Clay (Nick Nolte) observe Salient mercenaries approaching the house on surveillance cameras. Clay detonated several explosives around the perimeter, killing the attackers as he and Banning escape. Ban reveals to Clay that he has a wife and daughter. Leah and her daughter are about to be kidnapped by Salient commandos when Clay saves them. To find the bodies of Jennings' gunmen against Clay's cabin, Thompson dilutes that Banning was set up after all. Trumbull awakens from his coma and Kirby is revealed as Jennings' secret co-conspirator, planning to get revenge for Trumbull's attempted assassination by declaring cold war II. Thompson and another agent Ramirez (Joseph Millson) meet Jennings on an airfield, but Jennings kills both of them. Ban reaches the hospital and gives itself up, but Trumbull orders his release. Banning leads Trumbull to safety with the help of Gentry and other loyal agents as Jennings destroys the hospital's ICU by increasing the oxygen and nitrogen supply to unstable levels, causing a massive explosion affecting the hospital levels. Ban shelters Trumbull and Gentry as Jennings' men pursue them. In an elaborate gun battle, Salient Global kills most of Trumbull's security detail, but Banning barriers a flank attempt and eventually the mercenaries are forced to retreat after government entailions arrived. A handful of them, led by Jennings, gather on the roof to escape in a helicopter, when the ban blasts the helicopter with a grenade launcher. Only Jennings survives the explosion, lying the two of them to battle it out. They engage in hand-to-hand struggles ending with Banning Fatally Stabbing Jennings. The rest of Jennings' men are either killed in the firefight or arrested by U.S. federal law enforcement officials. Ban is ruled out while Trumbull and Gentry arrest Kirby for treason, revealing that Jennings has detailed records of Kirby's involvement, as an insurance policy, and what Thompson is exposed, held. Clay decides to live with Banning and his family. Feel guilty about his failure to protect Trumbull and his side Banning offers his resignation, but Trumbull forgives him and offers the ban on promoting to director of the Secret Service, which he proudly accepts. In the middle credits scene, Banning convinced his father to try therapy at the Zero Gravity Center together. There they are placed in pools and float in water, exchanging comments until (and beyond) the lights go out. Cast Gerard Butler as Secret Service agent Mike Banning, Clay's son and Leah's husband, Morgan Freeman as President Allan Trumbull, the current President of the United States Jada Pinkett Smith as FBI agent Helen Thompson[5] Lance Reddick as Secret Service Director David Gentry[6] Tim Blake Nelson as Vice President Martin Kirby,[7] Piper Perabo as Leah Banning, Mike's wife. [8] Perabo replaced Radha Mitchell, who played the role in the previous films because of Mitchell's scheduling conflicts. Nick Nolte as Clay Banning, a Vietnam veteran Army Ranger/Tunnel Rat and Mike's estranged father who left him at a young age. Since then, he has taken up the woods across the US[9] Danny Huston as Wade Jennings, Mike's former Ranger teammate and the leader of Salient Global. [10] Frederick Schmidt as Travis Cole, head of security of Salient Global and Jennings' right-hand man. Joseph Millson as FBI agent Ramirez Ori Pfeffer as Secret Service agent Murphy Mark Arnold as CIA Director James Haskell Michael Landes as White House Chief of Staff Sam Wilcox[11] Chris Browning as Militia man Jessica Cobley Mike and Leah's daughter Rocci Williams as Bruno, one of Jennings' soldiers Production On October 28, 2016, was announced that a third Case installment, titled Angel Has Fallen, was in development, with Gerard Butler reprising his roles of both lead actor and producer. [12] On July 25, 2017, Ric Roman Waugh was named director. [13] On January 10, 2018, Holt McCallany was set to play Wade Jennings, an ex-military turning head of a tech company. [14] However, he later had to drop out of his role due to scheduling conflicts with the show Mindhunter,[15] and was replaced by Danny Huston. A week later, Jada Pinkett Smith and Tim Blake Nelson were confirmed and filming was scheduled to begin on February 7, 2018. [5] On February 13, 2018, Piper Perabo joined the cast. [8] On March 12, 2018, Lance Reddick was set to play Secret Service Director Gentry. [6] Aaron Eckhart, who played in the first two films president Benjamin Asher, announced that he would not be returning in his role. On March 21, 2018, Michael Landes was cast as White House Chief of Staff Sam Wilcox. [11] On January 22, 2019, David Buckley was announced as the film's composer and replaced Trevor Morris, who recorded the previous two films. [16] on Angel started in Virginia Water Lake and continued the United Kingdom[17] and Bulgaria. [18] Filming also took place at Pinewood Studios, Bray Studios, Longcross Studios and Nu Boyana Film Studios. Release The film was released in the United States on August 23, 2019. [10] Box office Angel Has Fallen grossed $69 million in the United States and Canada, and $78.5 million in other areas, for a worldwide total of $147.5 million. [4] In the United States and Canada, the film was projected to gross $13-15 million from 3,286 theaters in its opening weekend. [19] It made $7.9 million on its first day. That included $1.5 million from Thursday night's previews, the highest of the series. It went on to debut after $21.3 million, finishing first and over-performing. It was Butler's first time at top of the box office since 300 (2007), and was just below the opening of London Has Fallen ($21.6 million). [1] The film remained first and foremost the following weekend, totaling $11.8 million, as well as $3 million on Labor Day. [21] The film was finally dethroned in its third weekend, enlarging $6 million and finishing second, behind newcomer I Chapter Two. [22] Critical response To Rotten Tomatoes, the film has an approval rating of 39% based on 183 reviews, with an average rating of 5.00/10. The site's critical consensus reads: Cutting out the same rough cloth as its predecessors, Angel Has Fallen round out a mostly forgettable action trilogy in fitting mediocre fashion. [23] On Metacritic, the film has a weighted average score of 45 out of 100, based on 33 critics, indicating mixed or average reviews. [24] Audiences polled by CinemaScore gave the film an average grade of A- on an A+ to F scale, the same score earned by its predecessors, while those at PostTrak gave it an average 4.5 out of 5 stars and a 64% definitive recommended. [1] Todd McCarthy of The Hollywood Reporter wrote that the film, might not be appreciatively better than the first two installments..., but it's actually more fun — first and foremost because of a significantly entertaining turn by Nick Nolte than Gerard Butler's eccentric Vietnam vet old coot dad. [25] Ignaty Vishnevetsky of The A.V. Club gave the film a grade C, calling it a dramatic improvement, though it was critical of the action sequences, saying, they all fall victim to too much repetitive editing and not enough kinetic energy, a problem that has no amount of firepower on screen, twisted wreckage or offbeat overhead camera angles. [26] David Ehrlich of IndieWire gave the film a D+, detracting that [w]ith Nolte as his bonkers father Gerard Butler's mediocre action franchise and his mediocre American accent find a mediocre conclusion. [2] Futures In November Series producer Alan Siegel announced plans for a fourth, fifth and sixth film, as well as local-language TV spin-offs that would link up with the theater features. [27] In November 2020, it was joined by the Film market that a fourth film was in development with Butler returning titled Night Has Fallen.
